

Salem Firemen Ask for $30,000 in Back Pay

Salem city firemen asked the City Council Monday night for about $30,000 worth of back pay. Mayor Alfred W. Loucks said the Council would not accept the claim because aldermen didn't consider a salary adjustment of last year was meant to be retroactive. A formal letter from the Firefighters Association said firemen had expected a retroactive settlement.

Sheriff's 3rd Olympia Trip Nets Suspect

T. J. Short, of Texas, wanted in Salem on a charge of cashing over $2,000 worth of forged checks, was finally returned to Salem Monday evening by Marjion County Sheriff Denver Young.

Short had hidden behind legal barriers at Olympia, Wash., since his arrest there early last August and subsequent suspicion in the Salem check charge. He was indicted by the July Marjion County grand jury on the strength of evidence involving checks passed in September, 1952.

In a chance conversation last August with an Olympia detective, a Salem city detective learned that Short had been arrested in that city. The similarity of methods of operation led the detective to check the man and later linked him with the Salem charge.

There ensued a legal battle on the part of Short's attorney who filed for a writ of habeas corpus claiming there was no proof that Short was actually in Salem in September, 1952. During this time Sheriff Young and city detectives made two trips to Olympia, returning without their man. Young succeeded Monday. The sheriff also brought Leo Theodore Petz, 510 N. 17th St., also wanted in Salem on a check charge.

Sawyer Sells Bend Bulletin To Californian

BEND — The daily Bend Bulletin will have a new owner Oct. 3 after 35 years of publication by Robert W. Sawyer and Henry N. Fowler.

Purchase of the newspaper by Robert W. Sawyer, formerly of Palo Alto, Calif., who for the past year has been editor of the Stanford Review, was reported Monday.

Chandler for several years has been identified with newspaper, press association and advertising interests. A graduate of Stanford, he was Northwest business representative for the United Press with headquarters in Portland before Army service in World War I. After his discharge, he was on the staff of the Denver Post four years, then with a Denver public relations and advertising firm. He was one of the founders and first secretary of the Colorado professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Sawyer, a member of the Bulletin staff since 1913 and publisher since 1919, will remain with the paper in an advisory capacity. Fowler, associate editor since 1916, will remain as a member of the paper's executive staff and continue operation of the Bulletin's job printing department as the Fowler Printing Co.

Permit for Home Issued

Construction permit for a $12,000 home at 750 N. Church St. was issued Monday by the city engineer's office to Guy Miles. Also issued Monday were permits to Calvin Steward, alter carpenter, 2220 Electric Ave., $900; Chris Madson, wreck garage, 590 N. Summer St., $50, and Mrs. Lois Watkins, re-roof dwelling, 1935 E. Nob Hill, $250.

DeMolay Elects Three Councilors

Three Salem boys were elected councilors at the Monday evening meeting of the Chemeketa Chapter of DeMolay at the Masonic Temple.

Chosen were Milton McDaniel, master councilor; Ralph Sipprell, senior councilor, and Gilbert Stewart, junior councilor.

Installation will be held at the Oct. 12 meeting of chapter at the Masonic Temple.

260 Honor Retiring OSC Dairy Expert

BY LILLIE L. MADSEN

Farm Editor, The Statesman More than 260 friends and members of the Oregon dairy industry gathered at the Senator Hotel Monday night to pay tribute to Roger Morse who is retiring as extension dairy specialist at Oregon State College after 30 years in that work.

Following a buffet dinner, at a brief formal program, Morse was presented with a large television set and funds for its installation. Making the presentation was Arthur Ireland, Forest Grove, past president of the Oregon Dairyman's association.

"No one realizes better than the past presidents of this association what Morse has done for the group," Ireland said in making the presentation. "I haven't missed a meeting in 25 years and during all of that time Morse served as secretary, directing the program and giving the presidents who came and went, confidence in their work."

There's a void at the college in our department of which we are all conscious. We have come to depend upon Morse and we do not like to think of going ahead without him," Frank Ballard, assistant director of agriculture at the college told the group. He added that "while Morse won't be on the payroll, we'll continue to use him, and I personally congratulate him upon the service he has done for Oregon agriculture."

George Fullenwider of Dayton was master of ceremonies, and P.M. Brandt, head of the dairy division at the college, also responded to a call for a brief talk. Like the others, Brandt spoke of his years of association with Morse.

Attending the dinner were dairymen and other friends from Tillamook, Portland, and throughout the Willamette Valley, and a number from Eastern Oregon who had attended school with Morse, had been his students at the college, or had been associated with him in the dairy industry.

Harold Ewalt, a member of the extension dairy staff since 1944 and who succeeds Morse, assisted in the evening's arrangements.

Lot Offered for Lions-Scouts Building in Keizer

KEIZER—A lot in the 600 block on Chemawa Road is being donated to two Keizer organizations for the construction of a building to house meeting places for both, according to M. J. Pillette, president of the Keizer Club.

The Lions' Club and Keizer Boy Scout Pack 41 will both have meeting places in the building, he said. The 125x200 foot lot is being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Onas Olson, 665 Chemawa Road.

Within four minutes after a 10:30 a.m. alarm had sounded at West Foods Mushroom plant, 4949 E. State St., about a mile from where the fire truck was parked, the volunteers had water on the blaze.

Tar in a melting machine had caught afire while workmen were re-roofing a building at the plant. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze and reported no damage.

