Rollin' Along

With Jerry Stone

Jeff Cravath, the former pigskin maestro at SC, calls onetime Oregon skipper Jim Aiken a martyr in a current column article... Aiken, says Cravath, was frank and open in his violation of conference proselyting rules and adds that fellow coaches admired Jim for that frankness because they themselves were doing the same thing under the table... The ex-Trojan head man readily admits that he was as guilty as the rest in methods employed to lure prize prep prospects, but at the same time deplored the questionable practices which then and still are common at the various schools...

JIM AIKEN
Called a 'Martyr'

Football remains close to Cravath's heart, but he says he is mighty happy in his current business of raising cattle. That, he mentions, is because "cattle don't have alumni"...

In case some of you local pin-men think this is going to be your really big season and you wanna know what to aim for, the all-time ABC three-game series mark is an 886, made by Allie Brandt of Lockport, N. Y., back in 1939. Brandt got it with games of 297, 289 and 300... Think you can do it?...

It isn't just winning that counts with Salem High's Lee Gustafson; he still thinks of those kids. For instance, Lee boosts those senior players of his at every opportunity, for he'd like to see 'em considered for that Shrine game of next summer. He knows that being voted into a classic like that is a mighty big event in a youngster's life...

Aiken's Imprint Still Lingers

Oregon's Jim Aiken, mentioned above, may be long gone from the coaching game, but the guy would have gotten quite a kick last Sunday if he had been near a TV set and watched his ex-stars, Norm Van Brocklin and Woodley Lewis, lead the rout of the Detroit Lions... Genial Jim can rightfully feel he has left his imprint upon the game...

The tide is running strong against the dike and it's highly doubtful that the Coast League will be able to block much longer the invasion of the major loops... The Cubs and LA Angels joint-

Kiser Goes to Draw...

Kindred Takes Mat Win As Lindsey Fouled Out

Don Kindred came out of his mat mainer with Luther Lindsey the winner last night at the Armory. But the fans didn't much care for the way in which the burly Negro nasy got the nod over the tank-like and popular Luther. He won it via what Referee Frank Fagety called a foul.

The disputable call came in the second fall after Kindred's punishing head butts had disposed of Lindsey in the first canto. Kindred was again using his head butts to advantage. In fact he got in a couple of dandies while Lindsey was attempting to climb back into the ring. These were allowed by Fagety for some reason.

Then when Lindsey figured he had enough of the head-achers, he grabbed Kindred from outside the ring, lifted him in a terrific full nelson, climbed up the ropes in one corner and held the dangling Kindred aloft, with feet dangling. Luther was still outside the ring, however, and Fagety decided to count him out.

Few fans and Lindsey thought the ref would get the match to Kindred. But that he did, despite protests from all corners, and from the much more deserving Lindsey.

In the special event Jack Kiser used 15 seconds for a flying drop kick and body press to get the first fall over George Drake. Then Drake tied it up with a hip lock of the ropes with just one minute left to go, climaxing a fast-moving and well-receiving mix. Drake was subbing for Eric Pederson, who appeared in one of the prelims instead.

Pederson is suffering from a nasty boil on one knee, which slowed him down considerably. Not enough to keep him from spilling young Doug Donnan in the prelim, however.

In the opener Fagety and Sugi Yamaki went to a no-fall draw. Kurt von Poppenheim didn't appear as booked. He was given permission to wrestle in Seattle, where a load of injuries almost forced cancellation of a Tuesday night card.

Sparts Prepare Aerial Defense

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The San Jose State College Spartans worked hard Tuesday developing a pass defense which they hope will stop the University of Oregon aerial game Saturday.

Coach Bob Bronzan, who expects the Oregonians to do a lot of passing, worked his squad on the new defense in a long scrimmage and said that Wednesday the Spartans would work on some new offensive maneuvers, plus some work on kicking under pressure. Missed kicks have been costly for the Spartans in their last two games.

RAIMONDI RELEASED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Baseball club has given unconditional releases to two veterans, Catcher Billy Raimondi and infielder Murray Franklin. Raimondi has spent 21 years in the Pacific Coast League, 17 1/2 of them with the Oakland club.

Bob Ashby Elected to Senators Board of Directors

Drive to Collect Stock Money Starts

Salem Senator stockholders elected a new member to the board of directors, listened to the ball club's financial report for 1953 and looked forward to the 1954 Western International League season last night during the annual meeting at the Union Labor Temple.

As expected, Ben Pade's resignation was announced during the session. His successor, elected by a wide majority, is Bob Ashby, State Employees Association official and one of the top baseball boosters in the area.

Also re-elected by a unanimous ballot was George Paulus, whose one-year term as a director expired last night. Paulus has been an exceedingly valuable asset to the organization as a director, proof of which was provided by his impressive re-election.

Pade had served as a director for three years. The press of other business forced his resignation, it was reported.

Other directors Bruce Williams as president, Russ Bonesteele and Tom Holman have additional terms to serve as a result of last year's elections.

Williams gave a lengthy report on the recent league meeting at Yakima, and optimistically told the group that he and the other directors were convinced that 1954 could be made into a good year for Senator baseball.

Paulus submitted an elaborate financial report, a compilation of 156 hours of work. It disclosed that the Senators of this year, despite one of the worst breaks in weather conditions, lost only $3,987.05 in actual cash. At least two other clubs in the WIL dropped well over $50,000 during the season.

Paulus also revealed ways and means the club might make additional income next year, one being the taking over of the concessions which have been operated in past seasons by the Oregon Sportservice (Jacobs Brothers).

Manager Hugh Luby also gave his annual report on the club from the standpoint of the playing field.

