

Body Dumped Over Bridge

PRINEVILLE (AP) — An Indian, whose body was found Monday by members of the State Highway Commission when they went to inspect a bridge, was identified Tuesday as Jeff Walsey, about 42, of the Warm Springs Reservation.

Wasco County Coroner Kenneth Libby said Walsey apparently had been killed by a blow on the head and that the body then was carried to the bridge and dumped over. The Indian had been dead four or five days, Libby estimated.

The bridge was inside the reservation over Mill Creek on Highway 26.

During an ice storm in 1952, one couple who operated a dog kennel near New York City, is reported to have left their house where electricity had been cut off, preventing operation of the oil heating plant, and moved into the kennels which were heated by gas which required no electricity.

Girl Bound Over To Grand Jury as Aide in Hold-Up

EUGENE (AP) — Leta Marie Gonzales, 19, Gilroy, Calif., was bound over to the grand jury here Monday on a charge of being an accessory to the $1,500 hold-up of a market Friday night.

At her preliminary hearing, Deputy District Attorney Robert Holland said she "cashed" the store for a companion, Richard Edward Williams, also of Gilroy.

A warrant charging armed robbery has been issued for Williams, who is believed to have fled after the holdup on a California-bound freight train.

Heat Keeps Portales Free of Criminals

PORTALES, N. M. (AP) — Business is lousy at one place in this community of near 10,000 residents and the proprietor is overjoyed.

Verner Jones says it may be the heat or perhaps folks are too busy. But he hasn't had a customer in a week. He is the county jailer.

Election Leaves Canada 2-Party System Shaken

By BEN BASSETT

TORONTO (AP) — Canada still has its two-party system, but Tuesday party No. 2 was standing in need of resuscitation as well as prayer.

That party, formally the Progressive Conservatives but popularly known as the Tories, captured only 19 per cent of the contents in Monday's nationwide election. The triumphal Liberal Party won 64 per cent.

Even some Liberal voters had hoped the Tories would make a showing strong enough to provide an effective "loyal opposition" in Parliament. Monday's showing was little better than the Conservatives made in the Liberal landslide in 1949, but it still was only a whisper in the wilderness the Tories have stalked since 1935.

Minor parties from time to time have shown strength, but the Liberals and Conservatives always have been Canada's main contenders. One of the minor parties, the Socialists, this time registered a gain over 1949, taking almost half as many seats as the Conservatives. It conceivably could move into second place next election unless the Tories find an issue — and a personality.

Personality Factor
The personality factor has been a key in the Liberal's five straight victories in 18 years. First they had W. L. Mackenzie King as national leader and prime minister. For the last five years they have had Louis St. Laurent, who Tuesday at 71 stood as the supreme vote-getter in all Canada.

The people showed their trust of "Uncle Louis" St. Laurent Monday — or saw no alternative. His campaign spearheaded the Liberal victory, and he took the result as a "heartening expression of confidence" in the government he heads. The cabinet includes Lester B. Pearson, foreign secretary and U. N. president, and Clarence D. Howe, Massachusetts-born minister of trade.

Under George Drew
The Conservatives campaigned under the national leadership of George Drew, who had led them to defeat in 1949. Drew indicated Tuesday his party's Executive Committee will meet soon to consider its future — likely with another leader.

Drew lacked a vital issue, and also lacked some of the political charm St. Laurent has.

The election was for 265 seats in the House of Commons, whose majority, as in Britain, determines the government. The Liberals won 171 seats, the Conservatives 56, the Socialist CCF (Cooperative Commonwealth Federation) 23, the Social Crediters 15. Six others were scattered.

"NO STRIKE" FACT ASKED
"CHICAGO (AP) — Officials of the American Federation of Labor said Tuesday a "no strike" agreement will be negotiated in an effort to stop labor squabbles at the strike-plagued Atomic Energy Commission's huge plant at Joppe, Ill.
