'Extra Care' Said Vital to Prize Roses

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Garden Editor, The Statesman
PORTLAND — The deep, dark true red rose, Ena Harkness, which won sweepstakes at Salem's 1952 Rose Show, was sweepstakes' winner at the Portland show which closed Friday night.

Among a fair-sized group of roses, many of them showing a somewhat weather-beaten countenance, this rose stood out, giving almost no evidence of rains and winds.

Mrs. Nat Schoen, Vancouver, Wash., who won at Salem, also showed the winning rose at this year's Portland show. Three years ago, when the national rose show was held at Seattle, Mrs. Schoen was also sweepstakes' winner.

When asked how she grew such perfect roses, particularly in a season such as this, Mrs. Schoen said that "it's just because I like them so well, I guess. I like to do little things with them."

And that, says such experts as Fred Edmunds, former curator of the national rose test gardens at Portland, and one of the sweepstakes' judges at Portland's show, "is what makes a perfect rose. You don't grow a show rose over night. You have to do 'little things' with them through the season."

Mrs. Schoen added that the Ena Harkness does stand up remarkably well under most Willamette Valley weather conditions.

Before the final sweepstakes choice was made, the judges had narrowed down to five: McGrey's Ivory (a frequent sweepstakes winner at the Portland event), The Doctor, Sweet Sixteen, Ena Harkness and Mme. Guillot. While the five sweepstakes' judges agreed on the champion, they gave a tie vote for second place in the first round, to the lovely copper-blend Mme. Henri Guillot and the gorgeous pink The Doctor, with the second round voting, giving Guillot the second place in the sweepstakes' class, and The Doctor third.

Knapp Faces Portland Trial In FBI Case

The trial of Charles Knapp who resides at Champoug in the north part of Marion County will be held next Thursday at the federal courthouse in Portland.

Knapp, who is a retired man of 70, is accused of interfering with FBI officers who came to search his home for apprehension of a deserter from the Air Force one day in November.

Knapp asserted his innocence during a call at The Statesman office. He stated he used no gun, as was claimed, but that the government agents who entered his home without a search warrant, kept a gun pointed at him and shoved him around in his own home.

As for the alleged deserter, Knapp denies having had any knowledge that the man who had been at the house just a few days while being employed by Knapp's sister, was a deserter. He declares his constitutional rights were invaded and has engaged attorneys to fight the charges.

Knapp has lived in the Aurora vicinity all his life.

Army to Close Five Camps, Shift Troops

WASHINGTON (U) — The Army Friday posted closing down notices at five more training camps and announced that two forts—permanent installations—will be declared surplus by July 1, 1954.

The Army said the shutdowns, which will disperse two divisions and shift two others elsewhere, will year after they are completed. The first year's saving is estimated at 11 million, because of the cost of moving the troops and closing the facilities.

Scheduled for closing by Jan. 1 are:

- Camp Breckinridge, Ky., 101st Airborne Training Division.
- Camp Roberts, Calif., 7th Armored Training Division.
- Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif., signal training school.

Due to be closed by June 30, 1954 are:

- Camp Rucker, Ala., 47th Infantry Tactical Division.
- Camp Atterbury, Ind., 31st Infantry Tactical Division.
- Fort Crockett, Tex.
- Fort Adams, R.I.

Sweetland Rests Case On Surcharge

A state hearing on the controversial 20 per cent surcharge on electric bills recessed Friday until 9:30 a. m. Wednesday at State Rep. Monroe Sweetland, Milwaukie, rested his case.

Sweetland, who claims the surcharge of the private power companies from December through May was unjust and discriminatory, brought the case against Portland General Electric, Mountain States Power, and Pacific Power and Light Companies.

When the case resumes Wednesday, Walter H. Evans Jr., attorney for Sweetland, indicated he might move to amend his complaint by contending the surcharge also was unlawful.

The hearing before the Public Utilities Commission so far has consumed eight days.

