Pen Officers To Retrieve Captured Con

Two State Prison officers will leave here this morning to return Raymond H. Smith, 44-year-old gabby escaped convict who was recaptured in a telephone trap in San Francisco early Friday morning.

Smith called a prison guard at his Salem home at midnight Friday and tried to get a loan as well as make a "deal" about turning himself in.

Smith told San Francisco police: "I was ready to give myself up, any place, any time."

The guard told Smith to call back in 15 minutes, then notified Warden Clarence T. Gladden. State police were contacted and they in turn called San Francisco police.

A telephone trap was laid for Smith and when he called back the operator in San Francisco gave Smith the busy signal in order to enable police to close in.

The guard said the last he heard from Smith was: "They're closing in on me. I didn't think you'd turn me in. Guess I'll be seeing you in a few days."

Smith, a trusty for several months, escaped Sept. 28 in a prison truck. He had been a regular truck driver. The truck was found later in Portland.

Smith was sent up from Multnomah County in 1948 for forgery. He had three years to serve. Warden Gladden said he would bring charges of escape against Smith when he was returned here late Monday.

Eugene Union Defendant in New Charges

Carmen A. Gilbertson, owner of Paul Bunyan Burger in Eugene, filed new charges Friday with State Labor Examiner Fred G. Scherer against Culinary Alliance and Bartenders' Union, Local 643, Eugene.

Scherer set a hearing for Dec. 2 at the Eugene City Hall. The complaint charges illegal picketing under the 1953 law which prohibits picketing unless the union is recognized as bargaining agent.

Scherer held a hearing on Sept. 1 on similar charges brought by Gilbertson, but dismissed it for lack of evidence.

Bouse is accused of drowning his wife in a bathtub. Her body was found by a neighbor. He was tried and convicted of first-degree murder in the Douglas County Circuit Court and was sentenced by Judge Carl Wimberly, who presided at the trial, attorneys for Bouse appealed.

WRECKAGE OF STAYTON MAN'S PLANE FOUND
SEATTLE (AP)—The Washington State Aeronautics Commission reported Friday that wreckage of a small Oregon-registered plane had been found by a hunter in the Cascade foothills east of Wilkeson, about 40 miles southeast of here.

Robert Nuber, assistant director of the commission, said the single-engine Taylorcraft was registered to Stanley Clifton, Stayton, Ore., and was purchased by Clifton from the Salem Air Service in November, 1950.

The wreckage was identified by numbers on the shattered wings. The fuselage was missing and no bodies were found. The hunter's discovery, Nuber said, was made late last month and investigated by the commission.

Nuber added that his office had never received a report that the plane had been lost in a flight over this area.

(At Salem, John Hughes, former owner of Salem Air Service, Friday recalled selling the plane to Clifton but did not know the man's present address. There was no record of Clifton at Stayton where it was presumed he had long-since moved away.)

RENEWAL FORM FOR CHAUFFEUR LICENSE USED
Oregon drivers wishing to renew their chauffeurs' licenses must fill out a renewal application form this year, the Secretary of State's license division reminded.

The renewal form must be used instead of filling out the reverse side of the current chauffeurs' license itself, officials stressed. Officials said this would avoid delay in processing the application and issuing the new permit.

All chauffeurs' licenses expire Dec. 31 of each year, while regular drivers' licenses expire every other year on the birthday of the holder.

The chauffeurs' license renewal fee is $1.

Driver Finds Friday 13th Unlucky Day

Friday the 13th was an unlucky day in Municipal Court for 20-year-old Jack Lee Oster of Salem.

He was fined $300 on two traffic charges, had his driver's license suspended for 18 months and was jailed in lieu of paying the fines.

The two traffic charges dated back to Sept. 25 when Oster was pursued in a high-speed chase by city police, but managed to escape when he stopped the car and fled on foot.

Warrants were obtained for his arrest charging reckless driving and driving while his operator's license was suspended.

But police were unable to serve the warrants until early Friday morning when they were called to a Salem home which Oster and two other men allegedly refused to leave.

Police arrested Oster on a disorderly conduct charge after the warrants were served. Police said he ran from the police car, but was quickly caught and handcuffed.

Officers also accused him of using obscene language in the presence of women witnesses and being noisy.

Oster was also charged with attempting to strike a police officer later at the station. Police said they had to forcibly escort him to a jail cell.

He pleaded innocent to the disorderly conduct charge yesterday morning and trial was set for Nov. 27. He pleaded guilty to the two traffic offenses.

One Juvenile Of Dynamiter Suspects Held

One juvenile, out of about 30 involved in dynamite bombings in the area of Donald since Halloween night, has appeared in Marion County Juvenile Court.

