

Yugoslavia Hails Tito-Russian Meet as Step for World Peace

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavia Saturday hailed the coming Belgrade conference of Yugoslav and Soviet government leaders as another step in an attempt to improve world relations.

U.S. Ambassador James W. Riddleberger was told about the Russian visit at the Foreign Office Friday morning and was assured that it would not affect cordial relations between Yugoslavia and the United States, embassy sources said.

Britain, France, Greece and Turkey—the last two partners in a Mediterranean defense alliance—were reported likewise advised.

The information was passed to the United States, it was learned, after Yugoslavia had signed an agreement for shipment of 200,000 tons of American wheat to aid Yugoslavia.

A Foreign Office statement said the agreement of an Austrian treaty, four-power talk arrangements and disarmament negotiations appeared to provide a favorable climate for settlement of international problems.

The mutual readiness of the Yugoslav and Soviet governments to hold the meeting at a high level "should be considered as an integral part" of all other efforts to improve the world situation, the statement added.

The statement described the meeting as "a logical result of Yugoslavia's policy of peace and coexistence. Yugoslavia is determined not only to strengthen and develop existing useful peaceful cooperation with the West but to extend this cooperation to all other countries willing to accept it."

The semi-official news agency Yugopress, known to be close to Foreign Office thinking, commented that the meeting "does not mark any change or a new orientation of Yugoslav foreign policy."

Salem School District Budget Vote Set Friday

Voters in Salem School District 24CJ will be asked Friday to approve a 1955-56 school budget of $1,166,809 in excess of the six per cent limitation. If approved, it would call for a millage levy for schools of approximately 57 mills.

The school board, anxious to get out the vote, plans to distribute bulletins this week to many of the city's service and civic clubs urging support of the figure. School children will also be asked to give the bulletin to parents.

The budget calls for a 6.5 millage increase for the district. The total budget for the year is $5,177,447, leaving a balance of $2,537,874 to be raised. Approximately $700,000 of that is within the six per cent limitation.

Salary Items

The single most expensive item in the budget, directors and budget committee members pointed out in passing on the figure late last month, is the $2,386,200 earmarked for salaries of teachers, principals, supplies, text books and other at-school costs.

In an attempt to eliminate confusion on where persons should vote, the school board has also prepared a complete list of where to vote in the school election according to the voters' regular precinct numbers.

Precincts Listed

The list is as follows:

Highland School—precincts 7, 14, 26, 35, 36 and 204. Washington School—precincts 32, 57, 60, 61, 66, 69, 70, 72 and 128. Grant School—precincts 8, 9, 15, 21, 22, 37, 38 and 42.

Englewood School—precincts 1, 19, 25, 27, 28, 39, 205, 206 and 207. Public School Administration Building—precincts 2, 4, 10, 11, 12, 16, 17, 23, 29, 31 and 203. Richmond School—precincts 3, 5, 6, 20, 30, 30, 201 and 202. Leslie Junior High School—precincts 13, 18, 24, 33, 34, 41, 154 and 208.

Morningside School—precincts 45, 46, 47, 48, 51, 52, 156, 158, 164 and 168. Four Corners School—precincts 54, 55, 58, 63 and 166. West Salem School—precincts 3, 32, 36, 43, 44 and 45 in Polk County.

Anyone who voted in the last general election or who registered for voting on or before April 19 and has been a resident of the Salem district for six months immediately prior to the election is eligible to vote on the budget.

Polling places will open at 2 p.m. and remain open until 8 p.m.

Gen. Charles Pelet Summersall, Army chief of staff under the Coolidge administration who died Saturday.

Summersall, Coolidge Chief Of Staff, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Death Saturday overtook another of the nation's famous old soldiers—Gen. Charles Pelet Summersall, army chief of staff in the Coolidge administration.

The distinguished soldier-educator who tried to wake up America on the preparedness issue long before the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor died at 11:50 a. m. at Walter Reed Hospital. He was 85.

Gen. Summersall had been a patient at the hospital since last August.

Gen. Summersall was chief of staff of the Army in 1926-30. He had been the country's oldest ranking soldier since the death of Gen. Peyton C. March last April 13 at the age of 90. March was chief of staff during World War I in which Summersall distinguished himself in France.

When he retired as chief of staff, Summersall became president of The Citadel, military college at Charleston, S. C. He made a fine record during his 22 years there before retiring in 1953. Gen. Douglas MacArthur succeeded him as chief of staff.

Gen. Mark Clark, retired, who succeeded Summersall at The Citadel and who is visiting his mother here, said he saw Summersall Saturday morning before his death.

"He not only was a great soldier, but he was a great educator," said Clark. "He will be missed by everyone who felt his influence."

Secretary of the Army Stevens said Summersall was a "brilliant leader" who contributed immeasurably to the Army's progress. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, present chief of staff, said the Army and nation greatly benefitted from Summersall's "unstinting devotion to duty" during a career of almost 40 years.

Summersall retired from the Army 24 years ago. During the summer before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1951, he spoke often urging preparedness and deploring what he called the apathy of Americans to their own national safety.

High Ranking Officers, Arms Display to Mark Military Day

A renowned admiral and equipment used by the National Guard and armed forces reserves will headline Salem's observance of Armed Forces Day Tuesday.

In addition, two National Guard helicopters from the Portland Air Base will land in front of on-lookers at the north end of the Capitol Mall at 11 a.m.

Larger pieces of equipment, including a Navy Corsair fighter plane, will be displayed on the mall. Smaller arms will be shown in the Capitol building rotunda.

Noon Luncheon

Adm. Howard Collins, commander of the Military Seat Transportation Service, Pacific, will be the featured speaker at the noon luncheon at the Salem Armory. The public is invited.

Appearing with Adm. Collins will be Col. George Ceuleers, commander of the Portland Air Base, Gov. Paul Patterson and commanders of the Reserve and Guard units here.

On display will be a model observation post, sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol, and a joint operations center model. A radio-controlled plane used by anti-aircraft units will also be shown, to be brought here by the National Guard.

Displays Planned

The Navy will display a radio van and Army Reserve its Bishop trainer and a water purification set, plus small arms.

Here from the 162nd Infantry Regiment of the Guard there, also a tank turret trainer from the same regiment.

The Guard will also display several heavy ordnance vehicles and a 10-ton wrecker.

Marines will show training aids and small arms; Civil Defense will display its disaster and hospital rig trucks.

Capt. Harvey Latham of the adjutant general's office heads the display committee.

Drivers Cited After Wreck

A rear-end collision Saturday evening at Vista Avenue and S. Commercial Street resulted in scratches to one driver and citations to both, State Policeman Don Kleinsmith reported.

Gerald Lewis White, 16, 430 E. Ewald St., was cited for having no operator's license on his person, and Jean Allen Bowen, 22, 7261 Mill St., failure to leave his name and address at an accident scene.

Kleinsmith said Bowen, who received the scratches, left for his grandmother's house before police arrived.

No Trace Left Of Einstein Ashes

NEW YORK (AP)—The ashes of Prof. Albert Einstein have been disposed of and "no physical traces are left anywhere," the family attorney said Saturday.

Attorney David J. Levy said in a statement there have been many "inquiries as to the disposition of the cremated remains" of the late scientist.

He said he was making the statement also because there have been "suggestions for a variety of public ceremonies, dedications and the like."
