IT SEEMS TO ME

By Charles A. Sprague

The last Washington state legislature set up a state power commission, with powers so broad as to be rather vague. The commission has been set up and one of its first items was an application for a group of PUDs to be given authority to join in building a dam at Priest Rapids on the Columbia. So far as we know the commission has not given its decision on this.

The Northwest power pool already disturbed by the change in government policy got a further agitation this week with the publication in the Oregonian of what appeared to be a call by the Washington power commission for all the federal developments. The Oregonian protested this as a power grab creating a real threat to Oregon.

J. Frank Ward who is managing director of the Washington power commission disclaimed any such purpose, in a talk at a Tacoma meeting of the Northwest Public Power Commission. He said his body is not interested in firm power but in secondary or dump power. That disclaimer hardly conforms to the text of the letter the commission wrote to Bonneville Administrator Pearl, which read in part:

City Prisoner Leaves Early

A city police prisoner, given work at the dog pound, took advantage of the great outdoors Friday and escaped from custody. He is identified as Odie Franklin Scott, 44, whose physical description is 5 feet, 10 inches, 144 pounds, hazel eyes and brown hair. He had been fined $20 and sentenced to five days in jail on a drunk and vagrancy charge. Police reports indicate he had worked off $18 of his fine and the judge had ordered suspension of the five day sentence when the fine was paid.

Two-Tone Police Car on Duty Now

Salem police have a "new look" effective Friday with a two-tone downtown police car replete with a white siding near the doors. Chief Clyde A. Warren explained that the car is to be used exclusively in the downtown area 24-hours a day. He said the car would be operated primarily in traffic control.

Ike Sets 'Fears' Speech

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE
WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced late Friday that President Eisenhower will go on television and radio Monday night for a half hour discussion of "fears" and "concerns" of the American people. In announcing the decision, press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President had spent a lot of time thinking about the subject of "fears" and believed he should discuss it with the people. Eisenhower will speak from 9:30 to 9 p. m. (EST) over NBC, CBS and ABC television networks, with Dumont probably joining in. The NBC, ABC and Mutual radio networks will carry the speech at the same time, and CBS from 10:30 to 11 p. m.

Asked if the two speeches would be related, Hagerty said "Yes, because one of the concerns the President will discuss is the concern of communism in this country." On Radio, TV He added that the President will tell the people, in his Monday night speech, that he has asked Brownell to give a detailed report on what the Justice Department and the courts have done toward "breaking up" the Red conspiracy. Eisenhower will speak from 9:30 to 9 p. m. (EST) over NBC, CBS and ABC television networks, with Dumont probably joining in. The NBC, ABC and Mutual radio networks will carry the speech at the same time, and CBS from 10:30 to 11 p. m.

Two Choices Faced by Ike, Adlai Claims

By LATHAN MIMS
CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, charging "we have been cheaply distracted long enough," declared Friday night that President Eisenhower "will have to make his choice between uniting his party and uniting his nation."

Sack Indicted For Death Of Third Wife

PORTLAND (AP)—George F. Sack, 57, whose first two wives met violent death in Chicago in the 1920's, was indicted here Friday for the death of his third wife. The county grand jury, after deliberating a day and a half, returned an indictment charging that he killed Mrs. Goldie Sack, 36, on Feb. 16 "by placing her in a closed trunk compartment of an automobile, whereby she was asphyxiated."

Mrs. Sack's body was found Feb. 18 under a bush across town from the apartment house Sack operates. He had reported her missing the night before. Sack has denied knowing anything about her death and refused to talk about his past life. Sack's first wife died in a fire. He was charged with the fatal shooting of his second but was declared insane. He spent several years in an Illinois hospital before his release in 1932.

Ike's Housing Plans Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Friday night killed President Eisenhower's proposal to build 140,000 public housing units in the next four years, and then pushed through an omnibus housing bill incorporating many other features of the administration's housing program. The Eisenhower plan for new public housing was defeated in a showdown roll call vote, 211 to 176, with Southern Democrats joining many Republicans in opposition to the idea. Bandit Goes Too Far; Loses All His Gain

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Walter L. Wilson, Kansas City cab driver, figures you should go just so far with people—even a bandit. A holdup man first took $12 from Wilson. Then he requested Wilson's $15 watch. Next the bandit took Wilson's coat. "I like those shoes," he said, "take them off." Wilson leaned over, removed one shoe, then swung a hay-maker with it, striking the bandit in the face. The man fled.

Thief Puts Shoes on Other Foot—His Own

State police were left a bit of evidence in the Thursday night burglary of the J. Ashcraft dwelling at Turner Road 2, in that the culprit evidently took a shine to a pair of the owner's shoes and traded him—leaving his own. Taken as well were a leather jacket, pillow case and a sleeping bag. Entrance was gained by forcing a door.

