Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When playing golf and there is a foursome ahead of you, are you supposed to wait until they take their second shots before you drive off?

A. In the case of experts who have driven far down the fairway, it is proper for you to drive after they have executed their second shots. But in any event, you should always wait until you are certain your drive won't interfere with their play.

Q. Is it necessary to mail an engraved wedding invitation to a close friend who has already been invited verbally? This seems unnecessary to me.

A. It is always correct to send the engraved invitations—even to members of the immediate families.

Q. Isn't it sufficient, when introducing a man to a woman, merely to say, "Miss White, Mr. Black"?

A. Yes, with a slight pause between the names.

He reserved for himself the final decision on hiring and firing them. Senate Sidetracks Additional Power For Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday sidetracked a bill to give congressional investigators tough new powers to compel balking witnesses to testify.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Senate Republican leader, threw up the barrier against the controversial measure, designed to allow congressional groups to require testimony by granting a witness immunity from prosecution for what he may tell.

Taft announced that Attorney General Brownell has entered some objections to the proposal, but gave no details.

Taft promised, however, that "within two weeks or a reasonable time" the measure will be brought up again.

U.S. to Increase Restrictions on Wheat Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department announced Tuesday the United States will broaden restrictions against imports of wheat and wheat products other than flour on June 1 as a precaution against possible introduction of flag smut disease.

The department said its action is expected to have little effect on total imports because only small quantities of the restricted commodities are normally imported from the affected foreign areas.

Quarantine provisions now in effect against the wheat and wheat products grown in the seven countries of India, Japan, China, Australia, Union of South Africa, Italy, and Spain, will be extended to 25 other countries and localities.
