

House Votes Postmen's Pay Raise Despite Veto Threat

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite warnings of a veto, the House voted 224-189 Wednesday to give a half-million postal workers an 8.2 per cent pay increase.

Republicans sent up the warnings about almost certain rejection at the White House. But Democratic boosters of the raise won out after retorting they weren't so sure President Eisenhower would turn it down and claiming an "excellent" chance of overriding a veto even if he should.

Eisenhower has indicated strongly he opposes any increase beyond the average 7.6 per cent provided in the bill which came back on the floor Wednesday. The test centered on an amendment by Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) to lift the figure to 8.2 per cent.

Voting adhered closely to party lines. Favoring the higher raise were 202 Democrats and 22 Republicans. Against were 172 Republicans and 17 Democrats. A voice vote approved making the increase retroactive to March 1.

Just Formality
With the main issue settled, the vote of 324-85 for final passage was just a formality.

As now recommended by the House, the raise for the country's letter carriers and other postal employees would cost an estimated 171 million dollars. But how much Congress as a whole ultimately decides on, subject to presidential okay, hinges on Senate-House negotiations.

The Senate previously voted a 10 per cent increase. This would add some 220 million dollars to the post office payroll. Organized postal employees hope for support of the higher figure when the matter goes to conference, but some lawmakers predicted the 8.2 rate was more likely to survive.

Opposed were Republican Reps. Holmes, Horan, Mack and Westland, all from Washington state; Coon, Ellsworth and Norblad, all Oregon; and Budge, Idaho.

The vote was on an amendment to a pay raise reclassification bill. The issue was whether to favor the 8.2 per cent pay raise or one of 7.6 per cent backed by the House Post Office Committee.

Topsoil Dust Hangs Curtain On Southwest

DALHART, Tex. (AP) — Rich topsoil swept aloft by one of Colorado's worst dust storms cast a hazy curtain over parts of the Southwest Wednesday.

Winds subsided and the fine dust sifted slowly downward from sunny skies.

Afternoon visibilities ranged from 2 1/2 miles in the Texas panhandle up to 5 miles in Western Oklahoma and Southern Kansas.

The dust also was clearing out of extreme Northeast New Mexico.

Colorado skies were clear of dust but the memory lingered on.

A highway department employee at Strasburg, 37 miles east of Denver, called Tuesday's big blow "a real one."

"Worst since 1935, and I've been in this country for years," Roy Norris added.

Winds up to 69 miles an hour at a number of points sucked up tons of soil from the thousands of Colorado acres.

Traffic piled up along stretches of highways east of Denver and inched forward slowly during the brief intervals in which the brassy sun pushed through the pale light.

There were a number of pileups but injuries were minor because of the slow pace.

Two late afternoon traffic accidents west of Salem Wednesday left several cars damaged but no injuries more serious than bruises.

State Policeman Leonard Christler reported.

About 4 p. m. a mile and a half west of town a car driven by Harry Clyde Dawson, Salem Route 1, struck the rear of that of George F. Kraus of Silverton when Kraus stopped for a school bus discharging pupils.

Both cars were extensively damaged, but neither driver was hurt.

Accident Suit Verdict Upheld By High Court

A $15,000 verdict obtained by Hazel Morey, widow and administrator of the estate of Alvin Morey, against J. C. Redifer, Portland, was affirmed by the State Supreme Court Wednesday.

The opinion was written by Justice Walter Toose and upheld Circuit Judge Carl Wimberly, Coos County.

Morey died as the result of an accident on the Coast Highway between Bandon and Coquille on May 23, 1952. His automobile was struck by an unloaded truck and trailer operated by Redifer's employee who was attempting to pass a loaded truck on the approach of a blind curve.

The court concluded that defendant had a fair trial and there was no prejudicial error in the record.

A jury's verdict for defendant in an action to replevin a semi-trailer also was affirmed by the high court.

