Phil, Uncle Miltie Get Laughing Start

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD-Southern Hospitality and Western High Jinks: Uncle Miltie's Hollywood telecast was fun from start to finish Tuesday night, with that proud product of the South, Phil Harris, giving him a good run for scenes and credits. They-'re both pretty good at hogging the spotlight, you know, Berle making no bones about it, even elbowing a fellow player out of camera range, and Phil in a more subtle but equally lethal manner. He simply uses that blinding charm and a loud, rich voice. This was the first of Milton's Western shows this season, with two more scheduled to come cavorting out of NBC's Hollywood studios, but the following pair are going to have to be good to keep up with the pace just set.

The idea behind it all was for Phil to help Milton settle into the grooves of Hollywood living. It's a wonder it didn't drive Uncle Miltie straight back East. Eileen Barton and Owen McGivney joined the regular cast to help make it the hilarious hour it was. Eileen is noted for her recordings and Owen for the speed with which he can don and shed clothes.

A lot of Hollywood night spots came in for some free publicity as Phil dragged his supposedly wide-eyed visitor from club to club. The old Southerner combined some of that brand of hospitality with Hollywood glitter and we'll bet the two of them are still laughing. We are.

STARR-DUST: Vera Vague, star of the ill-fated teleseries "Follow the Leader" that closed after 13 weeks last year has a new series to debut this fall. She will serve as emcee for "A Scene with a Star." Glenn Langan headlines the first show and Virginia Grey plays the top role in the second film . . "Junior Aces," Bob Fallon's telefilm series began production the other day. No guests are allowed on the set for the first few films except Marie Wilson. Bob's ever-loving wife . . . Following in Jack Webb's footsteps Gene Autry has ordered four of his first television scripts written and when completely they will make two feature motion pictures

.. Note from English friend: Buster Keaton is a real smash his here in a new half-hour comedy show. BBC has gone all-out and is inviting our visiting television stars to guest spots on their va riety shows . . . And Gary Crosby's firt radio show (CBS) June will feature the new spiritual recording that Jane Russell, Rhonda Fleming, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis have popularized. The girls will be on hand for the debut . . . Charlie Ruggles has a chance to carry his homespun philosophies as "Mr. Sweeney" the small town grocer into a complete and separate series if curren plans go through. Now a brief and occasional high spot on Kate Smith's daily show, "Mr. Sweeney" is well worth a daily spot o his own . . . Those of you traveling to Mexico or South America can tune in and watch "Ramar of the Jungle," "The Adventure of Ellery Queen," and "Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion,"in Spanish yet! . . . Watch for the new Somerset Maugham T series for fall introduction. One of the better type high-budge films that will stress good stories (writing) rather than name star . . Sheldon Reynold's is TV's answer to Alfred Hitchcock. H poses in every mob scene of "Foreign Intrigue" that he shoots . . (Copyright, 1954, General Features Corp.)
