Senators Sweep Sunday Twin Bill

Another Tilt Slated Tonite

Briggs Racks No. 9, 4-1 After 8-7 Nod

By AL LIGHTNER
Statesman Sports Editor

The town Senators turned Sunday's sunny afternoon into one of sheer glee at Waters Field as they spilled the aggresssive but vulnerable Wenatchee Chiefs in both ends of the doubleheader, 8-7 and 4-1. It took 10 innings to accomplish the 8-7 victory, but young Johnny Briggs needed only the regulation seven in the nightcap to rack up his ninth conquest of the campaign.

Now ahead in the series by a 2-1 count, the Salems will go at George (Highpockets) Kelly's spirited band in another mix tonight at 7:30 o'clock, this one the makeup for Saturday night's rainout.

Ted Shandor, himself a former Senator, is to hurl for Wenatchee. Ernie Domenichelli is Manager Hugh Luby's choice for the Solons.

Winning the Sabbath duet amounted to quite a boost for the Senators, as in doing so they climbed from ninth to seventh in the standings and are now but two games out of fifth and three out of fourth.

Luckless Lefty Tom Del Sarto had Sunday's opener all set for the Salem satchel, with a 7-4 lead in the ninth inning. But a combination of a hit batter, a single by Dick Stacey, a walk to Tony Rivas and Lloyd Jenney's three-run double to deep center tied the score.

Jose Rayle had been brought in to pitch to Rivas, and was tagged for Jenny's clout after passing the second-sacker.

Rayle got the next two swingers out, and after the Salems had been checked in their portion of the ninth, despite getting two runners aboard, he again turned the foe back in the tenth.

Billy Joe Waters, winner of Friday night's 6-3 game and the fifth flinger to go into action for the Chiefs in this one, got Bob Kellogg out on a liner to Rivas to start within the Salem tenth. But then Floyd Ogden, the young never-give-up workhorse catcher smashed a sharp line drive to center.

Stacey tried to shoe-string the ball, missed it, and Ogden churned all the way to third, sliding in with a jolt that almost tore the bag loose. Kelly's strategy was to purposely walk the bases loaded, so that a force play would be available at the plate.

Luby countered this by having Mel Krause try a squeeze bunt, which was goofed up when Mel fouled off what would have been Waters' fatal pitch.

But the enemy righthander was merely living on borrowed time, as Krause with two strikes grounded a single smack back through the middle to score Ogden with the winner.

Salem had seven runs after five innings on eight base hits, two hit batsmen and a pair of sacrifice flies.

Goin' after 'em...

By DON HARGER

Weather seemed to be the big bugaboo again in last week's fishing. Winds, rain and somewhat lower than normal temperatures for most of the week had the fishing success at a low point. By the week-end the weather relented a bit and made for pleasanter angling conditions. The water conditions in many spots still proved to be the undoing however, and excellent could not be tacked on to most of the reports . . . Released waters from Detroit reservoir had the Santiam in high flow and the fishing was anything but good. Few salmon were taken to our knowledge and the trout fishing was only fair in the lower stretches of the river . . . Fly fishing with nymphs and dry flies was a bit more productive than most other methods of angling and the angler with the fly rod managed to pick up a few trout here and there in a few of the Willamette valley streams . . . East of the mountains the Deschutes was once again higher than is favored by the angler. Fly fishing in the Redmond area was fair with only a few scattered anglers taking fish. Spin fishing was a bit more productive with small wobbling spoons accounting for some good catches.

Don Harger

South of Bend the Little Deschutes and Crescent creek were rounding into good shape. Nymphs and dry flies took their toll of brown trout with a few rainbow tossed in for good measure. The big Deschutes below Pringle Falls was good to the spin fisherman and the troller with a couple of brown trout coming out which weighed in the neighborhood of six pounds.

'Brookies' Were Caught in Big Lava Lake

Big Lava lake gave up some fair catches of brook trout to the spin fishermen and the worm tosser. The brookies in Big Lava are runing to good size this year and many of the Lava lake anglers are happy over the results of the recent poisoning and restocking of those waters.