Chief Deputy Wayne Stevenson said Friday that he suspected about 10 of the youths were actually involved in the matter, "but many were at the scene strictly as spectators."

About a half case of dynamite was taken Oct. 31 from the farm of Merle Traxler, located about seven miles north of Hubbard in Clackamas County. Marion County deputies have been working on the case since in conjunction with Clackamas County officials. It was concluded that the dynamite has since been exploded at different times in a field north of Donald.

Three other youths from the Donald area were recently brought to Marion County Juvenile Court for breaking street lights. Fathers of the boys made restitution.

NOON DEADLINE FOR OVERSEAS PARCEL MAIL
Those who have overseas parcels to mail and hope to have them delivered by Christmas must mail them by noon today, Postmaster Albert C. Gragg warned.

Overseas-bound packages to servicemen and others mailed today, are guaranteed delivery by Christmas, Gragg said. Those mailed later may reach their destination by Christmas but the postoffice cannot guarantee it, Gragg said.

Gragg also reminded that applications for jobs as extra postal clerks and carriers for the Christmas rush will be accepted at the post office building beginning Wednesday.

Job-seekers, Gragg said, may apply at room 209 on the second floor of the post office.

BLAZE GUTS PHARMACY
PORTLAND (AP)—Loss was estimated at $20,000 from a fire which swept through a southeast district pharmacy and damaged an adjoining television shop here Friday. A defective electrical outlet was blamed for starting the blaze.

All chauffeurs' licenses expire Dec. 31 of each year, while regular drivers' licenses expire every other year on the birthday of the holder.

The chauffeurs' license renewal fee is $1.

Profit From Prison Work Ruled Illegal

State employes can't profit from contracts for work by Oregon State Prison convicts, it was ruled in a written opinion Friday by Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton.

His opinion was directed to Leo Spitzbart, on whose land prunes were picked this fall by prison labor.

Wrote Thornton: "The intention of the Legislature to prohibit any state officer or employe from being directly or indirectly interested in any contract or work upon which convicts are employed is absolutely clear."

"The Legislature has provided no criminal penalty for violating this particular law but such a contract would be illegal notwithstanding this fact. To uphold this transaction would be to approve that which the law expressly condemns."

Thornton said he was notifying the prison warden and division of audits of the Secretary of State that since this contract was prohibited by law no payment thereon is authorized.

However, Thornton didn't go into the question of whether the prison can buy and harvest crops on land owned by persons not employed by the state. He had no comment about this practice.

For many years, the prison has bought fruit, vegetables and berries from farmers, using prison labor to harvest them. This produce is used for inmates of state institutions.

Thornton said he is working on an opinion about this practice.

Nelson Case Continued in District Court

The case against Jack McReed Nelson, 22, of 685 Court St., who was arrested by Portland police, was continued to Tuesday in Marion County District Court Friday.

Nelson is charged specifically with larceny and was being held Friday in lieu of $3,500 bail. He was granted continuance to consult counsel.

The local charge involves a car Nelson allegedly stole from Salem. He reportedly abandoned this auto and stole another in Portland in which he attempted to avoid arrest by Portland police Wednesday. A chase ensued and Nelson sideswiped a car and crashed into a guardrail on the super highway under the east end of the Ross Island Bridge.

Police said the Salem car, abandoned in Milwaukie, belongs to Thomas Smith, 660 Hawthorne Ave.

A number of public schools in Salem District 24-CJ have slated open houses next week, according to the active schedule released by the administrative offices Friday.

A PTA meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Swegle School and first grade parents at Pringle School will meet at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

NORFOLK FERRY SURVIVES

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The ferry system that has linked Norfolk and Portsmouth for more than 300 years continues to operate boats across the Elizabeth River despite a sharp drop in revenues since a tunnel was built between the two cities in 1952.

Suggestions For Gifts to Patients Told

Christmas needs of patients at Oregon State Hospital were explained Friday by hospital authorities to aid friends of inmates in making gift selections.

The hospital emphasized that it makes every effort that each patient receives a gift and urged that presents be personal.

The following items were suggested for men: shaving soaps, talcum and lotions, hair oil, combs, pipes, tobacco, cigars, ties and clothing.

For women: cosmetics, permanent wave sets, curlers, toiletries, jewelry, stamped needlework, crochet and knitting materials and clothing.

For both men and women: soaps, wash cloths, combs, candies, games, jigsaw puzzles, magazine subscriptions, new books, playing cards, dentifrices, dictionaries, records, musical instruments and sheet music.

Persons are asked to mark their packages "man" or "woman" and state what each package contains.

Gifts may be dropped off at the old administrative building on Center Street at the switchboard, first floor, 24 hours a day, said Ida Boehmer, hospital librarian.
