

Beavers Again Down Hawaiians 55-50

Souths Defeat Norths 63-61 in Marion B Jamboree

Sunday sorties:
Members of the Oregon football team, last-minute recruits for the Webfoot basketball jayvees and the early-week jaunt to Coos Bay for the Portland University date, had the crowd in stitches with their heater-skitter court antics, as one would imagine. After the prelim was over, Ath. Director Leo Harris looked at Hal Reeve, Don Hedgpeth, Dick Mobley, Cece Hodges, Farrell Albright, et al, and muttered, "If they'd had that much snap in the Oregon State game we'd have murdered the Beavers." For the first time in years, there are no Negroes on Mush Torson's Portland U Pilots team. But the veteran mentor is quick to add, "If you happen to know where there's a good one, just lemme know." Another outstanding candidate for next August's Shrine benefit football game would certainly be Charlie Snyder, Central Hi (Monmouth-Independence) halfback. His coach, Sam Bell, offers the following data on the kid, who is a solidly built five-foot, eight-inch who weighs 162 pounds: During 1953 he scored nine touchdowns on runs of 48, 58, 69, 62, 57, 65, 69, 28 and 16 yards, and tallied another with a pass. He had a net of 698 yards in 62 carries for an 11.3 average, carried 11 punts back for 217 yards, scooped another 69 yards with two intercepted passes, and returned 12 kicks for 151 yards. Also, Snyder played linebacker on defense. During track season he's a sprinter, and Coach Bell sincerely believes the kid is worthy of a berth on the Upstate squad next fall. From the looks of his achievements for the season just completed, we'd certainly say so also. . . . The town baseball Senators may not get the best of the shuffling in the 1954 playing schedule, and then again they might. Hugh Luby is again making up the who-plays-who chart for the WI League. . . . Albany and Corvallis aren't the only prep cage quints in the valley owning six-foot, eight-inchers. Hank Kuchera at Eugene has come up with one also in Mike Moran, a center who measure just about even with that astronomic level. Little wonder one H. Hauk isn't resting too comfortably these evenings. . . .

BRONKO NAGURSKI
His 'pass' won title.

Nagurski-Once Upon A Pro Title
The pro gridders will soon be in their championship playoff battle and more new heroes will be born. But we wonder how many will remember a pro playoff of a good many years ago, one in which both Bronko Nagurski and Red Grange were the men of the hour.
It was after both great grid heroes had completed their collegiate footballing at Minnesota and Illinois, respectively, and were playing on the same team, the Chicago Bears, who were at the time beginning to sport the colorful handle, "The Monsters of the Midway."
The Bears were to play the Portsmouth Spartans for the championship, and the game itself was a scoreless brawl for well over three quarters. Grange had been trying to run the Portsmouth ends all afternoon, and Nagurski had been smashing at the Spartan middle. Neither could score.
Then with only a few fleeting minutes left in the struggle, Grange went wide on a flanker while the Bronk squatted at his fullback spot, awaiting the snap from center. The Portsmouth team of course figured it would be another booming plunge by the ex-Gopher giant.
But Nagurski instead faded back and threw a pass, which was indeed a novel item in his grid make-up. Grange was his target in the end zone. But two Portsmouth defenders were also there to cover the halfback, and all three made a mad grab for the ball as it came down. One of the Portsmouth men gave it quite a bat and all figure the pass would go incomplete when Grange, because of the jam-up, fell flat to the turf on his back.
But lo, the flying oval came down smack atop the fallen Grange's chest, and that's as far as it got. He grabbed it and therein scored the touchdown that won the playoff game and the professional football championship that distant year. . . .

Paul Riley Deserved Place on Team Also
Four OCE gridders were named to the Oregon Collegiate Conference all-star team today, and three of them unanimously. But from what we saw of the Wolves in three of their games last season, at least one lad was gyped. He's Paul Riley, the sophomore guard from Salem's Sacred Heart Academy. Paul was named to the second team, but for our money he deserved a first-line berth if any of the rest of 'em did. . . . Also, we'd gladly pay double to see any small-college halfback on the recently announced "Little All-American" team who could match strides with Linfield's Ad Rutschman. They just don't come any better than Rutschman in the small-college ranks. Yet his name was among the missing in the compilation for 1953. He was certainly a "Little All-American" to anyone who saw him play, that's for sure.
Any all-star team is always second-guessable because of the manner in which they are selected. They do so many injustices to kids who rightfully belong on them, but who get lost in the publicity shuffle. They're nice to have, for they make for some dandy reading and arguments. But they are seldom a compilation of the very best, as they should be. . . .

