Top Baseball Hands in Draft

Dillinger, Bearden, Sisler, Fox on List

NEW YORK (AP) - Anybody want to purchase the Pacific Coast League batting champion for only $15,000? A former big league 20-game winner for $10,000? A no-hit hurler for the same fee or an ex-$50,000 bonus player for $7,500?

These and many others can be acquired at the annual major league draft on Nov. 30 in Atlanta. The draft list, compiled and issued by the commissioner's office, contains some 1,500 minor league players to choose from. Some old, some young. Some may be bargains, some busts. All are a gamble.

Last year, for instance, 11 players were drafted at a cost of $120,000 - a slim total by comparison. Only six managed to last out the season and none distinguished himself to any great degree.

First call goes to the American League's newest entry - the Baltimore Orioles - by virtue of the switched-St. Louis Browns' last place finish in 1953. Next comes Pittsburgh, the National League cellarites, and so on through to the world champion New York Yankees, No. 15 and the National League pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers, 16th and last.

The Pirates, who had first call last year, chose pitcher Elroy Face, as their first selection and picked two more pitchers, Bob Hall of Seattle and John Hetki. All managed to stick.

This year's crop includes such familiar names as Bob Dillinger, Clint Hartung, Gene Bearden, Don Kolloway, George Muxer, Randy Gumpert, Howard Fox, Bob Holloman, Alvie Clark, George Wilson and Dick Sisler.

The list includes a number of good "new faces," too. As usual, Montreal and St. Paul, Brooklyn's Triple A farm clubs, are loaded with promising hotshots. Under the rules, only one from each club can be drafted, unless the player is designated as subject to unrestricted draft.

Dillinger, former third base star with the Browns, may be worth a gamble. The bespectacled Sacramento veteran led the Pacific Coast League with a .366 mark in 171 games. He can be had for $15,000, the open classification (Pacific Coast League) price.

Other PCL eligibles include Dixie Restelli (.340 at Portland), Dixie Upright (.306 at Los Angeles), Fred Richards (.26 homers at Los Angeles), and pitcher Royce Link (22-10) at Portland.

Sixty-five PCL players are ineligible to the draft, having signed Gene Bearden, whose 20 victories enabled the Cleveland Indians to win the 1948 American League flag, can be purchased from Charleston of the American Association for $10,000.

Bobo Holloman, who hurled a no-hitter in his first major league start with the Browns in 1953, can be had from Toronto for $10,000.

Price range from $15,000 for players in the PCL to $10,000 for players from Triple A leagues; $7,500 from Double A clubs, $6,000 in Class B, $2,500 in Class C and $2,000 in Class D.

Antenna Trouble Plagues TV Station

PORTLAND (AP) - KOIN-TV engineers were busy Monday trying to end antenna trouble that interrupted telecasting Saturday night and impaired the signal Sunday to some areas outside the immediate Portland vicinity.

Howard Lane, managing director, said technicians hoped to complete adjustments Monday night but that it may take until Tuesday afternoon.

It is estimated that the United States produced 2,291,997,000 barrels of crude oil in 1952.

West Accuses Soviet Union of Avoiding Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Western powers accused Russia Monday of seeking to avoid negotiations on Germany, Austria or anything else "which might have positive results."

In separate, but identical, notes delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow, the United States, Britain and France also rejected as "totally unacceptable" Russian price for entering into a Big Four foreign ministers conference on Germany.

Officials here regarded these latest notes as winding up an exchange with the Soviet which began last July on the possibility of a Big Four meeting on Germany. In the course of this exchange the Soviets developed two major demands.

Other PCL eligibles include Dixie Restelli (.340 at Portland), Dixie Upright (.306 at Los Angeles), Fred Richards (.26 homers at Los Angeles), and pitcher Royce Link (22-10) at Portland.

Sixty-five PCL players are ineligible to the draft, having signed Gene Bearden, whose 20 victories enabled the Cleveland Indians to win the 1948 American League flag, can be purchased from Charleston of the American Association for $10,000.

2nd Century Papers Linked To Christianity

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - Acquisition of important manuscripts dating back to the 2nd Century which may shed new light on the early history of Christianity, was announced here Monday by the C. G. Jung Institute.