This decision, by Justice George Rossman, affirmed Circuit Judge James R. Bain, Multnomah County, in an action brought by Thomas R. Decillo and William T. Johnston, plaintiffs-appellants, against LaMonte C. Osborn and F. L. Osborn, defendants-respondents.

Title to the trailer had been transferred to the plaintiffs who contended the transfer was made in consideration of money advanced to them by defendants.

Contention that the court erred in instructing the jury was rejected by the Supreme Court.

Also affirmed was a verdict of a Multnomah County Circuit Court jury awarding $3,139.50 to Orval Sorenson, as commission on the sale of an apartment house. The Brice Realty Company, Portland, was defendant in the suit.

Opinion in this case also was written by Justice Toose.

Other opinions: The court affirmed a Multnomah County decision on a $3000 suit involving Bert Inman, plaintiff-respondent, vs. Brice Realty Company, defendant-appellant.

Also affirmed was a Lane County decision in a divorce suit involving Regina Hickethier vs. Hubert Hickethier.

Crash Damages Parked Vehicle
A car driven by Elaine A. Stoltenberg, 640 Menlo Dr., Wednesday evening ran into a parked car at 1035 Broadway St., inflicting severe damage on both cars, police reported.

Owner of the parked car was John E. Hall, 1511 N. Church St. Mrs. Stoltenberg told officers she was watching her daughter and ran too close to the curb. The front end of her car was smashed in and the rear end, right front fender and hood of Hall's.

Ex-Bend Union Official Admits Embezzlement

BEND (AP) — A former union official surrendered here Wednesday and pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $7,288 from his local.

He is Jack A. Chambers, 31, who before his disappearance, March 25, was secretary-treasurer and business agent of CIO Woodworkers local 67.

Chambers, a veteran of the Bataan Death March who says he lost a leg working as a prison laborer in a Japanese mine in World War II, walked into the police station and said, "I guess they're looking for me."

He waived preliminary hearing before Circuit Judge R. S. Hamilton. The judge turned his case over to the probation officer for pre-sentence investigation.

Sheriff Forrest Sholes said Chambers admitted he embezzled the union's funds "a little at a time" between November, 1953, and March 23, 1955. The shortage was discovered through an audit and Charles Marrin, president of the local, filed a complaint.

Chambers was a leader in last summer's long lumber strike, which closed the big Brooks-Scanlon mill here for a time. He figured in several picket line clashes when a back-to-work movement started.

He told police he had lived in the Los Angeles area since leaving here and that he was tired from driving all night to get back and give himself up.

Chinese Reds 'Woo' Moslem Red Haters

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP) — Red China Wednesday wooed the solidly anti-Communist Moslem countries of the Middle East by taking the side of the Arab states against Israel.

The Arabs are represented and Israel is not at the 25-nation Asian-African conference that opened here Monday.

Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai played his political cards skillfully in the role he apparently has assumed of being everybody's friend at the conference. He joined seven Arab countries at the conference's political committee in demanding quick settlement of the Palestine question.

A resolution on Palestine proposed by Afghanistan and supported by Chou said:

"In view of existing tension in the Middle East caused by the situation in Palestine and the danger of tension to world peace, the Asian-African conference declares its support of the rights of the Arab people in Palestine and calls for implementation of United Nations resolutions on Palestine."

Millionth 1955 Chevrolet Made
DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet Motors built its one millionth 1955 model Chevrolet passenger car Wednesday.

The milestone vehicle came off the assembly lines earlier this year than ever before in the company's U.S. and Canadian assembly plants. Chevrolet began producing 1955 cars last October.

Salem Area Guardsmen Quick To Answer Nation-Wide Alert

(Story also on page one)
Salem area National Guardsmen, participating in Wednesday's nation-wide "Minute Man" alert, feel they did very well in mustering nearly full strength in a matter of minutes and posting guards at strategic installations.

Local participants were Companies B and D of the 162nd Infantry Regiment and Battery D of the 722nd Anti-aircraft Gun Battalion, all of Salem, and the tank company of the 162nd Infantry Regiment of Dallas.

