French Units Pour Back Into Laos Post

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — French Union forces, with their commander riding a jeep, poured back into Xiengkhouang in Central Laos Monday over minor Communist opposition.

Immediately after Gen. Rioual Salan, French commander-in-chief, entered the town, the Laotian chief of the province was reinstated. Some Laotian residents also returned to Xiengkhouang, which is about 90 miles southeast of Luang Prabang, Laos' royal seat.

The French Union forces started their drive for the town early Monday from the Plaine des Jarres after several battalions had advanced along the road and opened the way for an armored column.

Gen. Salan, who will be succeeded soon by Gen. Henri Navarre, personally witnessed the entire operation. Only scattered machinegun fire disrupted the advance of the union forces.

The rebel Communist Vietminh Division 304, last of four which invaded Laos some weeks ago, was reported withdrawing to its jump-off base near the coast of Annam.

French and Laotian forces reported Monday night they were still following the Reds and emphasized a battle still might take place.

However, it appeared that the final chapter of Vietminh's Laos invasion, which started several weeks ago, was being written. Neither side had brought the other to a major battle.

Belly Dancer 'Not Happy' With Oil Heir

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Shapely Egyptian belly dancer Samia Gamal said Monday she is not happy with Sheppard (Abdullah) King III and intends to divorce the Texas oil heir playboy.

The red-haired beauty of the Nile, who recently returned from a tour of American night clubs, said she had not yet started divorce proceedings, "but my mind is made up."

Asked why she wanted to wind up her marriage of 18 months, Samia told newsmen:

"Because I'm not happy with him. I asked him to give me a divorce two months after we arrived in the United States in January, 1952, but he refused."

King, who became a Moslem and took the name of Abdallah (Slave of God) to marry the internationally famous exponent of the ancient Egyptian belly dance, is in Houston. He has been quoted in the press as saying he intended to come here Friday and take Samia home.

"I have cabled him not to come," Samia said. "It's no use. I want to divorce him and I'm not going back to the United States with him."

Both were 27 when they were married in simple Moslem and civil ceremonies here Nov. 29, 1951. At one time, King's mother, Mrs. Bonner King, threatened to disinherit her son, but forgave him when he returned to Houston with his bride.

The mother died last June and left an estate of 2 1/2 million dollars.

Asked whether she would seek alimony, Samia said:

"I want to do this the nice way. I do not care for money. But if my husband tries to make trouble, he'll be sorry for it."

The dancer—and actress in Egyptian films—said she left the United States without telling King she was intending to get a divorce now. "So he let me go," she explained, with a sorrowful added comment that she had left behind all her "dresses, car and everything."

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A state of emergency was declared Monday in Northern Nigeria after weekend rioting reportedly took 20 lives and brought injury to 150 others.

Police and troop reinforcements were rushed to Kano, biggest city in Northern Nigeria, where riots started Saturday night, continued throughout the night despite a government-imposed curfew and worsened Sunday.

The trouble began when authorities cancelled the permit of ex-Labor Minister S. L. Akintola to hold a mass meeting in the "Strangers' Quarter" of Kano where some 20,000 Southern Nigerians live.

Akintola and his delegation were flown back to Lagos, chief port of this British colonial protectorate, in government plane.
