

This Family Stays in Tune...

By JOY MILLER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There is always harmony in the Jerome Hines household: Mamma and Papa are opera singers, and little David Jerome is a chirp off the old block.

"He was a year old on Valentine's Day, and already he is singing," says his pretty, petite mother, Lucia Evangelista of New York City Center. "I mean, he follows me with the same pitch."

Hines, young Metropolitan Opera Co. basso, nods: "When he's old enough to sing bass he can have it."

"We don't have a baby-sitting problem like some couples," explains Miss Evangelista, who would rather be called Mrs. Hines. "Both our mothers are at home with us."

No Baby Sitting Trouble

"I don't understand all the fuss about mother-in-laws," says her husband. "We all get along fine. And Lucia and I haven't had an argument in our nearly three years of marriage."

"How could I fight with HER?" Hines, 6 foot 9 1/2, looks like a man asking how you could beat a soft, cuddly kitten. "But seriously, it's a big help having two opera singers in the family. We understand each other better because we have the same problem."

"I depend on her professionally too. I come off the stage and ask her how I did. If she wrinkles her nose, I know what she mean."

Mrs. Hines laughs and relates how her husband got started singing: It seems he was asked to drop out of glee club in his Hollywood, Calif. junior high school because he couldn't carry a tune. But at 16, because the pretty girl who lived next door was taking voice lessons, he started too.

Joined Met at 25

At 25 he joined the Met, proving something or other about mind over music. Now, at 33, he sings 30 leading basso roles.

The singers pursue their hobbies in concert — especially spearfishing.

"I'm afraid of sharks and manta rays," volunteers Mrs. Hines. "But Jerry's not."

He turns to his wife. "I bet David will love spearfishing in a few years. And by that time..."

She looks demure. "We want to have one more child—a girl," she says.

Power production in Sweden has doubled twice since 1934 and now totals 22,700,000 kilowatt hours a year.

MOTHER GOOSE ARIAS... Opera singers Jerome Hines and his wife, Lucia Evangelista, make it a musical threesome at home with their 1-year-old son, David Jerome.

Matrix Table Banquet on April 14

Salem members of Theta Sigma Phi and local civic leaders and journalists have received invitations to the seventh annual Matrix Table Banquet to be held Thursday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Multnomah Hotel Rose Bowl in Portland.

Mrs. Louise Humphrey, well-known in Salem for her work as acting-manager of Oregon Business and Tax Research, was named as one of the four 1955 Women of Achievement to be honored at the dinner. Mrs. Humphrey has covered the Oregon Legislature for the past seven sessions as a special reporter and since 1949 has served on the Legislative Interim Tax committee under Governors McKay and Patterson.

Also to be honored are Kay Boland, director of The Oregonian Hostess House; Berte Wiechmann, executive designer for Jantzen, Inc., and Mrs. Clifford Zollinger, founder of Senior Craftsmen of Oregon and expert in the field of gerontology.

Surprise Award

A surprise feature of the dinner is the presentation of the Edith Knight Hill Memorial award. This award, named for the late Mrs. Hill, better known as Marian Miller of the Oregonian staff, is given for outstanding service to

Breakfasts Will Follow Services
