Sunny Wood Home Has Redwood Exterior

Salem's first Sunny Wood home at 1895 John Street has overall dimension of 75 by 33 feet. Genuine redwood has been used on the exterior and the roof is composed of snow white dolomite laid on three layers of paper. Family rooms in Sunny Wood homes have floor level windows, panel radiant heat and a diversity of floor coverings. Rooms are insulated with aluminum foil, wired for low voltage, remote control and a high fidelity sound system.

"Sunny Wood House," an adventure in modern living to be open for inspection today at 1895 John Street by Weisse & Weisse, contractors, builders and lessors is an all electric home containing 1800 square feet of floor space and featuring such new innovation as a low voltage, remote control wiring system, aluminum foil insulation, custom built high fidelity sound system, and a built-up roof of snow white dolomite laid on three layers of paper.

Over-all dimensions of Salem's first Sunny Wood home are a length of 75 feet, a width of 33 and overhanging eaves 45 inches wide. Genuine redwood siding, oiled to bring out the natural grain and color, has been used on the exterior. Outside trim has been accomplished in a two-tone effect using tropical blue and sea moss green.

Combination living and television rooms are 30 by 12 feet. An effect of outside living has been attained by use of 20 feet of crystal glass windows extending to the floor and overlooking the front yard. A 14 foot window in the dining room affords a view of the concrete patio 18 by 36 feet and located at the rear of this Sunny Wood home.

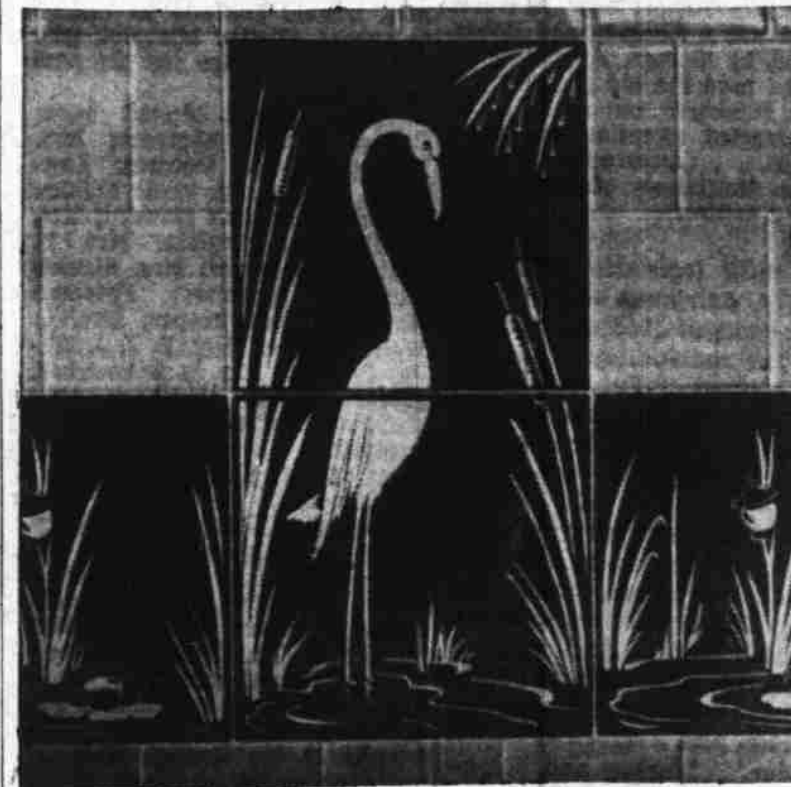

A built-in oven of stainless steel and surface unit stoves are featured in the kitchen. The electric broiler is set into the brick wall of the fireplace. A raised hearthstone of Arizona flagstone has been used. The fireplace is constructed of sylvan brick.

Installed in this ultra modern kitchen are factory built kitchen cabinets of birch wood covered with three coats of hot lacquer and featuring drawers with nylon rollers and bearings for ease of operation. Kitchen counter tops are of Goodyear Vynil in marschino red.

Armstrong linoleum in a new mottled pattern of grey-green, black and red cover the kitchen floor as well as the floor in the family room. Mahogany doors have been used throughout.

Heating is attained by use of Wesix baseboard panels offering a radiant heat along room perimeters. Aluminum foil insulation has been placed in sidewalls, ceiling and floor.

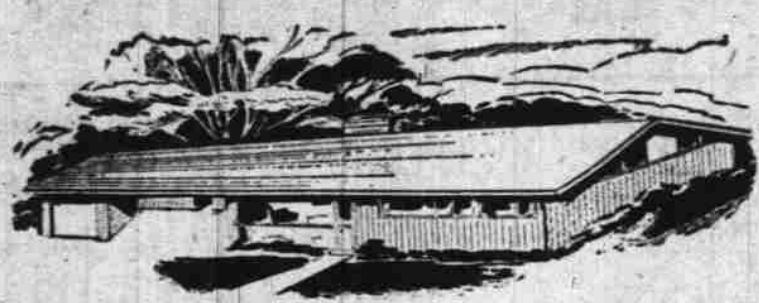

Floors in this Weisse & Weisse construction are solid oak. Closets, and they are double, have been installed in each of this home's three bedrooms. Finish in the bathroom is canary yellow with an antique gold rug for the floor. Of course there is an ample and ingenious built-in medicine cabinet. Featured in the bathroom wall is an ornament of baked enamel depicting a realistic swan at repose, perhaps in papyrus of the Nile.

Bathroom wall ornament portrayed in green and white and set in tile of canary yellow depicts a swan in repose amid papyrus. The effect is heightened by use of an antique gold rug floor covering.

An air lift that carried 138,700 passengers and 170,343,000 pounds of freight was used to build the railroad which taps the newly developed Labrador-Quebec iron deposit.

Electric bulbs for special purposes are made no larger than the head of a kitchen match.
