Openings for State Office Jobs Scarce

Very few state jobs remain unfilled, the State Civil Service Commission said Friday, and several agencies have a surplus of applicants.

Commission officials said that resignations of state employees has dropped sharply during the past few months and attributed this largely to the new retirement law approved by the 1953 legislature.

With the exception of nurses, virtually all jobs at the Oregon State Hospital have been filled and a surplus of applicants exists, officials said. Warden Clarence T. Gladden reported he had a full complement of guards and the State Highway Commission said the road construction program is ahead of schedule. Until a few months ago a shortage of engineers hampered highway construction, commission officials said.

Some stenographers, typists and nurses are still in demand at state agencies, the commission reported, and the tax commission recently announced it could use a few additional accountants. A few highly technical jobs were reported open in the Public Utilities Commission.

Badged Guard At Haymes' House Door

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Crooner Dick Haymes and his actress wife Rita Hayworth again have a man with a badge standing guard outside the door—only this time they're not home.

The owner of a furnished house they leased here last fall claims they owed him $675 back rent and also damaged the house and furnishings.

A sheriff's keeper took up his watch Friday over their personal belongings which were attached to insure payment of the claims.

The owner, Joseph Kraeler, is preparing a suit seeking $5,000 damages in Common Pleas Court at Bridgeport.

Earlier, Kraeler got an eviction order against Rita, who signed the lease, for non-payment of rent. This was withdrawn when the couple paid up for December and agreed to pay $675 for the six weeks period ending Monday, Kraeler said.

In New York, the attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Haymes, Bartley Crum, said he plans to file a $100,000 damage suit next week against Kraeler.

Last week Rita and Dick were barricaded for 24 hours in their New York hotel suite with deputies outside the door trying to collect $33,000 Haymes' former wife, Joanne Dru, says he owes her.

The siege was finally lifted after a lawyers' conference and an on-account payment rumored to be around $4,000.
