Both Academy Quints In Road Commencers

The six-team Capitol League basketball romp gets under way Friday night with all six members going postward for the eight o'clock commencers, Salem Academy will be at Stayton, Sacred Heart at Central and Philomath at Cascade in the openers. What with Stayton, Cascade, Socred Heart and Central all boasting reputable teams, prospects for a sizzling title scramble are evident. Also, Salem Academy could bounce into the championship picture if the Crusaders continue to improve as they did in December.

All but two of the teams' go into the openers with a preleague record of more wins than defeats. Only John Newman's Philomaths have failed to win at least as many as they've lost to date.

Warren Schue's Central Hi Panthers have a 44 record, with victories over such teams as Dayton, Sheridan and Forest Grove

Leo Grosjacques' Sacred Heart against three losses, the victories including Woodburn, Mt. Angel cost them ball games. and Silverton of the Willamette Valley League.

The Crusaders, mentored by Bob Funk, have won three and lost three. Waldport and Taft are among their victims.

Cascade High's Cougars own a Jefferson and North Marion.

The Stayton Eagles sport a snappy 6-3 record, with two of Linfield Old Grads Tournament in December. The Eagles include among their victims Silverton, behind the Pioneers. Dallas, Sheridan and Mill City, the latter the class of the Marion County B League to date.

The Beavers are now busily preparing for their conference openers here Friday and Satur-day nights with Idaho.

For their first 10 games, seven of which have been wins for OSC, the Beavers have averaged 69.2 points, to 60.9 for the opposition. The scoring:

Tomorrow night's game between the Willamette Bearcats and the Whitman Missionaries in the 'Cat gym will be one of three to usher in the Northwest Conference 1954 basketball derby. Pacific and Lewis and Clark will have a home and home pair Friday and Saturday and College of Idaho will debut at Linfield. Both the Wildcats and Bearcats will be hosting the same opponents again on Saturday, and will switch foes for Monday night mixes.

With four of last years All-Star quintet back in action the Conference race looms as a high quality free-for-all with very little chance for a runaway by any one team. The returning honor men are equally split up between four schools, with only Willamette and Linfield being minus a Star holdover. The Bearcat's Dick Mase is the lone missing topnotcher from t' 2 '53 mythical five, and they may well wish they had the rubber-legged forward before this season's over.

Tops in talent are the Missionaries, who will be starting four lettermen along with All-Conference Dick Fain. Sharp shooting Don Robinson will provide the Whits with enough points in any game to make them a threat. Robinson didn't join the team until the spring semester last year, and they won 9 of their last 12 games. The Walla Wallans had an overall record of 13 and 12.

This corner is forced to pick Coach Bob Burgess' Missionaries as number one title contenders for '54. The Fain-Robinson combine has already dumped Gonzaga (including Jerry Vermillion). This weekend's play should tell the story pretty well, for the Whits have had their troubles getting points in the State Street gym in recent years. So if they can handle the always rugged John Lewis coached 'Cats they'll be on their way.

Willamette potentially is a contender, and as long as Lewis is calling the shots they can be dangerous. But they've appeared too slow in recent games to be tabbed championship calibre. The Linfield-C of I Coyote tussles should once more prove the Idahoan's R. C. Owens is the best in the loop when it comes to stuffing the ball through the hoop. Linfield looks to be the weakest link in the conference, depending on Dave Sanford for most of its scoring punch. The Coyotes ought to be about on par with Willamette, Lewis and Clark, and Pacific.

Pacific, with Norm Hubert, and the L & C Pioneers, with Ken 5-3 mark, and Lyle King's crew Servas, are the remaining two teams with returning Star hoopers has defeated Silverton, Sheridan, Lewis and Clark has had trouble getting started this season, and while the defending champs won't give up the top spot without a fight, the company is mighty rough this year. The Badgers draw our vote as the most likely darkhorse in the race. The defeat handed the losses having occured in the Portland U. by Coach Harvey Roloff's hustlers should be an alarmin ghint to his brother coaches to watch out for the Forest Grove team.
