Television Safaris May Meet in Africa

By EVE STARR
 HOLLYWOOD—TELEVISION—CROSSING PATHS: A perfectly stupendous event could jar the heart in Africa in October, to say nothing about the hearts of little boys and girls right here. Jon Hall will be there, telefilming authentic shots as "Ramar of the Jungle." If his party happened to meet and film the encounter with Captain James Wilson of Safari, Limited, shoving off in the fall (instead of July as previously reported) to make his "The White Bowhunter" TV series in Kenya and points west, it would make a terrifically unique stanza for either show. Hardly on par with the historic "Doctor Livingston, I presume?" jungle meeting, but gee whiz! Imagine the kids' delight at seeing Ramar stalk from the bush to shake hands with Captain Wilson, famed archer and globe trotter and soon to be famed on TV.

Most of Ramar's adventures have been filmed in Florida, with Africa dubbed in as required. It's been great for the youngsters, 30 or 40 million of them in the past year, but the unconvincing background sets didn't fool the adults for a minute. One hundred twenty stations have shown 52 films of the intrepid Ramar, entreaching Jon Hall in the role for life. Principally because Jon is a good, if not spellbinding actor, and a model for kids both on and off the screen, his trench has filled up with gold.

This Wilson chap is likewise a solid character the kids will admire and there's certainly room in television for both his and Jon Hall's show. While the Captain's new venture will be loaded with the same wholesome fare, which is a credit to the Ramar series, it can be complimented in these days of swiping and imitating, for being a completely new departure in the field of jungle adventure on TV. While both "Bwana Jim," as Wilson is tagged, and Ramar will be tramping the same kind of jungle scenery and squirming out of similar harrowing predicaments, Wilson plans a script change in this series which may include a second male lead. The competition will be bow and arrows against firearms and both hunters will have a love interest in Leila, the leading lady.

We doubt very much whether Ramar will meet "Bwana Jim" in darkest Africa, but we'll be meeting him pretty soon on our screens. And, of course, we'll continue to meet Ramar there every week.

STARR NEWS: It's bon voyage for Garry Moore and his family who leave for Europe July 26 for a six weeks' holiday. Garry's new time schedule on CBS began July 5 and his show can be seen Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. EDT. While Moore roams abroad with his little camera, Henry Morgan of "I've Got A Secret" takes over the chores of the show. . . . There are three actors, Touch Connors, Rock Hudson and Steve Mitchell, being considered for the new "Sandstone" series authored by Francis Ames. The "Sandstone Shenanigans" is an unusual and delightful half-hour show about a Western cow town that is constantly at odds with its arch rival, the no-good town of Gumbo Flats. It has homespun humor, pure and simple, with the philosophy native to those close to the earth.

Rumor, rumor!—That Ed Murrow settles in Hollywood. . . . That the Mickey Spillane pilot series has been thumbed down by that much hoped for toothpaste sponsor. Kane Richmond, the "Shadow" on films and radio for so long is packaging a new TV and theater series called "Judge Whippet," based on Factual Court Cases. Here we go again. . . . Margaret Whiting's 15 minute five nights a week local ABC telethon got a coast to coast time slot starting July 6. New format—same network, half hour once a week.
