NEW YORK (AP)-Sen. Robert A. Taft remained in a coma early Friday and members of the family maintained a vigil at the bedside of the failing Republican leader. A spokesman for New York Hospital said at 12:50 a.m. (EST) that the 63-year-old senator's condition was unchanged.

NEW YORK (AP)-Sen. Taft is in a comma and is failing rapidly, New York Hospital reported late Thursday night. A 10 p.m. (EST) hospital bulletin gave no further details.

Three of the senator's sons were at the hospital, where their father earlier in the evening was reported critically ill.

Only Thursday morning the Ohio Republican party stalwart had sat up on his bed and chatted with callers. At 2:30 p.m. he took his turn for the worse. Then at 5:15 p.m. the hospital said:

"Senator Taft's condition is critical." This followed by two hours a bulletin saying the Senator had taken another turn for the worse and was breathing "with marked difficulty.
