Armistice Day first was desig-nated by Congress as a legal holi-day in 1938, but six of the 16 observances since then have found the nation fighting again-in World War II and in Korea.

Rep. Rees (R-Kan) backed by various veterans' organizations put through Congress a resolution to change the name of the day, President Eisenhower concurred, signing the measure June 1. Rees says at least 31 states have agreed to go along with the change.
