By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday if Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer wants to appeal to him from the 4-1 Atomic Energy Commission decision that bars him from atomic secrets, he will be listened to.

The president added, however, that the commission was made up of men he trusted and that he had sent them last December what he described as a very disturbing report on the famed scientist they have now held to be a security risk.

Eisenhower made his Oppenheimer comments at a fast-moving news conference, his first in two weeks.

The conference swept from the matter of peaceful co-existence with the Russians to the question of whether Vice President Nixon has been "hurting the Democrats' feelings" and thus impeding a bipartisan foreign policy.

On getting along with the Russians, Eisenhower said the hope of the world would be that kind of existence. But he said, and he

Oppenheimer To Continue At Institute

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer said Wednesday he plans to stay in his post as director of the Institute of Advanced Study here and continue research in fundamental physics.

"I may not be able to move freely in laboratories, but that has nothing to do with thinking freely," said the scientist, who was barred from access to secret atom data as a security risk by a 4-1 vote of the Atomic Energy Commission Tuesday.

Oppenheimer said the "blank wall" drawn between him and the nation's atomic secrets will be "obviously a considerable bother but it won't keep me from looking at the things I'm most interested in."

In a telephone interview, Oppenheimer said it would be "a nuisance" not to have clearance to many laboratories where fundamental research is being carried on.

"Not Welcome" Many experiments are conducted at private institutions, he said, which are doing research for the government and where he is "not welcome" any longer.

But, he added, he will continue his studies in fundamentals.

The things which "stimulate my curiosity are pretty far removed from the practical and therefore from classification," he explained.

Oppenheimer said he is presently "puzzled by and has been puzzled about" some "very remarkable recent observations in cosmic rays."

Oppenheimer said in a statement Tuesday night he hoped that scientists will be used with humanity, with wisdom, and with courage, and that their counsel will be heard.

Went Resign As for his directorship of the institute, Oppenheimer said Wednesday, he had no intention of resigning and had no indication he would be asked to resign.

Herbert H. Maass, chairman of the institute's board of trustees, said he would make no comment until the board meet next month. The institute is devoted to the encouragement, support and patronage of learning.

Meanwhile, Oppenheimer's colleagues at the institute expressed "complete confidence in his loyalty to the United States."

Ferry Launched In Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — The 310-foot "Evergreen State," world's largest steel double-end ferry was launched here today for the Washington State Ferries system.

The 100-car, 600-passenger boat still must have her superstructure installed before delivery to the ferry system in October. It will ply the Puget Sound runs.

thumped his desk for emphasis, this does not mean appeasement. He authorized for direct quotation: "I will not be a party to any treaty that makes anybody a slave; now, that is all there is to it."

Admirable Man
On Nixon and the Democrats, Eisenhower said his vice president is an admirable man, a great American who normally talks pretty much the language of the administration.

The president seemed in fine fettle, pink and healthy. The lines in his face deepened from time to time in concentration, but his only apparent annoyance came when he was asked:

"Do you feel, sir, that the country is safer and more secure now that Dr. Oppenheimer no longer is working for us?"

AEC Responsible
Eisenhower, spacing his words, told the questioner that he had better go and ask the Atomic Energy Commission. They, he said, were responsible for this and they had a very delicate and tough job to do.

The question of Nixon's speeches came up twice during the conference. First, a reporter recalled that Nixon had made a speech with the thesis that the foreign policy of Secretary of State Acheson in the Truman administration was to blame for the loss of China and from that flowed the war in Korea and the difficulty in Indochina.

"The Democrats didn't like it very much," the questioner said. Eisenhower had a three-point reply: First, each individual is entitled to his own opinions; second, he admires and respects the vice president, and third, his own job is to carry out responsibilities that don't fall on others.

U.S. Must Agree
But he said Americans must seek agreement among themselves on foreign policy, because regardless of which party takes over, there must be stability.

On other matters the President said:
Narm bill — There are terrible defects in the rigid, high price supports provided by the present law and they are damaging to the farmers. He had put his case for a flexible system as strongly as he knew how, and had no immediate plans for doing more.

Guatemala — He heard Wednesday morning that Communists and other great supporters were leaving Guatemala. It has given him great satisfaction and if he tried to conceal that fact, he would be deceitful.

Republican prospects — he has always believed that the American people wanted a well-thought-out comprehensive program, foreign and domestic. The administration has laid its program before Congress. While no one ever has thought it would be enacted in every detail, he believed the forthcoming results are going to be favorably considered by the voters.

Praises Churchill
The Far East — He didn't have time to discuss the whole situation, but he did think the visit of Prime Minister Churchill had done much to bring encouragement. He said their talks had done much to establish the British and American purposes on common ground, as he put it, to get this thing back on the rails. He said certain statements by the new premier of France were also encouraging but didn't specify.