Four OCE Wolves Land On All-League Eleven

Four members of Coach Bill McArthur's Oregon College of Education Wolves football team, champion of the Oregon Collegiate Conference for the fourth straight year, have been named to the circuit's all-star squad, it was announced by the voting coaches Saturday.
The four: End Arden Detering, dynamic 137-pound freshman from Independence who amazed all with his ability despite his small size; Tackle Ray Hubbard, 185-pound junior from Taft who was unanimously chosen; Guard Ray Cummings, 180-pound junior from Salem who was also unanimously selected; and Halfback Charlie Pinion, 170-pound senior from Reedsport who was the class of the league with his rushing. Pinion led the conference in scoring and rushing.
The three OCE stalwarts were the only unanimous selections.
Other first-team picks were Frank Good of Eastern Oregon at end, Sam Haina of Portland State at tackle (Haina is a former Willamette U player), Floyd Prinz of Oregon Tech at guard, Lyell Metcalf of Eastern Oregon at center, and Larry Jeter of Oregon Tech, Lorenzo Savage of EOCE and Jerry Garrett of Portland State as backs.
Center Junior Grassman, Guard Paul Riley and Halfback Darrell (Mouse) Davis, all standouts for the Wolves during their big season, were named to second team berths. Grassman is from Gervais, Riley from Sacred Heart Academy of Salem and Davis from Independence.
Other second teamers: Don McIntosh of OTI and Gene Rider of Portland State at ends; Gene Bolen of EOCE at tackle; Charles Wagner of OTI at guard; Chuck Becker of Portland State at center and Norm Fenton of Portland State, Odie Canada of OTI and Dale Stewart of Portland State as backs.

Gervais Shows Class; Saints, ODS Victors
"All ten Marion County B League entrants showed their basketball wares Saturday night in the annual jamboree held on the Willamette university gym floor. The South, represented by Mill City, Seaside, Jefferson, Detroit, and Gates, edged the Northers from St. Paul, Sublimity, Gervais, Chemawa, and Oregon School for the Deaf, 63 to 61.
Mill City opened the South attack by dumping St. Paul 18 to 7 in the first of the five 10 minute periods. Al Ward was top scorer for the Timberwolves with six, while Charles Merten's 3 points was tops for St. Paul. Mill City's 18 was the best team scoring effort of the evening.
Sublimity, with Ron Bentz leading the way with 6 points, topped Seio 12 to 7. Dain led Seio with 4.
In a well played set-to the Gervais Cougars handed Jefferson a 15 to 10 defeat. The Cougars definitely established themselves as a threat to the league with their well balanced attack. Top scorer was Gib Thompson with 8, while the Lion's best was John Wright's 3.
Detroit, Nips Indians
The final two periods provided the crowd of some 1,200 noisy fans their most exciting moments as Detroit beat out Chemawa 13 to 11, and OSD edged Gates 16 to 15. John Barnhardt of Gates tied for high point honors for the night with Gervais' Thompson as he accounted for 8 of the Pirates' points. Dave Maynard was top scorer for OSD with 6, and Pat Morin tallied 5 for Chemawa. Detroit's scoring was about equally distributed among five players.
Following the basketball action, trophies for the recently completed football campaign were presented to first place finisher Gervais and runnerup Jefferson. Trophies were also given to Mill City for the best rooting section and Jefferson for second place in the cheering competition.
All ten teams swing into the league's double round robin schedule on Tuesday night.

Schuster Signs As Seattle Coach
SEATTLE — The Post-Intelligencer reported Saturday night that Bill Schuster, veteran baseball player whose service has ranged from major to minor leagues, will be coach for the Seattle Rainiers next year.
Schuster's signing was announced in New York by Gerry Priddy, Rainier manager, who said the 37-year-old ex-infielder knows the Pacific Coast League well and was a competent base runner — qualifications deemed desirable by Priddy.
Schuster was out of baseball this year after serving two years as manager of the Vancouver Capilanos in the Western International League.