Master Sergeant A. A. Franke of the anti-aircraft battery, said his outfit had its four guns set up at the Capitol shopping center and north of the Capitol building within an hour and a half of the 5 p.m. alert.

74 Mobilized
At the end of the second hour, 74 of the unit's 79 enlisted men and all six officers were mobilized. Those not needed on the guns were put to work executing the battery's loading plan for a theoretical move-out.

Capt. Fabian A. Nelson of Company B, 162nd Infantry, had 68 of its 101 enlisted men and three of its five officers ready to spread around the city at 5:45 p.m. and 88 per cent of its strength on hand by 6:50 p.m.

Observing that some of his men have to get here from Jefferson, Detroit and other faraway points, he felt his unit did "damn good."

Sgt. Clayton Zeeb of Co. D, 162nd Infantry, said his 80-man unit was assembled up to mobilization strength—60 per cent—by 5:35 p.m. and was on guard 10 minutes later. By 6:15 p.m. all but five men were accounted for.

Here again some of the men had to come from Aumsville, Turner, Stayton and other points.

Capt. Stanley P. Singler's tank company in Dallas rounded up all of its officers and 90 of his 93 enlisted men who got going on their five tanks, five jeeps, four trucks and one tank transport.

They set up road blocks around Dallas and guard posts at the Polk County courthouse, the city hall, some war-useful industries, the radio station, the telegraph office and the Southern Pacific station.

Part of the suppertime alert consisted of getting the men fed. Cooks got coffee going at the various armories and arrangements were made with eateries. Box lunches and 19-cent hamburgers were among the fare.

The infantry units in Salem took up guard at the state Capitol group, the telephone building, the city hall radio room, the waterworks reservoir, radio transmitters and stations, the Willamette River bridges and the airport.

PORTLAND (AP) — The National Guard tested its national mobilization plans Wednesday, and Oregon's 6,400 guardsmen were called to duty at 5 p.m.

The mobilization call came from Washington, D.C., and through the offices of Gov. Patterson and Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Rilea, adjutant general, who put into effect the alert long prepared for the state's units.

The principal units were the 41st Division, the 237th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group and the Air Guard. Liaison planes and helicopters were alerted to take to the air to help maintain contact with police and civil defense officials.

Headquarters for the state operation were set up at Portland, with unit commanders sending in hourly reports.

Impairment of Stratocruiser Controls Told

SEATTLE (AP) — An aerodynamic engineer testified Wednesday that there was "a very definite impairment of the mechanical control systems" of a Pan American World Airways Stratocruiser when it was forced down in the water off the Oregon Coast March 26.

Mark Smaby, the Boeing Airplane Co. engineer, said testimony of other witnesses at a Civil Aeronautics Board investigation of the crash convinced him of the impairment.

Nineteen persons were saved while four lost their lives in the ditching of the Honolulu-bound airliner.

Asked if he could explain why there had been an apparent elevator lock after the Stratocruiser lost its right inboard engine, Smaby replied:

"There was no obvious reason. It is apparent that some part or object may have come back and imbedded in the elevator control surfaces or in the fuselage control wires. This is purely an estimate."

Lads' Plan to Build Dynasty Overthrown

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — An ambitious plan by four boys to establish their own government on offshore San Miguel Island came to an ignominious end before their expedition started Wednesday.

Police found them, asleep, under a parked car stocked with an arsenal including a machine gun, two rifles, two shotguns, two sticks of dynamite, a pistol, a bayonet and six knives.

The boys, one 16, one 14 and two 13, had copies of their own constitution for the "Republic of San Miguel."

The oldest boy was to be the governor, the others lieutenant governor, treasurer and controller. Others who came later would be "the peasants."

The boys, who ran away from their Venice homes Tuesday, hoped to somehow get rope, candles, crates of vegetables and a boat to get to the uninhabited island.

PORTLAND (AP) — Federal Judge Claude McCulloch sentenced two conscientious objectors to six months in prison Wednesday for refusing to be inducted into the armed forces.

