

Farm Group Prepares 'City' Water System

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman
ORCHARD HEIGHTS—An $80,000 farmers' central water system is in the final stage of organization here and 50 residents in this area hope to have "city" water service within the next few months.

Two eight-inch holes, one 187 feet and the other 297 feet deep, giving a combined flow of 112 gallons of water a minute, have been sunk and are ready to be harnessed. Final selection of reservoir sites is being made, Lester Lippert, president of the Orchard Heights Water Association said Tuesday in telling of the "farm water department."

Technically, Lippert said, the loans for the department, which are made through the Farmers Home Administration, aren't completed. But actually, he added, "everything is about ready to go into the final round."

Work on this rural water district began over a year ago with farmers making preliminary plans for organization. All engineering work was done by the FHA following application for loans.

Requirements for the loans, among other things, included a membership of 50 people furnishing 10 per cent of the entire amount needed for the building of the water system. Each of the 50 members paid a "membership fee" of $200, with the $10,000 thus raised to be combined with the $72,720 loan made from the FHA for the necessary $80,000 required to drill the wells, make the reservoirs and complete other details. The loan, made on note-payment terms, is on a 20-year basis at 3 per cent.

Exact location for the two reservoirs has not been completed, but will be as close as feasible to the two wells, one on the Glen Southwick farm and the other on the Stewart ranch. Water from the two wells has passed the state department of health tests so far as location is concerned.

While two reservoirs will be maintained, only one will be in use in the beginning. The second one will be maintained as an auxiliary reservoir in times of emergency. Auxiliary power arrangements are also being made to give members protection in times of general power company troubles.

Lippert explained that this association was formed not to furnish farm irrigation water. It is for domestic, livestock and home garden use. And home gardens, he explained, are not to exceed one-eighth of an acre per family.

Serving with Lippert on the board are Glen Southwick as vice president, Carl R. Staats as secretary-treasurer, and Amos Gries and Ross W. Clark as directors.

While the association is made up of 50 charter members in the Popcorn-Mt. View areas of Orchard Heights, a few other farmers of the area may be admitted later, Lippert said, as he explained that "each member is metered for the amount of water he uses—just like in town."

The boundaries of the area, according to Lippert, start "on Orchard Heights road, approximately 1,000 feet on the Salem side of the Mt. View School and go out five or six miles."

WASHINGTON — A second television station in Portland by late fall or early winter became likely Monday with the completion of negotiations that left Mount Hood Radio and Television Broadcasting Corp. a clear field for channel 6.

An agreement, filed with the Federal Communications Commission Monday, provides for withdrawal from the contest by Pioneer Broadcasters Inc. In return Pioneer gets an option to buy up to 50 per cent interest in the Mount Hood firm any time within the next five years.

The option is contingent, however, on Pioneer disposing of its interest in radio station KGW. This provision stems from an FCC rule forbidding parties from having an interesting two or more radio or television stations in the same market area.

Examiner Elizabeth C. Smith ordered the channel 6 hearing closed, and gave attorneys 10 days in which to file proposed findings.

An attorney estimated it would take three months after the examiner's decision to get the new television station on the air.

PORTLAND — A temporary order preventing the city from collecting a tax on dog-race betting receipts was granted here Monday by Circuit Judge Charles W. Redding.

The Multnomah Kennel Club, operator of dog racing meets here, asked for an injunction against the 1 1/2 per cent tax, which would be levied under a city council ordinance that became effective last Thursday. It said it wanted a court test to determine whether such a tax is legal.

The club said it would withhold the tax until a decision is reached. The judge set next Monday for a hearing on whether a permanent injunction should be issued.

Dowd to Open Car Repair Shop

Floyd M. Dowd, Salem auto mechanic of long standing, will open his own body and fender shop this month at 267 S. Commercial St.

The business known as Floyd's Body and Fender Shop will be located in the building formerly occupied by Martin Bros. Signs. Dowd has been with the Otto J. Wilson Co. the past 10 years in its body shop.

He expects to open the new shop about June 15.

Hearing Set on Altered Plant On Surcharge

Hearing on the merits of an amended complaint attacking the so-called 20 per cent surcharge imposed by three Oregon power companies during last fall and early winter will be open today at 9:30 a.m. before Public Utilities Commissioner Charles H. Helzell.

Involved in the proceeding are the Mountain States Power Company, Portland General Electric Company and the Pacific Power and Light Company. Plaintiffs include State Representative Monroe Sweetland, Milwaukie, and a Linn County farmers group. Helzell predicted the first part of the hearing would last two days.

A number of motions and demurrers previously were heard and veruled by the Public Utilities Commissioner.

Plaintiffs are asking that revenues from the surcharge be impounded and that the utilities commissioner examine carefully the rate structure of the three defendant power companies. It is charged by plaintiffs that the surcharge revenues increased the earnings of the power companies in excess of the normal return provided by law. This was denied by attorneys for the power companies.

The surcharge was imposed to reimburse the power companies for additional expense incurred in operating steam generating plants during the low water season. The original complaint was filed by Sweetland against the Portland General Electric Company early in the 1953 legislative session.

Grain Market Fluctuates

CHICAGO — Grains hopped about in a nervous fashion on the board of trade Tuesday, most winding up with small advances. Corn and soybeans displayed the best undertone.

Wheat was up with the rest of the market until the last 10 minutes when selling expanded and prices backed down quite quickly, leaving the bread cereal with moderate losses.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 lower, corn 1/4-1/2 higher, oats 1/4 lower, rye 1/4 higher, soybeans 1/4 to 1 cent higher and soybean meal to 18 cents a hundred-pounds lower.