East lake continues to give up its share of trout with the better catches going to the single egg angler. The weather is still a hazard at that popular spot but it seems to make little

Yanks Favored In Wimbledon

Trabert, Connolly Seen as Champions

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP)—The big show of the tennis world — the Wimbledon tournament—gets under way Monday with Americans in the favorite's roles for both the men's and women's titles.

Tony Trabert, the No. 1 United States Davis Cup player, is expected to win the coveted men's singles after wading through a tough field, while Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly, now a pert miss of 19, is the heavy choice among the women.

This will be a particularly important event for Trabert, the crew-cut Cincinnati youth. He has quit college to concentrate on tennis with the thought in mind of turning professional at the end of the season if he shows well.

But this 68th edition of the venerable tournament will pose a problem, indeed, for him. If he is to go to the final on July 2, he'll have to wade through just about the entire Australian delegation with the exception of Lewis Hoad.

Trabert doesn't figure to have any trouble with his first-round opponent, Paul Wooler, an English club player, when he takes the polished center court reserved for the greats of amateur tennis.

But in succeeding rounds he has his work cut out for him. Both Ken Rosewall and Mervyn Rose, two extremely tough Australians, also are in his section of the draw along with Sven Davidson of Sweden, who won the United States indoor championship last winter, and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, who made the finals here last year.

For his part, Hoad, ranked by many experts the world's No. 1 amateur, has no sinecure, either.

Lew can look forward to unpleasant afternoons with defending champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the canny veteran Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, 1950 winner Budge Patty of Los Angeles, ex-American champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, who makes a habit of winning European titles.

London bookmakers have set the odds against Trabert as 6-4, while they're 9-4 against Hoad, 5-1 against Rosewall, and 8-1 each against Larsen, Patty and Seixas.

SBC's Stag Picnic Set For Tonight on Farm

The Salem Breakfast Club's stag picnic, an annual event for sportsmen of the area, is to be held tonight at 6:30 o'clock on the Chadwick Farm, located about eight miles due east of town on what would be the extension of State Street through Four Corners.

Dinner, refreshments, moving pictures, games and drawings for door prizes will be part of the evening. The New York Giants football movie, "Highlights of 1953" is to be shown. A Plymouth car, somewhat on the used side, will be one of the door prizes.

Various notables from about the area, including Oregon and Oregon State coaches will be on hand for proper introductions and speeches. The event is open to the male side of the public and tickets will be available at Wicklund's Sporting Goods Store during the day, and at the picnic site tonight.

'Save Senators' Issue Due For Showdown Tuesday Night

The "Save Your Senators" baseball issue, a distinct move to leave up to the folks of the Salem community the decision whether or not to continue the Waters Field operation, comes to head Tuesday night at the ball park.

In no way a promotional scheme to boost sagging attendance, the club directors feel that spontaneous action on the part of the general public Tuesday night will determine the immediate future of the ball club.

They are using Tuesday night as a measuring stick, so to speak. They want to know if general interest in the sport still exists here. There will be no special admission fees, no special entertainment. Consequently, if a crowd of from 4,000 to 5,000 turns out, the directors will konw that enough interest exists to warrant their efforts to continue the operation.

But if only half that many show up, realizing the issue at stake, the directors will take immediate steps to begin the closure of the operation and franchise.

To avoid as much of a parking problem as possible, Carl Wendt of the City Bus Lines has announced that he will run special baseball buses to and from the park Tuesday, free to the riding public.

This is the free bus schedule:

Leave Keizer at 6:45 p.m., traveling on Commercial Street to Court and then on out State Street to 25th and the park. Leave Hollywood at 7 p.m., taking the regular Capitola bus route. Leave Englewood at 7 p.m., traveling on Market and Summer Streets and on out to the park. Leave Candalaria district at 7 p.m., traveling on South Commercial and Liberty. Leave State Hospital at 7 p.m., traveling through the Capitol Shopping Center before swinging toward ball park.

Also, two of the free buses will leave the regular Liberty & State Streets base at 6:45 and 7:15 p.m.

The buses will remain at the ball park and will make return trips on the same routes as followed earlier.

