Politics Said Major Factor In Korea War

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators said Tuesday five American commanders believe "political considerations were permitted to overrule military necessities" in the U. N. struggle for victory in Korea.

In reporting on its long study of why the United Nations failed to beat the North Korean and Chinese Communists decisively, the Senate internal security subcommittee suggested that the reasons be kept in mind in developing Formosa policy.

Its unanimous report was based on testimony taken from Gen. Mark Clark and James A. Van Fleet, Adm. Charles T. Joy, and Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer and Edmond M. Almond in a series of public hearings last year.

All five held senior commands in the Korean theater at one time or another. Testimony of the commanders, the subcommittee said, showed they thought victory in Korea was "possible and desirable," and that the means to achieve it would not have resulted in World War III.

The investigators reported that another conclusion drawn by the officers, all of whom are now retired, was that "failure to win in Korea has jeopardized our position in the Far East."

Costa Rican Rebels Jailed In Nicaragua

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UP)—Nicaragua announced Tuesday that all of Costa Rica's remaining rebels have crossed the frontier and been interned by the Nicaraguan government.

Costa Ricans welcomed the end of their two-week-old rebellion with screaming sirens and cheering throngs.

In Managua, Nicaragua's Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa announced the rebels' internment, as barriers to the abolished neutral zone between that country and Costa Rica were dropped and loyalist troops were ordered into the zone to hunt out rebel holdouts.

Sevilla Sacasa made his disclosure in a telephone call to the Organization of American States (OAS) peace commission here. He said more than 250 rebels had been disarmed as OAS observers looked on.

Immediately after the news was passed along, the siren atop the pro-government newspaper La Republica blared out in salute, and excited crowds rushed to its bulletin board. Cheers went up as those in the van spelled out the news that the rebellion, which started Jan. 11, appeared to be definitely ended.

Major fighting stopped last Friday, but the government said about 200 rebels were pocketed in the buffer zone set up to reduce mounting friction between Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

President Jose Figueres accused his old enemy, Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, of supporting the rebellion, but Somoza denied this.

11 Warships to Leave Feb. 8 For Far East

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Three heavy cruisers and eight destroyers are scheduled to leave Los Angeles - Long Beach harbor Feb. 8 for Far Eastern waters, the Navy said Tuesday night.

The vessels would help to make the 7th Fleet in Formosan waters a formidable aggregation, indeed, but a Navy officer denied that this is an emergency or reinforcement move.

Rear Adm. Roland N. Smoot, commander, Mine Force Pacific and senior officer afloat here, said: "This is not necessarily reinforcement, nor is it incident to anything which has occurred recently. It is a routine rotation, planned and scheduled for months."

He said that the occasion of the sailings, in fact, will be used for a Navy exercise, an "opposed sortie" in which he will command a mock enemy opposing the departure.

The ships scheduled to sail are the cruisers Los Angeles, Rochester and Baltimore, and the destroyers Mansfield, De Haven, sole, Higbee and Shelton.

The Baltimore is due here Wednesday, along with eight destroyers. They are part of 33 ships being transferred from the East to the West Coast. Thirteen arrived previously, with 11 to follow.

Bonneville Dam Spillway Repairs Near Completion

PORTLAND (UP)—Repairs on the Bonneville Dam spillway and stilling basin will be completed before the annual Columbia River freshet in spring, Army Engineers said Tuesday.

Most of the repair was on the giant concrete baffles below the spillway. They have been pounded by downrushing water through the past 17 years.

There was some destruction, but the baffles withstood the battering better than the dam-builders had expected, Col. James U. Moorhead, district engineer, said. The original expectation was that the baffles would need restoration after 15 years, he said.

These lasted 17 years, and the expectation now is that they can go an even longer period next time.

The repairs themselves will be completed Jan. 28, and removal of the cofferdams around the baffles will follow. That will take another six weeks.

Police Finally Catch 'Vanishing American'

CHICAGO (UP)—Eugene Johnson, 46, denied in court Tuesday that he tried to avoid payment of fines on 29 traffic tickets dating back to 1949.

"I've been around all the time," Johnson told the judge. "The police just didn't see me."

He tried to work in some of nation's big cities but liquor always tripped him. Since the war he had been arrested 49 times in Phoenix for drunkenness.

Hayes went to Washington last November for the Marine memorial dedication and then came home to the reservation for the last time.

Indian Marine To Be Buried In Arlington

SACATON, Ariz. (UP)—Ira Hayes, the tragic Indian Marine, will rest in Arlington Cemetery among a host of other heroic Americans.

The Marine Corps announced in Phoenix Tuesday that the Iwa Jima flagraiser's body will be interred in the military burial ground at Washington, D. C.

It will lie not far from the recently dedicated Marine war memorial, surmounted by the figures of the six Marines who raised the Stars and Stripes atop Mt. Suribachi when United States forces defeated the Japanese there in 1945.

Hayes, 32, was found dead Monday on his native Pima Indian Reservation. He had died of exposure and drinking too much alcohol.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Vah-Ki Presbyterian Church at Casa Blanca near the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Hayes, at a time yet to be announced.

Hayes' death ended a tormenting existence for the ex-Marine. He couldn't find his place in the everyday world and wandered from his reservation home and back again.