The institute, headed by the eminent psychiatrist, Dr. Carl Gustav Jung, acquired the manuscripts in May, 1952, with the financial aid of George H. Page, an American living in Switzerland who is connected with the Nestle Food Products Co. The purchase price was not disclosed.

On Upper Nile
The documents will be known as the Jung codex and were part of a collection discovered by Egyptians at Nag Hammadi on the upper Nile in 1946. Some of the others are in the Coptic Museum in Cairo.

Dr. Gilles Quispel, professor of ancient Christian literature at the University of Leiden, who has been in charge of work on the manuscripts, said they are fairly well preserved, though some pages are missing.

Coptic Script
Although they date from the 4th Century and are in Coptic script, he said they are actually translations from Greek texts written in the middle of the 2nd Century by Valentinus, founder of one of the most important gnostic schools, or by one of his students.

Gnosticism was declared unorthodox by early Christians and died out. It emphasized reliance upon personal experience in knowing God and in exploring dreams and the conscious and unconscious.

Quispel said the manuscripts contain four different texts, the most important of which probably is "Gospel of Truth." He quoted one passage from it: "And it is good that man should return to himself and awaken."

He said the manuscripts could be of "very great significance" in studying the books of the New Testament.

Nehru Warns Against U.S., Pakistan Pact

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Prime Minister Nehru served notice on the United States and Pakistan Sunday that any military pact between them would "have some very far-reaching consequences in the whole structure of things in south Asia."

Nehru, who stated earlier that India would consider U. S. military aid to Pakistan an unfriendly act, discussed at a news conference reports from abroad that the United States was considering arms aid for Pakistan in return for bases.

The Prime Minister said "things seem to have gone pretty far" and expressed surprise that "this major development should take place in the way it apparently is taking place."

He added that India has taken the matter up "rather informally" with Washington.

One was that before the Russians join a Big Four conference there should be a Big Five conference on international tensions, with Red China participating.

The other demand was, in the words of Monday's American note, a western Europe rendered "defenseless" by the abandonment of the whole anti-Soviet security system.

Russia has been so insistent on bringing Red China into great power councils that there is some belief among the experts here now that Moscow has committed itself to avoid any important meeting until the Chinese are included.

It is this, it would appear that Premier Georgi Malenkov would not agree to the kind of top level talks which Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain may push to the forthcoming Bermuda conference of the Big Three, and which President Eisenhower considers unwise.

American officials take the position that the Russians knew the conditions they laid down were impossible and that for various reasons important to the Kremlin they simply did not want to negotiate at this time.

The Western governments decided that the efforts to arrange a Big Four conference would get nowhere, but they felt, officials here said, that it was necessary to send the Soviets one more note to make clear where the blame for failure rests.

The note ended with this assertion: "The United States government is convinced that negotiations on these vital problems (Germany and Austria) would open the way to broader agreement and would thus improve the chances of re-establishing real peace in the world."

McKay Said Inconsistent on Hells Canyon

WENATCHEE (AP) - Sen. Henry M. Jackson Monday declared Interior Secretary McKay "has jumped over on the other side of the fence" in withdrawing the Interior Department's intervention on Hells Canyon Dam.

"While a state senator in the Oregon Legislature, McKay voted in favor of federal construction of the Hells Canyon high dam, the Washington Democrat said.

"And as governor of Oregon, he concurred in his engineer's findings that it should be a federal project. Now he withdraws the Interior Department's intervention before the Federal Power Commission, and then makes a speech in Portland advocating that the Idaho Power Co.'s three low dams be built."

McKay also lambasted the intervention in the Hells Canyon hearings before the FCC by Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington State.

"It's inconceivable that the governor of the state of Washington should side with a program which will give power to Idaho and take it away from his own state," the senator asserted.

"In our power and resource development program we have always worked for the entire region, and federal, multiple-purpose dams have been the keystone of our efforts. Now the governor favors a project which doesn't even give any power to his own state."

The public power program of the administration is the "biggest mess of them all, as far as the people of the state of Washington are concerned," Jackson said.
