The startling news that U of Washington regents have finally yielded and that a professional football game will be permitted in the Huskies' stadium is all the more surprising when one learns that a local gent, one Harley Hoppe.

came within a short whisker of promoting the entire project. Normally the comparatively young but extremely energetic Hoppe is a teacher at Parrish Junior High. When at Willamette he promoted and managed the school's concert series, and since then has dabbled a bit in further promotions on a private scale. If you were one who watched the New York Giants go through their daily grid drills here last autumn, and purchased a popsicle during the warm afternoons, you bought it from Hoppe. He was the concessionaire. He told us the other night he was trying to rent the Washington Stadium for a pro exhibition next August, featuring the San Francisco 49'ers and New York Giants, feeling that he had something to sell inasmuch as Hugh McElhenny of the 49'ers and Don

New Air Force mentor? Heinrich of the Giants were once Husky All-Americans. Fully aware that the board of regents and athletic director Harvey Cassill severely frowned on professional overtures in the past, Hoppe nonetheless secured an interview with them at Seattle and wound up getting nosed out by the Greater Seattle Civic Organization, the outfit which promotes the big Seafair regattas annually in the Washington city, and which has as top brass one Roscoe (Torchy) Torrance, for many years an official with the Seattle

"There were eight bidders in all," Hoppe tells. "And all of us were quite surprised that the board voted to make the stadium available. My offer would have been accepted had it not been for the local civic group which will now sponsor the game, probably between the 49'ers and Gaints.

"The Greater Seattle group will get 35 per cent of the take, 15 per cent goes to the university and the two teams will divide the other 50 per cent. The game should draw 50,000 people and you can imagine how much money there is to be made. There never has been a real pro game in Seattle before."

Hoppe also passes along the info that director Cassill recommended to the same board of regents that Jack Hurley be allowed to promote a championship boxing bout in Hec Edmundson Pavilion, featuring Rocky Marciano, but was turned down, rather flatly . . .

Perfect OSC Record Visioned in Danger

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis-(Special) - The Oregon State Beavers are off for Seattle Thursday and their weekend Northern Division basketball ser-ies with the Washington Huskies. Games are set for Friday and Saturday nights.

The Beavers won both games over the Huskies here recently, walloping Tippy Dye's crew easily the first night but finding it much more difficult the second. Enjoying the advantages of their home floor, where they are sel-dom defeated, the Huskies are fully expected to make it much tougher for coach Slats Gill's division leaders at Seattle.

Oregon State goes into the series with a perfect record of six victories. But that mark is definitely in danger as the Huskies put forth full effort to salvage their chance for the division ball Writers Assn. elected the forchampionship.

Washington now has two wins against four losses and cannot afford to drop another game. Oregon, in/second place, has five wins and three losses, but does not play in the conference this week. The Webfoots play Brigham Young at Eugene Friday and Saturday nights. Washington State, which scored a startling upset over Washing-ton last weekend, has three wins, six losses, and plays two games with Idaho this weekend. The Vandals have won only one game, while losing four.