A downtown parade is to take place at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday, starting at the public library and including band, police escort, fire engine, uniformed ballplayers and anyone who of his own accord wishes to enter truck, car, bus, etc.

All ticket windows at the ball park will be open for business Tuesday, starting at 6 p.m.

"There may be some discomfort for fans what with a possible huge crowd converging on the park," the directors add. "But we feel that if the folks want baseball to stay here badly enough, they'll put up with it this one night."

College Tennis Meet to Start

SEATTLE (AP) — Three of the six top-seeded singles players drew byes for Monday's opening round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association tennis championships, but Ham Richardson of Tulane was not among them.

The defending champion, seeded No. 1, will meet Pete Overton of Oregon State in a late afternoon match. Among those skipping the first round are Bob Perry and Ron Livingston of UCLA, seeded 2 and 3 and John Hernandez of Texas, seeded sixth.

Jacque Grigry of Southern California, ranked fourth, will meet Howard Hill of Iowa and Bill Quillian of Washington, No. 5 in the tourney, is matched with Art Fish of Stanford.

Perry and Livingston, top pair in the doubles, picked off a bye in the two-man event and so did Grigry and Allen Cleveland of USC, seeded third. The second-ranked duo, Hernandez and Tom Springer of Texas, will meet Jack Neer and Jim Flynn of Portland (ore.) University.

Grant Released By Portland '9'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League Sunday released outright Charley Grant.

Grant, utility infielder, has played only part-time this season because of a shoulder injury.

In 19 games this season, Grant collected nine hits, three of them homers, in 24 times at bat, for a .375 average.

Tribe Lead Now Four Full Games

Giants Only Half-Tilt in Front

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland opened up a four-game lead in the American League Sunday by winning two while its chief rivals, Chicago and New York, split, but the New York Giants' lead shrunk to a half game in the National League.

Al Smith drove in five runs and hit two homeruns as Cleveland took two from Boston 3-1 and 9-2 behind Bob Feller and Art Houtteman. After the Yankees bombed Chicago with 20 hits, including four home runs to win the opener 16-6 the White Sox took the second 7-3 for Bob Keegan's 10th victory.

In the other American League games, Washington knocked off Baltimore twice 7-1 and 7-2 on the pitching of Connie Marrero and Dean Stone. The Philadelphia-Detroit doubleheader was rained out.

The New York Giants broke a record with two pinch homers by Bobby Hofman and Dusty Rhodes in the sixth inning while topping the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6.

Wes Westrum also homered in the sixth and Al Dark hit an earlier home run as the Giants chased Vic Raschi and hung a defeat on reliefer Cot Deal. Marvin Grissom won his seventh on relief. The homers by Hofman, Westrum and Rhodes were in succession.

Brooklyn needed effective relief pitching, too, in downing the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-3. Clem Labine held the fort in the first game and Bob Milliken and Ben Wade double teamed the Cubs after Billy Loes faltered in the second.

Pittsburgh won its first doubleheader since Sept. 6, 1953, dropping Milwaukee seven full games out of first place by 2-1 and 6-3 scores. The Pirates won the first when Lew Burdette hit Curt Roberts with a pitched ball with the bases loaded in the tenth. Gair Allie's three-run homer nailed down the second.

Cincinnati climbed into a fifth-place tie with St. Louis, defeating the Phillies 4-3 and 15-6. Fred Baczewski's seven-hitter took care of the first game. The Reds hopped on their old teammate, Herm Wehmeier, while scoring nine runs in the first inning of the second game.

Cleveland's double romp over the Red Sox boosted their season record against Boston to 11-1. Saturday's game was the only victory for the Sox.

In addition to picking up a full game on their strongest rivals, the Indians got a lift from the return of Al Rosen to the starting lineup for the first time since he learned, June 4, he had been playing with a borken finger for 10 days. Rosen had two singles in six trips, playing first base in both games.

Smith hit a leadoff homer in the first inning of the opener off Leo Kiely. He hit his fifth of the season off Willard Nixon in the second inning of the second game.

Bill Skowron, Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Joe Collins ripped into Chicago pitching for home runs in the Yanks' 20-hit parade at Chicago in the first game. Keegan set them down with seven hits in the second game, held to eight innings because of darkness.

