Payrolls in Oregon Break All Records

Oregon's covered employment and payrolls for the first quarter of 1953 broke all records, the state unemployment compensation commission reported here Wednesday.

Nearly 18,000 employers reported $285,096,402 paid to all average 309,817 workers during the first three months of this year, showing increases of $15,337,063 and 3998 over the same period in 1952.

First quarter payrolls together with later employment reports from representative firms indicate the 1953 total may total over $1,370,000,000, comparing with $1,270,973,444 last year for an all time high.

The number of jobs indicated for July is about 40,000 higher than a year ago. Lumber and logging sparked the advance in the early part of the year but preliminary reports show employment running slightly below recent summer-time levels.

Payrolls during the first quarter of 1953 were $78,453,985, a new high, and average employment of 73,143 compared with 72,655 last year and 75,352 in early 1951.

Late reports show lumber lagging a few thousand below comparable periods but construction and food processing are more than making up the lost ground.

Traffic Case Appeal Fails

William Benz, Portland, was convicted of reckless driving Wednesday, when he appeared before Circuit Judge William Wells of Pendleton on an appeal from a Marion County District Court conviction.

In the lower court, earlier this year, Benz was fined $1,000 by District Judge Val Sloper. Sloper said he imposed the unusually heavy fine because Benz' record showed at least four prior convictions on reckless driving and involvement in a number of accidents.

Wells delayed sentencing on his Wednesday action against Benz until next Tuesday.

reports, now is ahead of last year but still below the 1951 tops. Food processing, also off to a late start because of the delayed harvests, also came back strongly last month, officials said.

Trade remained just ahead of lumber and logging with first quarter payrolls of $79,611,180, a gain of more than $5,000,000, while the number of employees was considerably higher than the timber industry with an average of 90,467.

Miscellaneous manufacturing groups also registered good increases, while service, finance, transportation and utilities also hit new peaks.

The Oregon Department of Veterans affairs has paid $49,371,574 in bonuses to 126,558 World War II veterans or their next of kin, Bonus Supervisor George A. Jones reported here Wednesday.

The figures were for the end of July. Bonus payments started in June, 1952.

From the time when bonus application blanks were available in October, 1951, a total of 130,807 veterans or survivors have applied for the benefit. Of this number, 1181 have been filed since the original deadline of last December 1. The bonus division is able to pay late claimants as a result of extension of the deadline to December 31, 1953, by the recent legislature.

Jones reported that a survey of 1765 bonus claims in the suspense file indicated that 32 percent of the veterans in this pending load have failed to submit certified copies of their discharge or separation papers to the bonus division.

Another 21 per cent have failed to fill out and return questionnaires to prove their one year's Oregon residence prior to World War II service. 23 percent are being held up until the bonus division gets reports of veterans' foreign service from armed forces military records, and 21 per cent are awaiting information from
