

Ellsworth Denies Administration Overlooked Talent Irrigation Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ellsworth (R-Ore) said Thursday the Eisenhower administration has not abandoned Southern Oregon's Talent Irrigation project. He called a charge by Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) that it was a "gross misstatement."

Neuberger said in a Senate speech Wednesday the fact that no construction funds are budgeted for the project in the coming fiscal year "constitutes a betrayal of the people of Southern Oregon."

Brown Blames Neuberger

State Sen. Gene L. Brown, Grants Pass Republican, attacked U.S. Sen. Richard L. Neuberger Thursday for not getting funds for the Talent Irrigation project in southern Oregon.

Brown's prepared statement followed Neuberger's criticism of the Eisenhower administration for not doing the same thing.

"Sen. Neuberger's failure to obtain the funds to go forward with this vital project foreshadow a future of betrayal and failure of fulfillment of his campaign promises," Brown's statement said.

The Detroit Police Department was the first to install radios in patrol cars.