Firemen Quick To Quell Blaze

FOUR CORNERS — Volunteer firemen here made something of a record for themselves Monday morning.

With four minutes after a 10:30 a.m. alarm had sounded at West Foods Mushroom plant, 4949 E. State St., about a mile from where the fire truck was parked, the volunteers had water on the blaze.

Tar in a melting machine had caught afire while workmen were re-roofing a building at the plant. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze and reported no damage.

"Homemaking classes seem to have attracted the widest attention of adults," Porter explained, "and may necessitate additional instruction times." Closed to further enrollment after Monday's turnout was the lampshade making class. Also, described as exceedingly popular is the class in drawing and sketching.

Warning Issued Against Excessive Use of Vaporizers

PORTLAND — The State Board of Health Monday issued a warning against improper use of insecticide vaporizers. Harold M. Erickson, state health officer, said the vaporizers should not be used in homes or sleeping areas, and a ban has been placed on their use by hotels and auto courts.

He said the vaporizers are safe only when used in commercial or industrial establishments where persons are not exposed to the fumes more than eight hours.

Warren Said Likely Choice For Court Spot

WASHINGTON — The belief grew in Washington Monday night that California's Governor Earl Warren has been tapped by President Eisenhower for the U. S. Supreme Court — if he wants the job.

It was still an official mystery, but the flurry of week-end conferences at Sacramento and the White House seemed to point up the widely held opinion that Warren will be named either chief justice or associate justice.

The court is scheduled to convene for its fall term next Monday. If the President wants a full court sitting for the start of the year's business, he must act this week.

Warren's availability has been more or less taken for granted ever since he announced earlier this year he would not seek reelection in California.

Attorney General Brownell, meanwhile, kept a tight lid on the nature of his hurry-up trip to the West Coast Saturday to confer with Warren.

Salem Legion Posts Conduct Installations

Installation of officers for American Legion Capitol Post No. 9, Women's Post 49 and auxiliary unit to Capitol Post No. 9 were held at the American Legion hall on S. Commercial St. Monday night.

Special guests of the Legionnaires were Secretary of State and Mrs. Earl T. Newbury, H. B. Lichtenhaler, district 2 commander from Dayton and John Muir, Mill City, district 2 vice-commander.

Capitol Post No. 9 installed John E. Wood as commander; Daryl Donaldson, first vice commander, E. D. Spencer, 2nd vice commander, and E. E. Zahradine, adjutant.

Women's Post No. 149 installed as commander Mrs. L. Lester Perry; Mrs. T. D. Graham, vice-commander; Mrs. William Joiner, 2nd vice commander, and Mrs. Sabena Morison, adjutant.

Taking office in the auxiliary unit to Capitol Post No. 9 were Mrs. T. J. Brabec, president; Mrs. Lue Lucas, first vice-president, and Mrs. Glenn Holman, 2nd vice-president. Chosen as unit executive board members were Mrs. Earl T. Andresen, Mrs. Clarence Blaxall and Mrs. Veda Craig.

Kelly Owens installed Capitol Post No. 9 and Women's Post 149 while Mrs. Stanley Krueger installed the auxiliary unit to Post No. 9.

Citizens Ask Revisions in Zoning Code

PORTLAND — Smog control in Portland is a city problem, not one for the state, the Oregon Air Pollution Authority said Monday in a letter to the City Council.

The Council will hold a public hearing Oct. 13 on an anti-smog ordinance. Robert E. McKean, manager of the Columbia Empire Industries, has said industrialists will oppose the ordinance on the ground that smog control is a job for the state, not for the city.

Curtis M. Everts Jr., secretary of the state authority, said it does not have enough funds to handle municipal as well as county and statewide pollution problems.

But none of the major principles of the new zoning plan came under attack, and neither Mayor Alfred W. Loucks nor Zoning Commissioner Robert Stanley who headed the revision committee, had reports of any such opposition to bring before the Council. In fact, both officials said after the hearing they have come to feel that the new code is generally accepted in Salem.

The objections Monday night at the City Hall hearing, like the citizens' opinions heard at many zoning meetings in recent months, concerned the particular zone classification or given individual properties or small neighborhoods.

Aldermen promised to give all suggestions their consideration, but some members indicated they would not like to act without hearing from others in a given neighborhood not touched on in previous hearings.

Zoning Chairman W. W. Rosebraugh and Mayor Loucks decided that next step in the zone legislation would be a joint meeting of zoners and aldermen Oct. 12 to go over the final appeals.

The new code established many new zone categories so that transitions are more gradual in the use of property allowed under the zoning. Also incorporated in the code are required off-street parking, minimum lot sizes, vision clearance, street setbacks and many other features.

Portland Smog City Problem, State Contends

PORTLAND — Smog control in Portland is a city problem, not one for the state, the Oregon Air Pollution Authority said Monday in a letter to the City Council.

Sec. Benson to Oppose Dodd

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Monday he will not support the reelection of a New Deal Democrat, Norris E. Dodd, as director general of the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). Instead, Benson announced he will seek the election of Dr. F. V. Cardon to the post Dodd has held since 1948. Now a director of the Agriculture Department's graduate school, Cardon formerly headed the department's Agricultural Research Administration.

Friends here said Dodd has indicated no desire to step out of the U. N. post when his term expires late this year. The job pays $18,000 a year, tax paid. Presumably, Benson's decision stems partly from Dodd's criticism of U. S. technical farm aid programs.
