Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is one obligated to give a wedding gift to a bride when one has already given her a shower present?

A. Yes; a shower gift does not take the place of a wedding gift.

Q. Is it all right for a person to compliment his bride partner who plays a hand particularly well?

A. Yes, why not? A few words of praise for his skill are not out of place. But never, under any circumstances, criticize the play, even if your partner happens to be your spouse. This would be exceedingly ill-bred.

Q. When "cutting in" at a dance, should a man lay his hand upon the girl's shoulder or arm?

A. No; he should touch her partner's shoulder and ask pleasantly, "May I cut in?"

Q. Is it really considered good taste for a man to wear a handkerchief in his breast pocket?

A. Yes, it is. The handkerchief should not, however, give the appearance of careful arrangement.

Q. Would it be proper for us to mail out announcements of the adoption of a baby, just as though it were our own child?

A. This is perfectly proper.