Tennessee Valley Authority — He has directed the Atomic Energy Commission to enter a contract for private power in the Memphis area, because he wants a good look from every angle at expansion of the public power projects of TVA. People in other regions keep complaining to him, he said, that the government is taking their taxes to build up cheap power in TVA territory that attracts their industries, and he is trying to find out just where the truth lies.

Senators Told FHA-Insured Loan Profits

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee Wednesday heard testimony that an FHA-insured $13,846,000 loan provided a two million-dollar windfall profit to the borrowers and a bonus of nearly one million to the lending institution.

All this was accomplished on a capital investment of only $6,000 by the builders of the Shirley-Duke apartment development in nearby Alexandria, Va., the probers were told.

"I don't think anybody has been cheated," attorney Carl Budwesky said in answer to a question from Sen. Robert D-Va. "I think it is a question of who got the money."

Budwesky, former Alexandria city manager who represented the builders as their attorney, denied that the rents were excessive and defended the payment of windfall profits to the builders rather than using the money to repay part of the loan.

Testimony showed the three prime movers in the building project went on the company's payroll at $20,000 a year when its assets totaled only the original $6,000 capital. They were Herman W. Hutman, Earl J. Preston and Bryan Gordon Jr., all of the Washington area.

They and their families ended up with "windfall" profits of $607,650, $400,656 and $522,483 respectively, the probers were told. The total windfall profit to the 22 stockholders was given as $2,084,823.

Train Kills Girl in Auto

WARDEN, Wash. (AP) — A 19-year-old girl was killed Wednesday when a locomotive plowed into a stalled automobile from which her father, mother and brother had leaped to safety only seconds before.

The victim was Shirley Pettipiece of Warden. Mr. and Mrs. John Pettipiece and their son, James, escaped without injury.

The big, 3-unit Milwaukee Railroad engine demolished the automobile, carrying it 415 feet down the tracks.

Miss Pettipiece was the fourth fatality in nine days in Grant County, half of the total thus far this year.

Traffic Deaths Drop Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic deaths went down again in May—the fifth month of 1954 to show a drop from the 1953 death toll.

The National Safety Council said Wednesday that this is the first time since 1947 that deaths decreased during the first five months of the year.

The May death toll was 2,960, a reduction of 3 per cent. The total for five months was 13,470, down 5 per cent.

Dulles Hails Red Defeat In Guatemala

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles Wednesday night hailed the overthrow of the pro-Communist government in Guatemala as a "new and glorious" victory over Red encroachments. But he warned that "communism is still a menace everywhere."

In a 15-minute, nation-wide radio-television broadcast, Dulles pledged that the United States would not only oppose Communism but would help "alleviate conditions in Guatemala and elsewhere" which might breed Communism.

Dulles said the capture by Communism of any American state would have established a "new and perilous front" endangering the entire free world.

But he said the situation in Guatemala "is being cured by the Guatemalans themselves" — thereby averting "at least one grave danger" and setting an example "which promises security for the future."

Dulles laid the blame for the leftist bent of the overthrown Guatemalan government directly on the Kremlin. He said Communists seized on the Guatemalan revolution 10 years ago and, in the last few years, "openly connived" with Guatemalan officials.

In the three centuries between 1650 and 1950 the population of the world more than quadrupled.

Bridge Traffic Underway at Wilsonville

PORTLAND (AP) — The Willamette River ferry at Wilsonville made its final run Wednesday as automobiles began using the new Boone Bridge across the river there.

The bridge is an important link in what eventually will become an expressway between Salem and West Portland. The entire road is not yet built, but the bridge can be used now for travel between the West Portland area and Hubbard on Highway 99-E.

The ferry began operating in 1847 at what is known as Boone Crossing. It was named for an early settler, Alphonso Boone, a great grandson of Daniel Boone. The Boone's Ferry Road, leading from Portland to the ferry, was an important route in early days of Oregon.

The bridge will be dedicated in the fall, when the highway is opened officially.

"OK Milne," an esteemed pal of mine says the other day. "OK," he repeats, "all of this yak-yak about taking the little lady out to dinner twice a week is fine and dandy. But I got you this time. I'll bet my foot you take your wife and kids out twice a week," he guffawed!

"Well, stick around, boy," I answered haughtily. "Ask them yourself—they'll be here any minute. With four kids I think my wife and kids out twice a week, of nights off—and the kids really love it!"

"And," I went on noting his blanched face with satisfaction, "it's not expensive, either! My kids have children's portions and the wife and I figured out we spend darn near as much at home to get the same balanced meals!" Just then my family troops in. My pal's foot wasn't as tasty as my usual fare, though. Too tough and stringy!