800 Expected at Armory . . . Huge Viking Luncheon Tribute Slated Friday

A turnout of around 800 persons is anticipated next Friday when the city pays homage to one of the greatest football teams in Salem High School history at a noon luncheon at the Armory. The fete will be a fitting token of appreciation for the deeds of a 1953 Viking eleven which went through its schedule unbeaten and then advanced to the semifinals in the State playoffs before bowing to Central Catholic.
All service clubs of the city plan to cross regular meetings in order that all can attend the event. That includes the local Chamber of Commerce.
A number of dignitaries are due to attend, including Coaches Len Casanova of Oregon, Kip Taylor of Oregon State and Ted Ogdahl of Willamette. Casanova, Taylor and Ogdahl are scheduled to render verbal tributes to Coach Lee Gustafson and his Vikings.
Gustafson also will fill a speaking role as will one member of the Salem team, who will acknowledge the tribute on behalf of his teammates. Mayor Al Lotucks will act as emcee.
Bill Byers, general chairman for the luncheon, announces that tickets are now on sale at Nohlgren's Cafe at $1.25 apiece. Byers adds that in deference to some religious denominations, there will be a choice of fish or meat on the menu. The meal, incidentally, will be a full-course one.
On the entertainment side, music will be provided by the Salem High pep band under direction of Vic Palmason.
The SHS Art Club will handle the decorating of the Armory for the huge event.
Expectations are that at least 15 various organizations will turn out for the function.

Houston Stuns Vols, 33-19

HOUSTON, Texas — Houston's Cougars had a lot of trouble with Jimmy Wade, a brilliant Tennessee tailback, but used ball control behind a surprisingly powerful line to upset the favored Volunteers, 33-19, in a homecoming inter-sectional football game Saturday.
Wade scored all three Tennessee touchdowns, two of them on runs of 60 and 63 yards, but his single-handed efforts could not prevent Houston from scoring one of its greatest victories in eight years of football.
Quarterback Bobby Clatterback scored the first Houston touchdown from the 18 after halfback Ken Stegall had returned a punt to the Tennessee 20. Stegall then put Houston ahead at 13-6 scoring from the eight after a fumble recovery on the Vol 35.

Halbrook's 29 Sparks State

Gill's With Sweeps Series Wins Rainbows
CORVALLIS — Wade Halbrook, seven-foot three-inch center, scored 29 points to lead Oregon State to a 55-50 basketball victory over Hawaii here Saturday night.
The victory gave the Staters, who won 75-54 Friday night, a clean sweep of the two-game series here.
Halbrook's 29 gave him a total of 49 points for the two games. The contest was tight and Oregon State had to stall during the final three minutes to protect its narrow lead.
The Islanders held the advantage until well into the third quarter mostly on the shooting of Al Manlingius who led his team in scoring with 17 points.
Count Knotted
Halbrook tied the game in the second quarter with a short hook shot, but Fred Furukawa sank a basket to put Hawaii ahead again. Hawaii retained the lead at the half, 27-26.
In the third quarter Halbrook made three quick points on a jump shot and a free throw to put Oregon State ahead for the first time.
Halbrook's free throw and a rebound basket gave Oregon State its final lead in the closing minutes. Ron Robins finished off the scoring for OSC with three consecutive free throws. Then Oregon State went into a stall to protect the margin.

BOSTON — Fabulous Bevo Francis boosted his current season's four-game total to 176 points by scoring 41 Saturday night as he paced little Rio Grande College to an 88-87 victory over Providence College in the feature of a Boston Garden intercollegiate basketball doubleheader.
While Francis was sparking his teammates from Ohio to their first 1953-54 victory over recognized college opposition, he equalled a Boston Garden individual scoring record set by Seattle's Johnny O'Brien in 1952.

Net Fishing Ban Proposed

CORVALLIS — Robert Urban, a Corvallis sportsman, told the Oregon Wildlife Federation Saturday that petitions will be circulated soon calling for a law to ban net fishing in all Coastal streams in the state.
Urban made the announcement after presenting results of a study which showed a decline of salmon runs in the streams.
Other speakers at the conference included: Lyle F. Watts, chairman of the Oregon Water Resources Commission; State Rep. John Amacher, Roseburg; Clark B. Walsh and C. J. Campbell, both with the State Game Commission.
George Gleeson, dean of the school of engineering at Oregon State College, spoke at a Saturday night banquet.
The conference was to close Sunday with a brief business meeting.
