

Smudge Pots Helped Save Part of Fruit Crops

Farmers in the Salem area as well as other sections of the Pacific Northwest fired up smudge pots in an effort to save their fruit crops from below freezing temperatures Saturday night. The above picture was taken of a peach orchard in the Keizer district along Beardsley Road. Farmers in the area said this was the third time they had lit smudge pots this year. (Statesman Photo).

Tornadoes Kill 3, Injure 63 In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY — Oklahoma counted three lives lost, at least 63 injured in 25 communities and property damage in the thousands of dollars Sunday as the result of weekend tornado storms. A 90-mile front, moving generally from southwest to northeast, terrorized the state from noon Saturday until midnight. Up-to-the-minute warnings from forecasters, and the fact that most of the tornadoes struck in the outskirts of towns and in rural areas, were credited with preventing further death and destruction. Both of Oklahoma's largest metropolitan centers, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, were in the path of the severe weather front which passed out of the state early Sunday.

Oklahoma City was drenched by a torrential three-inch downpour which flooded basements of at least 15 homes. Sirens sounded at Tulsa Saturday night when a twister roared threateningly overhead. The most destructive tornado struck Meeker, 30 miles east of Oklahoma City. Twin funnels injured 26 and damaged or destroyed 30 homes. The high school gymnasium was unroofed and some business fronts damaged. Roads leading in and out of the community of 700 had to be cleared of scattered debris.

Ex-Pen Guard Arrested Here On 2 Counts

A former state penitentiary guard was arrested by Marion County sheriff's deputies early Sunday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace and later two complaints were signed against him charging assault with a dangerous weapon and pointing a loaded revolver at another person. George Peter Karl, Gervais, was held in Marion County jail Sunday night in lieu of $600 bail on the last two charges.

The assault charge grew out of an altercation near a Gervais tavern Saturday night involving Karl and Cecil Omano of Gervais, deputies said. Omano, who signed the complaint, told sheriff's deputies he and two companions took a judo stick away from Karl during the dispute.

The second charge was filed in Woodburn Justice Court by A. W. Keppinger of Gervais, the father of one of seven juveniles who told deputies Karl waved a gun at their car and ordered them to get into their car and leave. Karl told sheriff's deputies he was chief of police at Brownsville until a month ago.

Israel to Protest Speech by High American Official

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector — The Israeli government will make "official representations" to the U.S. government concerning an address Saturday by Assistant Secretary of State Henry Brodard. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the action would be taken as the result of a Cabinet meeting Sunday.

FALLS CITY MAN RESCUED — FALLS CITY — Bob Allen, about 25, of Falls City, was rescued without serious injury Sunday when he fell off a 30-foot cliff into the Little Luckiamute River here. Allen, not a good swimmer, was pulled from the swift water by Leland Hawk of Portland who was fishing nearby.

RED CHINA BEING RE-MADE — WASHINGTON — The U.S. Information Agency said Sunday a study shows that Communist China is being re-made in the image of Soviet Russia and that despite some friction the ties between the two big Red nations are strengthening.

Man Treated for Bites From Dog

James C. Brigham, 1570 Mission St., was treated by city first aidmen Sunday afternoon for dog bites sustained when he was attacked by a dog in the 4000 block on South Pacific Highway. Brigham told Marion County sheriff's deputies the animal lunged at him and broke its chain as he was passing a trailer park in the area. The dog drew blood on Brigham's upper right arm, the sheriff's office reported and added that the animal's owner was not identified.

Saint's Blood Finally Melts; Naples Joyous

NAPLES, Italy — Cries of joy, ringing of bells and fireworks swept through this Italian port Sunday night at the announcement from Naples Cathedral that the blood of its patron, St. Januarius, had finally softened and melted—a day late. The blood of the martyred saint should have liquefied Sunday, as it usually has done on the first Saturday of May for the past four centuries. When it has failed to melt Naples has had bad luck.

Even a delay is considered an ill omen. A delay of several hours in 1940 was followed by Benito Mussolini's disastrous declaration of war. Saturday, after hours of prayers, the blood was still solid. Marcello Cardinal Mimmi, archbishop of Naples, urged the people to pray again Sunday.

Devout Neapolitans assembled at the cathedral Sunday morning once more attended mass and again prayed. Some of the more excitable and worried began to scream. "Deliver us from the evil eye, St. Januarius," some cried. "Do not abandon us, St. Januarius," wept others. At 10:30 a.m. Msgr. Giuseppe Cattaneo, custodian of the blood, which is kept in two silver phials, inspected it. "It is not melted," he told the weeping, praying people, who at that hour numbered about 10,000. Prayers continued until the blood melted.

