Tomato Vines Yield Makings for Pickle, Preserves and Red Catsup

BY MAXINE BUREN
Statesman Women's Editor

Our recent dissertation on green tomatoes gave some ideas on using up the abundant crop of un-ripened ones. But there are many that the autumn sun has matured and we should find ways to utilize them in addition to canning.

You can can the tomatoes in slices, whole or as juice. If pressure cooking (and this is one vegetable that does not require pressure cooking), it will take 10 minutes at pounds pressure whether packed hot or cold, and it will take 5 minutes at 5 pounds pressure for the juice, unless onions are added, in which case you must process it the full time for the onions. Whole tomatoes or slices take 35 minutes in hot water bath. Use imperfect tomatoes mashed up instead of water to fill the jars.

One of our requested recipes is for ripe tomato preserves, which may be found in the Statesman Cook Book. Here it is for those who do not have the book (incidentally, there are more copies available free at The Statesman Building, or for 10c if to be mailed.)

MRS. SPRAGUE'S TOMATO PRESERVES

6 pounds ripe tomatoes 2 lemons
Sugar Few pieces ginger root
Peel tomatoes, cut crosswise once, remove as much of soft pulp and seeds as possible. Measure tomatoes, combine with an equal measure of sugar, let stand overnight. In the morning, bring briskly to a boil, cook 20 minutes and stir. Add thinly sliced lemon (and ginger root if available). Set off stove, leave overnight, stirring occasionally. In the morning bring to a boil, cook until it jells when dropped from a spoon. Put into jars and seal hot.

Tomato butter is another recipe that uses the crop to advantage:

TOMATO BUTTER

5 pounds ripe tomatoes 2 cups sliced apples
4 cups sugar 1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 lemon sliced thin 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon salt

Wash and peel tomatoes, strain and take out about 1 cup of juice. Add apples, lemon and sugar and let stand one hour. Add remaining ingredients and cook for about 2 hours or until thick. Be careful not to scorch the butter. This makes about 8 1/2-pint jars.

Here is a recipe for tomato catsup which government experts gave out several years ago.

TOMATO CATSUP

10 pounds ripe tomatoes 3/4 cup sugar
3 onions 2 teaspoons paprika
2 sweet red peppers 1 teaspoon ground mustard
1 cup vinegar 1 teaspoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon salt 1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon whole allspice 3 sticks cinnamon

Wash and slice vegetables, cook 30 minutes then press through fine sieve. Boil pulp rapidly about 30 minutes or until thick. Add vinegar, sugar, paprika, mustard, celery seed and salt, and then other spices tied in a bag. Boil until thick, stirring often. Bottle in hot sterilized jars or bottles. If latter, use new caps and dip into paraffin. Store in a dark place. Makes 1 to 2 quarts.

SILVERTON — Miss Janice Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald H. Johnson of Waldo Hills, and Bruce Mayo Reynolds of Portland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Reynolds of Webster, N. The tapers were lighted by Dorothy Oakes, Esther Brudie, Donal Lowery and Keith Johnson. Miss Helen Eern, Pendleton, daughter of Roy Eern, formerly of Silverton, was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Alf O. Nelson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white satin made with a fitted bodice and long sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with a chapel train of illusion net pleating. Her French veil of illusion was fingertip length and fell from a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of white spider and pom-pom dahlias centered with white carnations.

Mrs. Keith Johnson, Salem, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Carolyn Jernsted, and Miss Elaine Wallis of Portland and Miss Marianne Sunset of Parkland, Wash., were bridesmaids. Flower girl was Miss Barbara Borchardt, Osage, Iowa, a cousin of the bride.

The Rev. Lloyd T. Anderson officiated at the 2:30 o'clock rites. Mrs. Paul Zook was the soloist and Mrs. John Schmidt Jr. the organist. Lighting the candles were Miss Marilyn Snook and Miss Betty Aldridge of Portland, who wore green taffeta dresses.
