Well, Whatever The Reason It Was a Nice Thing

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Panhandlers and drunks have a healthy respect for Patrolman Tony Novak.

The former national amateur heavyweight champion has acquired a reputation of keeping them off Minnesota Avenue.

As he left the police station to go home Tuesday, his car stalled. A man he had arrested 12 times came up voluntarily and helped him get the motor started.

"That's turning the other cheek, pal," said Novak by way of thanks. "Turning the other cheek, hell," the volunteer replied. "I'm just trying to get you away from here."

Oysters Used To Nab Seeds

LADYSMITH, B.C. (AP)—Thousands of oyster shells are going back "into service" on the British Columbia coast. The shells are being strung together in groups of about 100 shells to a string and hung from scoops to catch oyster seed or eggs for planting in commercial oyster spawning grounds. About 15,000 strings, each weighing 13 pounds, are being assembled here.

Oystermen sponsoring the scheme hoped the attempt to gather oyster seed here will eventually make Canada independent of Japanese seed growers who now supply the bulk of oyster seeds for west coast spawning grounds.

ACCIDENT FATAL OREGON CITY (AP)—Internal injuries suffered when struck by an automobile Tuesday night proved fatal to Mrs. Alma E. Christensen, 76. She was struck while crossing a street by a car operated by Haynes N. Manley, 24, of Clatskanie.
