

Commie - Supported Guatemala Regime Suspends Civil Liberties

By JACK RUTLEDGE
 GUATEMALA (AP)—The Communist-supported Guatemalan government Tuesday suspended constitutional guarantees of civil liberties, including voting rights and freedom of the press. The government contends there is a plot afoot to overthrow it.

Censors screened all local news stories and outgoing foreign dispatches. A special decree lifted requirements for warrants for arrests and authorized the government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman to seize transport and communications systems. The cabinet action, sanctioned by the constitution in a time of crisis, came in an all-night session after a second anti-Communist leaflet raid by a mystery plane warned Guatemalans against close ties with Soviet Russia. A plane similar to one that dropped leaflets on the capital May 26 showered propaganda pamphlets over the West Guatemala town of Quezaltenango Monday. Although the constitution puts an initial 30-day limit on the suspension of civil liberties guarantees, it permits renewal of any suspension edict. In addition to major civil rights bans affecting freedom of speech, press, assembly, and the inviolability of the home, the suspension order withdraws the right to enter or remain in Guatemalan territory regardless of Guatemalan citizenship. No more than two persons can legally converse at any one location. All documents, private or otherwise, are subject to examination with out a court order. Habeas corpus rights no longer are in force and police may enter homes without a court order. The foreign news censorship ruling makes translation of all outgoing news into Spanish mandatory and requires submission of stories to the chief of communications for personal examination. In its first major local censorship, the government ordered all reports of the leaflet raid at Quezaltenango omitted from editions Tuesday. The cabinet announcement cited only the "current situation" as the cause of the action. Tension has been rising in this Central American country since the United States objected three weeks ago to the shipment of 2,000 tons of arms here from Communist Poland.
