Senators Win Pair, Sweep First Home Stand Musial Sets Homer Mark as Cardinals Split

Sabbath Duet Taken in Extra Innings by Circuit Leaders

By AL LIGHTNER
Statesman Sports Editor

Be it in freezing weather or extra innings, our village Senators are unstoppable.

At least they can boast as much after the first five games of the new WI League season. Harvey Storey's surprising lads swept both ends of Sunday's double bill with Calgary at Waters Field, each game going extra innings. The first, in 11 heats, was taken by a 5-4 count. The second, in eight panels, wound up 4-3.

Thus for their opening home stand of the campaign the Solons beat Edmonton twice and Calgary three times. They were the clubs which proved to be the toughest to beat for the 1953 Salems.

Storey herds his happy troupe on the road this week, opening at Vancouver Tuesday night. Next home game is due Sunday night, an eight o'clocker with Tri-City.

Sunday's opener was a scoreless battle between Ernie Domenichelli and Bill Stites until the seventh, when the Solons put together Bob Kellogg's single, a sacrifice and Domenichelli's single for a run. Things looked even bigger in the eighth when Pete Estrada singled, stole second and scored on another bingle by Kellogg for a 2-0 lead.

But Calgary tallied four times in the ninth on four hits, a walk and a very costly error by young

COMING AND GOING

Two players were cut loose and another was added to the Senators roster Sunday night. Outfielder Chet Ashman was returned to Salt Lake City, from whom he was purchased conditionally, and first-sacker Chuck Neal was released outright. The newcomer is first-baseman Harry Warner, a big fellow belonging to the Milwaukee Braves, who has been sent here on option from Jacksonville of the Sally League. He arrived last night.

Carl Bellotti at shortstop, Domenichelli, who had pounded out three hits during his stay, left in the midst of the uprising and was succeeded by Lefty Bob McFarlane.

Bob surrendered a two-run triple before Jack Hemphill took over to retire the side.

Manager Gene Lillard, who had replaced Alvin Slites in the seventh, couldn't hold the 4-2 lead in the Salem portion of the ninth. He walked two, hit another and saw Storey drive home two runs with hit to left, which tied the score at 4-4.

Larry Borst, making his first appearance of the season, hurled the 10th and 11th innings for the Salems and picked up the win when Jack Bukowatz doubled off the left field wall as first up in the 10th. Borst hurled a 9-0 score when Mel Krause smashed a long single to right field. Freshman Mel's blow came off Rod Owens, who had replaced Lillard after Bukowatz's double.

Both Kellogg and Domenichelli had three blows in this one, to retain their perfect 1,000 batting averages for the season to date.

The nightcap, booked for seven innings, was another hurling duel between Side Wheeler Gene Johnson of the locals and Lefty Bob Schulte of the homeless Stamps.

Calgary went 2-0 ahead in the sixth on three walks and Don Lundberg's single. The lead wasn't for long, however, as in the Salem half of the inning Krause singled to left and Boss Storey smashed a terrific clout over the deep left-center wall for his first home run of the season.

Calgary chased Johnson with another run in the seventh on two hits, but again the Solons were up to it when they had to be. A walk to Carl Bellotti and safe bunts by both Bill Heisner and Relief Pitcher McFarlane loaded the bases in the last half of the seventh. Bellotti scored the tying run when Bukowatz also walked.

There were still no outs, but Schulte managed to fire his way out of additional punishment. As it turned out, he was merely prolonging the inevitable.

In the eighth, after Storey had made a great play to start a rally-killing double play in the Stamps' half, Connie Perez led off with a screaming double to left, went to third on Estrada's single, waited until Bellotti was purposely passed and then scored the winner on Heisner's towering fly to right.

McFarlane wound up the winner, his first triumph.

In keeping with their good fortune for the entire home stand, the Salems played Sunday's pair in a light drizzle throughout both games. It was freezing cold the previous three nights.

Sunday's attendance was a skimpy 1,200, bringing to 3,345 the total for the first five games. That figure is usually an opening night crowd.

Little's Beaver Career at End

CORVALLIS (AP) — Tommy Little, who intercepted a pass and ran to the touchdown that gave Oregon State a 7-0 upset football victory over Oregon last fall, won't be out for the team next season.

Little, two-year letterman full-back, said Saturday he is leaving Oregon State to begin a four-year course at the Oregon Dental School in Portland.

Little, from Kalspeil, Mont., is a son of Frank Little, an Oregon State back in the early 1930s.

Beavers Shade Padres 4-3; Finale Rained Out

PORTLAND (AP) — The Portland Beavers broke a four-game losing streak Sunday with a last of the ninth inning 4-3 victory over San Diego's Padres. The second game of the doubleheader was postponed because of wet grounds.

Frank Austin's squeeze bunt brought pinch runner Hank Ruff home with Portland's winning run.

Portland second baseman Charley Grant turned in two homers, one in the second and the other in the fourth, to give the Beavers a 3-0 lead. Portland also had scored in the bottom of the first when Austin and Fletcher Robbe singled and Dino Restelli hit into a double play.

