St. Joseph's Setting for Nuptials

Mss RosaLee Coffel and Conrad Booze exchanged their marriage vows at St. Joseph's Catholic Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Coffel and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Booze, all of Salem.

The Rev. Joseph Vanderbeck performed the nuptials before a setting of snapdragons and stock and white tapers. The alternate pews were marked with blue bows and white flowers. Soloists were Miss Lorraine Nelke and Gerald Neitling, Mrs. Raymond Barton was the organist.

The bridal gown was of lace and net with a lace bodice fashioned with long sleeves and a full floor length skirt of net enhanced with side panels of lace. Her fingertip veil was caught to a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Mary Ann Fischer was the bride's only attendant. She wore a mist blue gown with velvet bodice and net skirt. She carried a cascade of white camellias. Brother Is Best Man

Some of you may be sur-prised now that you've just thrown your old damask draperies out, to know that damask as a decorating fabric is returning to the spotlight again. They were just starting to be shown last fall, and now this season the fabric lines would be incomplete without a selection in both drapery and up-holstery weight. Some are small textured damasks, some large elaborate designs. One this morning was a coin dot size woven of silk cotton and velon—a rubber fibre—which kept the raised design in perfect tautness.

Colors shown this season have accented soft, luscious pinks and other pastels, much emphasis on charcoal and copper shades woven together in subtle color combinations. It's really exciting to view all these new and lovely things and to plan ways to use them when they arrive in a few weeks.

By the way, I'm taking a winter vacation this year, and although I plan to write one more article from my desk here at Roberts, by the time you read next week's Memo, I will be far away in sunny Hawaii! I'm planning to continue my notes to you from there—thought you'd like to hear about the soft breezes and the grass skirts—but will see you yet next week.