The other man was Gale Hallett, 20, Portland, who pleaded guilty last October.

Ike's Aid for Asia Request Hits Snarl

By J.W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's new $3 billion dollar foreign aid program, a "save Asia" project, ran into a legislative snarl Wednesday a few hours after the message outlining it reached Congress.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee announced that, contrary to custom, he is planning to postpone final committee action on the authorization bill until the full Senate has voted on it.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said on the other hand he expected the House to act first. He told newsmen that until then his committee plans only incidental hearings.

For Firm Stand
Most of the money requested by the President is to help free Asian countries stand firm against Communism.

Conditions in Europe are greatly improved, Eisenhower said in his message. He pointed to the creation of defense forces that "now constitute a significant deterrent to aggression."

"The immediate threats to world security and stability are now centered in Asia," he said. "The preponderance of funds requested of the Congress will be used to meet the threat there."

Richards told a news conference he planned to delay action on the program because he had heard from unnamed "influential" senators there is "grave doubt that the Senate will vote for any economic aid this year."

Anyway, Richards said, his committee is busy.

The President's program for the year beginning July 1 includes $2,717,500,000 for direct military and associated assistance and $812,500,000 for other purposes largely economic.

Case Closed Against Fongs

PORTLAND (AP) — The state closed its case against Sherry and Wayne Fong Wednesday after presenting medical testimony that a combination of alcohol and barbitol killed 16-year-old Diane Hank.

The state contends that the Fongs administered the drinks and the sleeping pills to kill the girl because she knew too much about what the state said were Fong's narcotics and gambling rackets in Portland.

Dr. Joseph A. Beeman, former director of the State Crime Laboratory, said barbiturate poisoning killed the girl, with death possibly hastened by the drug's combination with alcohol.

Eating Spree Continued by Michigan Man

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Pennsylvania miner Phillip Yazzdik wearily pushed back after eating his 31st order of fried chicken Wednesday and claimed a world record.

A two-fisted eater who discards knives and forks because "they slow me down," the 42-year-old, 200-pound Yazzdik chomped steadily from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to reduce 15 1/2 ten-ounce chickens to a huge pile of bones.

He had said he could finish 40 servings, but declared himself satisfied at 31. He figures his record will stand, along with the one he claimed at Chicago Tuesday when he devoured 77 hamburgers.

Yazzdik, an Olyphant, Pa., coal miner and delivery man, said he'd like to get some exercise, then dig into a few orders of spaghetti and meat balls for dinner.

He passed up his customary breakfast of 14 hot dogs and several dozen of milk as well as his three dozen eggs for lunch to concentrate on his chicken eating. He put away 16 fourteen-ounce glasses of pop between chicken bites.

Yazzdik, father of seven children, had a $130 a week food bill for the family. In between cooking meals, his wife works as a cleaning woman to help with the budget.

He got Wednesday's chicken free, along with $150 and $100 expense money from the Northwest Drive-In Restaurant where he performed his feat.

Veto Sought For Portland Tax Ban Bill

PORTLAND (AP) — Gov. Paul Patterson will be asked by the City Council to veto the Legislature's bill which would outlaw Portland business and professional license fees based on income.

The council instructed the city attorney's office Wednesday to draft a resolution calling the bill a "plain violation of the principle of home rule" and urging Patterson to veto it.

Councilmen figure the measure, which would become effective in 1957, would take from the city about $1,400,000 annually in license fees. They also are afraid the bill would deprive Portland of utility franchise fees estimated at between $750,000 and $1,000,000 annually.

The city attorney's office said it would expect considerable litigation on the franchise fee matter if the governor signs the bill.

Police Wagon Traps Man

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP) — Citizens passing a parked police patrol wagon Wednesday chuckled at a man inside begging to be let out.

He pleaded for about an hour before he was recognized as Edward Beitz, a city hall employee, and released. Beitz was trapped inside when the door locked as he was cleaning the vehicle.

It was Portland's 13th traffic death of the year.
