YWCA review . . .

By GAIL E. WOODS
Recreational Director, YWCA

In a time of restless uncertainty, our thoughts and strivings in this season are toward those realities of life — our families and friends. Their response to our gifts, or to our visits, our share in their plans for the New Year, these carry the import of this holiday season. Our plans will be concerned with others, as we end this eventful 1954 with its remembered pleasures and pain, its goals attained and unattained. We shall start the New with resolutions, some new, some last year's with the optimism so typical of us and our heritage. . .

But what about the plans for today, and their realization? Were all your resolutions filled? Has your family received the attention you hoped to find for them this year? . . .

Sponsored by the YWCA on December 27 is the Holiday Ball. This is a community dance for couples of all ages and for those with teen-age children who can make this a family party. Dress is semi-formal, and flowers may be purchased at the dance. Music should please all, says Bill DeCouza, leader of the ten piece band, which will play. . .

So from 9 to 12 on the Monday after Christmas, why not fulfill old resolutions or start a precedent for the New. A ticket (on sale at the YM, YW, and Stevens) would make a thoughtful gift for your family, neighbors, or those friends you have meant to contact this long and busy year. . .

The Busy Needles 4-H Club held its Christmas party at the home of Pauline Bradrick on the Wallace Road. Refreshments, made by the members, were served following several hours of games. . .
