Women Enroll For PEV Course

Final details for setting up a Polio Emergency Volunteer corps to serve the community in case of polio outbreaks have been worked out here it was disclosed by Elmer Church, chairman of the Marion County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The medical and nursing staff of Salem Memorial Hospital will supervise instruction of the PEVs.

The PEV course will include lectures in which the disease, its nature and after-effects, will be discussed. The lecture and demonstration sessions will be open to the public.

Qualified volunteers accepted for PEV training will receive instruction in general bedside care, preparation and application of hot packs and handling of patients. Women may enroll for PEV training if they are 25 years of age or older and have had training in home nursing, in good health, and comparatively free of the more exacting home responsibilities. There will be several courses of home nursing given before each PEV course.

Selected candidates will be given an intensive training course at Salem Memorial Hospital upon completion of which they will be qualified to assist physicians, nurses and physical therapists in the care of polio patients. By taking over routine nursing tasks PEVs will release physicians, nurses and physical therapists for their more highly skilled and urgent duties. PEVs will also serve as an information source to the entire community.

Those interested in enrolling for the polio emergency volunteer corps are asked to call Mrs. Grant Rogers, chairman of women's activities, or Mrs. Theodore Jenny, PEV chairman.