Girls Nation Selection, Candle Service to End '53 Girls State

Choice of two high school girls to represent Oregon at the annual Girls Nation in Washington, D.C., and a candlelight ceremony open to the public in the capitol rotunda will climax the week-long Girls State in Salem today.

Two Salem girls are among the 12 candidates elected by the 225 teen-agers attending the American Legion-sponsored "government" session at Willamette University. They are Gayle Blush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Blush and Beverly Lockard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lockard.

Weeks Slaps Opposition to Tax Line Hold

WASHINGTON (U) — Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks Friday night delivered a sharp verbal spanking to businessmen opposing President Eisenhower's request for a delay in tax relief.

Weeks, who was a Boston industrialist before joining the Eisenhower cabinet, warned businessmen in a speech at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., that unless they support the administration's "sound money" program, the result may be inflation and mounting debts which will hit them hard.

Meanwhile, signs arose that the administration is gaining strength in its uphill battle to postpone tax cuts while further efforts are made toward a balanced budget.

The American Retail Federation, a major business organization, swung to the support of Eisenhower's request for a six-months extension of the excess profits tax.

The federation—made up of 58 state and national retail associations—notified Chairman Daniel Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee that it is withdrawing from its "historic" stand against the tax to help Eisenhower's program for a "balanced budget in 1955."

The federation said that in the past it has always opposed the tax on the ground that it is harmful to the nation's economy, destructive to the growth of small business, and inequitable.

At the same time, Undersecretary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom said in a speech here that the sentiment of businessmen has turned sharply in favor of extending the excess profits tax until next Jan. 1.

Folsom indicated he found encouragement and support for the administration's stand in expressions by four major organizations of business leaders. He also said there was widespread editorial support by newspapers.

In a speech prepared for a group of manufacturers, Secretary of Commerce Weeks declared: "I solemnly warn any group of fellow businessmen that it will be tragic for them if they fail to look at the realities and at the economy as a whole."

"As a businessman in government, I am shocked to find some businessmen ignoring the financial menace hanging over this government."

Weeks' remarks appeared to be aimed at some businessmen in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers who have refused to back Eisenhower's tax program, despite direct administration appeals to them.

2 Governors To Address UO Alumni

EUGENE (U) — University of Oregon alumni will meet at a luncheon Saturday and the class of 1923 will get a double dose of speech-making.

That's because the 1923 class has two members who are governors—Idaho's Len Jordan and Oregon's Paul Patterson. Other classes will have only one speaker but the governors will each speak for his class.

The two governors were to attend a party Friday night for their class and Saturday night they, with Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Patterson, will attend an alumni dinner dance. The activities are in connection with university commencement exercises.

Judges who will grade the candidates are Miss Ada Ross, Salem high school teacher; Mrs. George Beane of the Salem Toastmasters; J. J. Ferder of the Salem Toastmasters, and Dr. C. Herbert Smith, Willamette University president. Each girl will talk for two minutes and will be judged on speech content, voice, appearance and poise.

Names of the winners will be announced after breakfast on Sunday, just before the exodus to the hometowns begins.

Grand finale, meanwhile, of the 1953 Girls State will be the candlelight ceremony with songs and formations, directed by Mrs. W. B. Small, Hood River. Formerly held outside on the capitol plaza, it will be held this year in the stair-flanked setting of the rotunda at 9:30 tonight.

This afternoon's program is highlighted with a practice court trial beginning at 1 p.m. in Walter Hall.

Of the bills introduced in the Girls State House and Senate Friday, a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 passed both legislative bodies. A bill requiring physical examinations and drivers license tests every two years for drivers over 55 years of age passed the Senate but was referred in the House.

Passed by the House was a bill to require all cities and towns to have recreational centers for teen-agers, but a similar bill was tabled in the Senate. A bill relating to consolidation of school districts passed the House but failed in the Senate. The Senate also passed legislation for tougher punishment for narcotics peddlers, and defeated a move to investigate hunting accidents.

Gregory Brannan of Pendleton was speaker of the House. President of the Senate was Mary Jo Williams, Grants Pass.