Thousands Cheer Pope's Appearance

VATICAN CITY — Thousands of school children gave Pope Pius XII a thunderous ovation Sunday at his first general audience since he became ill more than three months ago. His face was pale but his manner was comparatively energetic and his voice strong; his whole appearance indicated notable recovery. As the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was borne into St. Peter's Basilica on his portable throne, a roaring cheer, constant as a waterfall, rose from thousands of throats. It continued unbroken for 10 minutes. White-clad school girls and little boys in gray and blue Sunday Best assembled from many parts of Italy, waved white flowers and cheered and cheered. Several fainted and were carried to first aid stations set up in the Basilica.

Thousands of older persons, members of pilgrimages from Italy and foreign countries, also cheered. Reminiscent of the 1950 holy year, when such audiences were held twice and three times weekly, the Pope raised his arms repeatedly in blessing and many times bent far down as though he sought to touch one or another of his children. He appeared to be as deeply moved as they were. "Our soul," he said in his first words to them, "has been flooded with a tumult of joy... thank you, dear children."

Easter is the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox.

British Papers Contend Split Exists Among Allies at Geneva

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON — British newspapers voiced concern Sunday over what some of them called a split among the Western Allies in Geneva. This reaction was mixed with expressions of relief that Prime Minister Churchill has taken a firm stand against becoming involved in the Indochina fighting. Sharp criticism of U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles came from several commentators, with one report out of Geneva that he would offer his resignation on returning to Washington this week. Geneva reporters said they could find no comment on this report, nor any substantiation for it.

Richard Crossman, leftwing follower of Aneurin Bevan in the House of Commons, wrote in the mass-circulation Sunday Pictorial: "Spectacular Climb-Down"

"We have just witnessed one of the most spectacular climb-downs in diplomatic history. Ten days ago Washington was still threatening the Chinese Communists with 'united military action' if they did not clear out of Indochina. Mr. Dulles was denouncing any idea of negotiating a settlement with them as sheer appeasement.

"Now the Americans are sitting down to negotiate at Geneva, and President Eisenhower has informed his weekly news conference that 'he wants some solution that might be acceptable and would stop the fighting.'"

"The reason for this climb-down seems to me simple enough. 'United action' was always a gigantic bluff. Now that bluff has been called.

The conservative Sunday Times diplomatic correspondent said in a Geneva dateline dispatch:

"The first week of the conference has been notable for two important developments. The first of these is the rift between the United States and her Allies after the British decision not to intervene in Indochina before the conference had tried to negotiate a peace.

"This rift should be looked at in perspective. As seen from here, it was due to three errors by the American administration:

"Realizing too late the significance of southeast Asia in the world balance of power, and then acting impetuously.

"Over-estimating Allies' 'Over-estimating her Allies' military and political possibilities; 'Misjudging the readiness of the American Congress to 'go it alone' in Asia.

"The administration has learnt that America's Allies cannot support immediate intervention because they believe that such action would be useless save on the

Solon Argues Against Air Aid to French

WASHINGTON — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) argued Sunday against any U.S. air support of the French in Indochina, saying this could easily lead to use of American naval and ground forces there and possibly bring World War III. "There is no such thing as limited" intervention, mansfield said on the DuMont TV show "Meet Your Congress."

America, he said, could not bring the Indochina War to a successful end alone because "we have neither the manpower nor the resources" and there is no inclination on the part of this country's Allies to intervene. Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, answered Mansfield, saying: "I don't believe that the need of meeting the situation in Indochina is land power from the Western nations."

He said the United States should not let great Britain's reluctance to act in Indochina stop this country from seeking a solution to the conflict. Although no two eggs in the usual bird's nest are exactly alike they usually closely resemble each other.

Anger Shown At Conversion Of Old Shrine

AMMAN, Jordan — Moslems here were angered Sunday at the reported conversion into a synagogue of the famous shrine of David's tomb in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem — a mosque for centuries past.

David's tomb (Nebi Daoud to Moslems) on Mt. Zion is holy for Moslems, Christians and Jews. As a mosque it was barred to Christians and Jews for 400 years. In the same structure on the floor above the tomb — the Cenaculum — is the place of Christ's last supper.

Christian authorities who visited the Cenaculum have reported to religious leaders abroad and Western foreign offices that David's tomb is being used as a synagogue. Moslems and Christians here regard the change as a violation of the status quo under which religious shrines in the Holy Land have been protected against change in custody and use without consent from various sects concerned for the last 200 years.

CAR SKIDS INTO DITCH

A northbound car, driven by Kenneth Donald Coomler, Brooks Route 1, skidded into a ditch and received minor damage Sunday evening in the 3800 block on South 12th Street, state police reported. The driver apparently was uninjured, they added.

Sand dunes can migrate at the rate of more than 100 feet a year.