It was also announced that club officials will today begin collecting the almost $30,000 pledged during the stock selling drive during the season. Hank Clark is in charge of the drive and will announce the method of collection, as well as the distribution of the stock certificates within the next day or two.

Over $6,000 has already been collected, and is in a special and untouched fund at the bank. When the full total is in, the $20,000 owed the Portland Beavers for the franchise and Waters Field will be paid in full. The balance will be used to pay up other outstanding bills and to finance 1954 spring training, which likely will be held at the local ball park rather than in California.

Although attendance was rather slim for last night's meeting, 1,013 of the 2,000 shares of stock now existing in the ball club were represented either in persons or via legal proxy.

Duck Gridmen In Scrimmage

EUGENE (AP) — The University of Oregon Ducks went through a full scale offensive scrimmage Tuesday for their game here Saturday with San Jose State.

Coach Len Casanova said the team will be at full strength at guard this week for the first time this season. Jerry Nelson, sidelined with a bruised leg for three weeks, has returned to the lineup.

Game of the Week... Large Throng Certain For Vik-Spartan Game

One of the largest Salem football crowds in many years is likely Friday night at Waters Field when the undefeated Vikings, owners of six straight victories, battle their district biggie with the Corvallis Spartans, themselves winners of five out of six games this season. This is the game that most folks feel will send its winners in to the post-season playoffs as representative of District 8 A-1.

Garrett Voted Back of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanford's Bob Garrett, whose "unconscious" passing attack knocked UCLA out of the undefeated ranks last Saturday, earned The Associated Press Back of the Week designation by his 21-point scoring feat.

Garrett edged out Bernie Faloney, Maryland's ball-handling magician, who, for the second straight week, barely failed to make the No. 1 spot. Faloney suffered an injury early in Maryland's one-sided game against North Carolina and managed to cover it up, but the coaches finally detected it and took him out after he had engineered three touchdowns.

Garrett's performance drew rave notices from his own coach, Chuck Taylor, and from Red Sanders of the beaten UCLA Bruins. It was Taylor who said Bob "just got unconscious" as he tried to tell how Garrett maintained his poise and throwing accuracy under pressure as he completed 18 of 27 passes.

Middie Eleven Takes Lead in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Navy's 65-7 outburst against Princeton Saturday shot the Midshipmen to first place among the nation's major college football teams in scoring, to second in total offense and third in rushing, figures of the NCAA Service Bureau showed Tuesday.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz' Middies, rolling up the highest score of the season in a game between major teams, raised their four-game averages to 38 points, 392.5 total yards and 275.3 yards on the ground.

Navy trails Utah's 401.2 in total offense, and Illinois' 322 and Kansas State's 279 in rushing.

The figures show there is an unprecedented house-cleaning taking place among statistical leaders. Among the 10 top teams in total offense, rushing and passing, and the top five in scoring, there are only three repeaters from 1952.

They are Maryland, sixth in total offense and tied for tenth last year; West Virginia, fourth in rushing and eighth a year ago; and Fordham, passing leader a year ago and last week, and now game average of 179 yards after

Puzzling Briton 11-5 Underdog In Middle Title Scrap Tonight

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, a busy ring mechanic from Hawaii and San Francisco, Tuesday remained a solid 11 to 5 choice over Britain's unpredictable Randy Turpin in Wednesday's 15-round bout for the world middle-weight championship.

The two capable contenders will meet for the crown, vacated last year by Sugar Ray Robinson, at 10:00 p.m. (EST) at Madison Square Garden. The nation will watch and listen on CBS radio and television although New York and a 75-mile area will be blacked out of the TV picture.

Olson's sparring training methods at Grossinger, N.Y., confused Turpin's first fight will be aired over KOIN-TV starting at 7 o'clock PST.

Irish Retain Vote Pinnacle But Lead Cut

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK (AP) — The Midwest vs. South football rivalry, which has grown to considerable proportions this season, reaches a showdown stage Saturday when the nation's top-ranked college team, Notre Dame, encounters fourth-ranked Georgia Tech.

Those two sections dominate The Associated Press ranking poll for the fourth week of the 1953 season with Notre Dame clinging to a dwindling lead.

The top ten, chosen by the ballots of sports writers and broadcasters, includes four Midwestern teams — Notre Dame, Michigan State, Michigan and Illinois; three from the South—Maryland, Georgia Tech and West Virginia; two from the Southwest — Baylor and Oklahoma; and a lone Eastern team — Navy.

For the most part, they're staying right in their own sectors for this weekend's games. That leaves it up to Notre Dame's Irish, who have topped the rankings since the start of the season, and Tech's Engineers, who have crept up to fourth place, to settle the inter-sectional argument.

Irish Less Impressive
Although Notre Dame came from behind to whip Pittsburgh last Saturday for its third straight victory, that performance evidently impressed the experts less than the scoring feats of the next three teams on the list. The Irish polled only 57 out of 134 first place votes — as compared to last week's 74 — and 1,153 points this week.

Michigan State, another come-from-behind team, did it for the 12th time in a 28-game winning streak to beat Indiana, 47-18; Maryland romped over North Carolina, 26-0, for its fifth victory of the season, and slow-starting Georgia Tech hit a 36-6 scoring peak against Auburn to run its non-losing streak to 31 straight.

As a result, Michigan State drew 31 first place votes and 1,107 points; Maryland 27 and 1,004 and Georgia Tech 3 and 769.

Two new teams climbed into the first ten, displacing a pair of one-point losers. Oklahoma took ninth place after a 45-0 rout of Kansas and Navy's 65-7 shelling of Princeton gave the Midshipmen tenth.