Ex-Lincoln Sheriff Charges Intimidation

NEWPORT, Ore. (AP)—Ex-Lincoln County Sheriff Timothy Welp charged Friday an investigator for Atty. Gen. Robert V. Thornton tried to "intimidate" him in connection with the present grand jury investigation here. Thornton denied this vigorously. Welp went before the grand jury investigating reports of vice and corruption in the county. Welp, who had not been subpoenaed, asked to testify. He was sheriff from 1945 to March, 1953, when he resigned, giving ill health as the reason. Welp told a newsman that the investigator, Harvey I. Burch, came to his home Sunday and told him the investigation is "a very big thing and involves a lot of people."

Police Probe Detroit Area Auto Mishap

By JAMES BURR MILLER
Staff Writer, The Statesman
DETROIT—Mystery shrouded a sudden plunge over a 100-foot embankment one mile west of the Detroit Dam Friday afternoon which carried one Grant County prisoner to her death and injured three others, occupants of the car. Killed outright was Mrs. Opha Clement, 35, en route to the State Penitentiary at Salem to serve a one year sentence for manslaughter. In critical condition and in a coma at Santiam Memorial Hospital in Stayton is Grant County Deputy Sheriff Earl Cummins. Doctors explained at 1 a. m. today they could only give him "about a fifty-fifty chance to survive." It was the third fatal mishap in the county for 1954. Least injured was Oscar Holland, 28, brother of Mrs. Clement, who was being transferred to serve a life term at the prison for second degree murder from Grant County. He and county matron Mrs. Patricia Elliott were considered in "fair" condition early this morning. Holland was being kept in a special room of the hospital at Stayton under night-long vigilance of Marion County deputies. Deputy, Matron in Front Holland told officers that he and his sister were riding in the back of the four-door vehicle belonging to Deputy Cummins. Mrs. Elliott said that she was riding in the front of the auto and was suffering from car sickness. She said she was lying on the front seat with her head in the deputies lap. Neither Holland nor his sister were manacled. The prisoner said that they were traveling along a relative straight stretch of roadway (Highway 222) when the car suddenly swerved to the right, struck gravel and then veered to the left and went over the embankment. No Skid Marks Investigating officers were somewhat confused Friday night by the absence of any apparent skid marks or ruts in the gravel to substantiate Holland's explanation of the car's action prior to going over the bank. They said there were no skid marks or deep ruts in the soft mud at the peak of the incline to indicate any attempt by Cummins to stop the car. The auto, described as a total wreck, showed no signs of mechanical failure or tire blowout, officers said. Injuries to the three survivors include lacerations about the body and head for Holland; shock, bruises and lacerations for Mrs. Elliott, and possible head concussion, fractures and internal injuries for the deputy. Heard Crash No witnesses observed the auto plunge down the bank, but dam workers heard the crash and arrived at the scene in time to administer first aid to the survivors until the arrival of the Stayton ambulance. En route to Salem from Canyon City, Grant County seat, Friday night was Sheriff Robert Damon. Convicted of Slaying Holland, a Seneca logger was convicted Jan. 10 of the knife slaying at John Day of Braskell M. Wright, 30, also of Seneca, last Halloween. Holland pleaded self-defense. Wright was stabbed eight times as he sat in the car with Holland's wife and other persons. Mrs. Clement, formerly of Canyonville, also was accused of manslaughter in the knifing. She pleaded guilty last Wednesday and was sentenced to one year in the prison. Mrs. Clement was the mother of four children ranging in age from 6 to 11 years. SIGN AID FACT KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan and Turkey Friday signed their heralded pact of mutual aid in defense and economic spheres.

Red Forces Threaten Key French Fort

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The stout French fortress of Dien Bien Phu was in grave danger Friday night of being swallowed up in a massive rip tide of Communist-led Vietnamese soldiers. They smashed to within a mile of the heart of the defenses from two directions. Heavy French counter-attacks, aided by tanks, for a brief time removed one of the immediate threats to the heart of the fortress by driving the Vietnam out of one captured outpost in the northwest-tem section of the dustbowl. But the fortifications had been wrecked and the position was virtually impossible to defend under the storm of Vietminh artillery fire, and the French withdrew after inflicting what officers described as "extremely heavy losses on the enemy."

Mass Evacuation Of Towns CD Plan

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Vice Adm. Daniel Barbey, Washington state civil defense director, said Friday the nation's first test of mass evacuation of a metropolitan area has been set for Spokane, Wash., on April 26. Barbey, speaking at a civil defense meeting, said present plans call for evacuating an estimated 30,000 persons from downtown Spokane in a test set to start at 9:35 a. m. The admiral, who is retired from Navy service, described the evacuation plan as in keeping with a decision by civil defense experts that a sweeping re-examination of plans is necessary because of the demonstrated power of the hydrogen bomb. Evacuation, he said, would of course be dependent upon the assumption sufficient warning will be available to make it possible. To permit assurance of this warning period, he said, there is need for completion of a radar screen around the country, extending as far north as the Arctic Circle.

The 1,000-room hotel would be built on a block bounded by S.W. 6th and Broadway avenues and Salmon and Taylor streets.

He indicated before his departure that he would be "available" for the post. Now he said he intends to conduct an intensive campaign. Baum, however, is confident he will. He said he had 28 written pledges, mostly from former members running for re-election. Election to the speakership requires 31 of the 60 votes in the House.
