

Video 'Pretty Good' Say FCC Monitors

By BETTY PRYOR

WASHINGTON (UP)—What do the watchdogs of the air waves—the Federal Communications Commission—think about the quality of radio and television programs? Their composite verdict: Pretty good, but plenty of room for improvement—especially in commercials. Generally, they believe that by and large the public gets about what it wants in programs. But they think a lot of wind can be taken out of long-winded commercials.

City Council To Consider Annexation

Annexation, sewer construction, street improvements and other municipal activities will occupy the Salem City Council meeting Monday night in City Hall.

A public hearing will be held on the annexation of approximately 57 acres in the W. D. Cole donation land claim adjacent to West Salem.

Public hearings are also set on the city's intentions to construct sanitary sewers on High street, south of Ohmart street, and in Kummer street.

A bill which would prohibit semi-truck and trailer units from blocking off more than one regular traffic lane in downtown areas except at specified times will also be given its first reading.

Fencing to Start On Recreation Site by Champoeg

Construction of a fence on the south boundary of an area recently set aside near Champoeg by the Marion County Court for recreational purposes will begin soon.

The court Friday requested County Surveyor A. D. Graham to survey and re-establish the southern line of the land which is located downstream from Champoeg on the Willamette River.

Friday's order was made because of reports that a logging operation has started on private land adjacent to the 50-acre recreational strip.

Cattle Sale to Initiate New Auction Yard

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman

"It isn't that I don't like the cattle. I like them so well, that they take too much of my time."

That was R. B. Sears' statement when he announced his complete dispersal sale set for Tuesday at 12:30 noon at Gillaspie's new auction yard. Initiation of the auction yard, known as the "Little Cow Palace" will be with the sale. It is to be the first event staged there. The yard is on S. 25th Street across from the airport.

Sears, who has been connected with the Hamilton Furniture Store for a number of years, says he started in the beef cattle business 11 years ago, "meaning to keep it little and only as a spare-time hobby." But the hobby outgrew the "sparetime" and 54 head will be offered in the auction.

Leased Land

"We'll continue to live on the ranch, and we'll have our horses, but I've leased the farmland for five years," he explained. A grass seed program is to be run on the farm for the present, Sears said as he added that "sometime in the future I hope to be able to have cattle again."

In addition to Sears' highly bred Herefords there are two guest consigners, William E. Healey with five head and James L. Payne with three head. A quarter horse mare and a quarter horse colt will also be sold.

The widely known livestock salesman, H. B. Sager of Bozeman, Mont., will be the auctioneer. Assisting with the sale are Lyle S. Holt, American Polled Hereford Association; Sherman Guttridge, Western Livestock Journal; Bob McKellar, Pacific Stockman; Charles Eggleston, Polled Hereford World Magazine; Herbert Osland, American Hereford Journal and William L. Bashford, Hartford, Ins., Co., Fresno, Calif., in addition to fieldmen from the Salem banks.

'Lively Sale'

"It's going to be a lively sale and the cattle will move right along. They'll have to, to finish in good time," Sears said.

In the lot are five bulls offered for sale, oldest of which is six-year-old FV Prince 488th. Two are 18 months old, one 10 months and the other seven months.

The Feaslug

KENT, England—Workers carry British Royal Navy's new ship-to-air guided missile, the Feaslug, at navy barracks near Chatham, Kent, England, where it will be shown to the public for the first time. The Feaslug carries four booster rockets in its tail for added momentum in flight. (AP Wirephoto)

PERSONAL LOOT

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—A bandit held up a Boston Post road diner. He fled with $80—$30 from the cash register and $50 from a waitress' wallet.

Three six-months old calves are also offered for sale.

Domina blood predominates in the cows offered, with Mischief blood running a close second. Blanchard, President, and Advance bloodlines show up, too, in the breeding records.

Salem Artist's Work Shown

A Salem artist's paintings are being displayed at Oregon State College this week. The artist, Melville T. Wire, is a retired minister.

The exhibit began April 4 and will close April 16. It is in the campus Memorial Union.

Wire received his early art training at Willamette University and has displayed his work over the state and in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. His paintings and etchings are a documentary of the Oregon country, says Gordon Gilkey, head of the OSC art department.

Wire's works consist mostly of water color paintings. One of his etchings, "Cabin by the River," was chosen by a national insurance company to inaugurate a series of covers for the firm's magazine.

Church Plans Alterations In Basement

A $35,000 alteration project is planned by Knight Memorial Congregational Church, 245 S. 19th St., according to a permit issued Friday by the city engineer's office.

A church spokesman said the project would involve construction of a basement holding several class rooms, a dining room, kitchen and stage. E. E. Batterman, Salem, is contractor.

Other permits issued Friday included: A. H. Randall, to alter house at 1510 B St., $1,500; Leon Lambert, to alter house at 1445 Ferry St., $500; C. W. Bartell, to alter a motel at 2505 S. Commercial St., $3,600; Albert Odermatt, to alter garage at 1130 Dorval Ave., $500; Fred Paulus, to alter two-story store and office at 357 Court St., $3,500.