All San Diego's runs were scored in the seventh inning. Bob Elliott led off with a single and right-fielder Earl Rapp followed with another base hit. This set the stage for first baseman Dick Sisler's home run over the left field fence. The Padres threatened in the last inning. Rapp singled with one out and Dick Sisler followed with a double, putting Rapp on third. Joe Aylward was walked intentionally.

Then Jack Merson, batting for Ed Erault, flied to left field. Dick Ferreroff also flied out to end the inning.

San Diego won the series here 4-1.

Sacramento swept a pair from Seattle 8-3 and 5-4 to capture the series from the Rainiers 5-2. Oakland bounced back from a 13-12 first game loss to Los Angeles to take the nightcap 4-2 and at San Francisco the Hollywood Stars took both ends from the Seals 7-1 and 4-1. Mel Queen hurled a three-hitter in the first game.

Semis Due In Elks Meet

Rollin' Along

With Jerry Stone

Manager Gene Lillard of Calgary's Stampede, who knows all too well the appalling lack of organization within the Canadian club's front office, says the main trouble rested not in finances but in lack of interest and inexperience.

As Lillard puts it, a number of wealthy oil men were back of the now orphaned team—but they weren't baseball men. . . . "That was the big mistake," adds Gene. "They neglected to hire a sound baseball man for fulltime duty in the business end of the organization."

That corking .501 time turned in by Willamette's Judson Jones Saturday in the 440—a performance that established a new all-time WU mark—appears to be the fastest quarter-mile run in the entire Northwest this spring. That includes marks made by the Northern Division schools. . . . Incidentally, when Jones edged Whitman's Bill Mays in the thrilling finish at McCulloch Stadium, it was the first 440 loss for Mays in three years of Northwest Conference competition. . . . The Whitman star is holder of the conference record of .500, but Coach Ted Ogdahl thinks his boy Jones has a good chance of equalling that figure before the season is out.

Maglie vs. Campanella Latest Chapter

Latest goings-on that make feelings between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the cross-town Giants slightly more than bitter is a personal conflict between Roy Campanella, the Brooks' great catcher, and Sal Maglie, the venerable righthanded ace of the Durocher's club. . . . There is a general feeling among the Dodgers that Maglie is inclined to throw dusts at Campanella almost with abandon. Maglie got Roy on the hand in the first week of the season and that might have had something to do with the broken bone currently carried by the Brooklyn receiver.

There also is a feeling among the Giants that Campanella and teammate Carl Furillo are a pair whose plate effectiveness is greatly reduced by those knock-down pitches. The Giants point to Campanella's almost zero average when he faces Maglie. . . .

Coming on the heels of Furillo's run-in with Durocher late last season, this all adds fuel to the feud and should make for some mighty interesting ball games this summer at Ebbetts Field and the Polo Grounds when the Jints and the Bums are the combatants. . . .

Anybody interested in coaching a bunch of eager-to-learn gal softballers. If so, contact Floribel (Casey) Gordon, manager of the South Salem merchants femme team. The girls have an ambitious schedule ahead of 'em and they'd like a few more of those P's and Q's to get 'em ready for the test. . . . So, men, there is a challenge! . . .

Whitman Boasts Quite a Distance Guy

What's a fitting illustration for the word "endurance"? How about that sizeable accomplishment turned in by Whitman's Harold Parrott Saturday in the WU meet as he won the half-mile, the mile and the two-mile. . . . In the big-time golf circles you can shoot a 68 and still lose occasionally—but a similar score in this neck of the woods almost guarantees a victory. So it was quite a shocker for young Bob Prall when he carved out a 68 and yet lost to a fired-up Kent Myers in the second round of Elks championship flight action. . . . Speaking of Myers, he recently fired a 65 to share honors with Portland U's touted Bruce Cudd for the hottest round at the Salem club so far this year. . . .

Heartbreak hurling of the week: Mickey Coen of WU losing that two-hit 1-0 ball game to Whitman Saturday at Walls Walls. . . . And look at the sad misfortune that befell Salem High's Ed Warrenburg at Bend Friday. Ed gave not a hit and issued but one walk in the first six innings, only to have the Lava Bears come up and win the tilt in the seventh and final frame via three free passes, an error and the lone base knock off Warrenburg. . . . You won't find that very often either—Salem getting nine blows to the foes' one and yet losing. . . .

Dick Ballantyne and Ken Hunt, who take over as head hoop coaches at the city's two high schools next season, are slated for playing duty in the softball ranks this summer. Both are standout players. Ballantyne being a star on the Corvallis state champion club of two years ago. . . . Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson was labelled as maybe a coming Joe Louis by qualified authorities of Ring Row after his devastating win over Dan Bucceroni. Then along comes Jimmy Slade to take the wind out of the balloon. So it may turn out that the Hurricane is not really another Louis but just another Jackson. . . .

It looks like Tacoma or Eugene as best prospects for the Calgary franchise. This corner leans with ardor to Eugene, Tacoma having shown in previous opportunities that it isn't sufficiently WIL-minded. It's to be hoped that Eugene will be quick to present its case—or don't they want a Class A pro franchise in the Lane County city? . . .

Wolves Netters Decision Clark

MONMOUTH (Special) — The OCE Wolves notched a 4-3 decision over Clark Junior College Saturday in tennis action on the local courts. The top singles match saw Doug Kiggins of Clark top Vern Buhler of the Wolves 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.