Sherm Lollar's two-run homer in the seventh was the big blow after Bob Kuzava walked in the tie-breaking run with the bases loaded in the sixth.

Baltimore's home attendance was boosted to 504,732 by a crowd of 17,149 who saw the Orioles' losing streak stretched to eight games. Marrero threw a five-hitter in the first and Stone scattered nine hits in the second.

Billy O'Dell, Baltimore's bonus pitcher from Clemson College, made his debut. He worked the last inning of the opener and the last two of the second and but for an error he wouldn't have allowed a run.

Furgol Future In Links Play Is Uncertain

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — The tournament future is uncertain for National Open champion Ed Furgol, golf's "forgotten man."

After his surprising 40-to-1 shot victory at Baltusrol Saturday over the game's greatest, the personable Clayton, Mo., pro was queried about impending plans.

Will he play in the PGA championship at St. Paul, Minn., July 21-27?

"How can I?" Furgol replied. "I didn't qualify. I failed in my district."

The leading pros of the open were going up to Briarcliff, N.Y., Sunday for a one-day tournament — would Furgol be along?

"No, sir," the successor to Ben Hogan answered." They didn't think I was good enough. I wasn't invited."

Golf is going to have to make room for this lean, 37-year-old pro who overcame the handicap of a crippled left arm and numerous hardships to attain the sport's highest goal.

"I don't know what my future plans are now," Furgol said. "I am not a touring pro any more. I am a club pro. I make my living by giving lessons.

"I think the open champion should be an active champion. I like to play in tournaments. But whether I increase my schedule depends on the Westwood Golf Club of Clayton. There's where my first obligation lies."

Furgol said he probably would compete in the All-America and world championship events at Tam O'Shanter, just outside Chicago, Aug. 5-15. There's a $150,000 pot of gold waiting there.

Furgol shot four steady rounds of 71, 70, 71 and 72 over the long par 70 course to beat 23-year-old Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., by a single stroke. Littler, last year's amateur champion now a pro, missed an eight-foot birdie putt on the 72nd he needed for a tie.

Another young pro, Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., took a seven on the final hole when a par five also would have given him a tie. He finished at 286 with Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill.

RACER KILLED

CHARITON, Iowa (AP) — Ben Tyler, 25, Des Moines stock car driver, died at a Chariton Hospital Sunday of burns and injuries he received in a racing accident here Saturday night.

Tyler's car flipped over seven times, then burst into flames after a pileup during the first lap of the opening race.

Woodburn Legion Nine Defeats Salem by 5-1

WOODBURN — (Special) — The Woodburn American Legion junior baseball team Sunday defeated the Salem Downtown Merchants squad by a 5-1 count in a league clash here. Salem was the "home" team, inasmuch as the clash was booked for the Capital City, but no place could be found to play the game.

Pitcher Johnny Beck of the Woodburns held the Salems to one hit, that by Bob Jantze in the seventh and final inning. Beck whiffed five during his fine stint.

The lone Salem marker came in the third when Catcher Bob Beals walked and then proceeded to steal second, third and home.

Woodburn scored in the fifth when Beck singled, moved up on John Owen's double and scored on an error. Another run came across in the sixth on Jim Chapple's single, a sacrifice and a double by Darrell McCall. Howard Seater's single, a fielder's choice, a walk and Owen's single netted the final Woodburn tallies in the seventh.

The win was the second, against one loss for Woodburn. Salem's loss was the second, against one win.

Salem next plays at Oregon City on Wednesday, while Woodburn plays Aumsville, at Woodburn.

Error Cheats Rookie Of Scoreless Start

BALTIMORE (AP) — An error prevented Billy O'Dell, who still has a year to go in Clemson College, from getting by without giving up a run in his first major league pitching appearance for the Baltimore Orioles Sunday.

The 21-year-old college junior, signed for a reported $20,000 bonus two weeks ago, worked the last inning of the first game and last two of the second in a doubleheader with the Washington Senators.

He went in both times with the Orioles trailing 7-1. He wound up the first game by
