Visitors Hospitality Week

First Entry Arrives in Tourist Promotion Slogan Contest

First entry in a tourist promotion slogan contest arrived Wednesday at Salem Chamber of Commerce offices as this city's Visitors Hospitality Week neared.

The chamber is seeking a year-round slogan to help boost the tourist and convention business. A $25 prize is offered for the accepted slogan. Entries may be mailed through July 5 to the chamber at 148 S. High St.

State Awards Portland Area Road Contract

Contract for 3.4 miles of grading and paving on the Barbur Boulevard—White school section of the West Portland—Hubbard highway three miles southwest of the south corporate limits of Portland, was announced by the State Highway commission Tuesday.

The contract went to the Rogers Construction, Inc., Portland, on a low bid of $478,685.

"We won't let it out, but it's a good one," chamber aides said of the first slogan entered.

The slogan writing is one of three contests set up for the June 28-July 5 special week planned to draw all Salem's attention to the importance of the tourist trade and what the home folk can do to make Salem even more attractive to tourists than it now is.

The other two contests will get underway next week. These are:

"Most Cordial Clerk" contest, in which selected tourists will be invited to shop in various business places of Salem daily and choose the most cordial salespersons they deal with. The chamber is arranging for such clerks' prizes as an expense-paid week end vacation, free dinners and theater passes.

"Mystery Tourist" contest, with participation by Salem residents. Certain tourists will be designated as the "mystery" persons on Salem streets. Cash and merchandise prizes will be given the Salem citizens who identify them with the greeting, "Hello, are You the Mystery Tourist?"
