Only 3 Disease Cases Recorded

Only three new diseases—two cases of mumps and one of syphilis—were reported in Salem for the period Sept. 8-12 to Dr. William J. Stone, health officer. The rest of the county listed one case of virus pneumonia and one of typhoid fever. Institutions in the county reported eight new cases of tuberculosis and two of erysipelas.

Report Favors More Irrigation On State Farms

Expansion of irrigation at state institution farms near Salem was recommended Tuesday by the State Board of Control. Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Corvallis consulting engineers, made the study for the board of control. Some lands at the institution now are irrigated by wells, which are inadequate. The firm recommended that additional water be brought from the Willamette valley water company. The farms are those of the Penitentiary, State Hospital and Fairview Home for Feeble-minded Persons.

New Teachers Welcomed at Luncheon

66 Teachers Greeted at Special Fete

Salem public school officials and spokesmen for the city at large staged a big welcome Tuesday for 66 new teachers who arrived on the school scene at the Sept. 21 opening date. Other teachers will arrive Thursday. Principals, already on duty at their schools, took the newcomers in tow Tuesday after they had met with Superintendent Walter Snyder in the morning and board luncheon at the Marion Hotel at noon.

A new "hometown girls" to a veteran teacher from New Zealand. They heard the city's welcome extended after luncheon by Mayor Alfred W. Loucks, Chamber of Commerce President Russel E. Pratt, County Schools Superintendent Agnes Booth and L. J. Stewart, president of the school board who was master of ceremonies.

Among those introduced were the other school board members, Mrs. David Wright, Gus Moore, Harry Scott and Gardner Knapp. Victor Palmason, instrumental music director, played violin solo on the program.

Back Wages Await Workers
State Labor Commissioner W. E. Kimsey is trying to find the addresses of 30 persons who have delinquent pay coming to them. The amount totals $500.

He collected the money at the request of wage earners who couldn't collect from their employers. Now he can't find their addresses. The checks range from $1.58 to $81.70. The money will go to the state soon unless the claimants show up.
