Hint of Herbs

Products of Garden Plot Give Lift To Meat, Vegetables, and Hot Bread

By MAXINE BUREN
Statesman Woman's Editor

Those sweet herbs that are the pride of many a home gardener come into an important role if the family cook knows about using them. Parsley, chives, green onions are well known and much used, but some of the other herbs almost as versatile just stay unused in the garden.

Now take chervil, here's a recipe that turns hamburger into Boeuf Carres by a mere flip of the kitchen shears:

BOEUF CARRES

- 1 pound hamburger
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon chervil
- Julienne potatoes
- Chicory
- 2 medium-size onions

Blend the hamburger with the unbeaten egg; season with salt, pepper and chervil. Pat into a sheet as square as possible and cut into eight squares. Broil on one side for about four minutes. Turn and complete the broiling. From the fat that has accumulated, measure two tablespoons; thicken with two tablespoons of flour, and add one cup of tomato juice. When ready to serve, arrange two of the meat cakes on each plate; add the sauce, potatoes, and chicory garnished with onion rings. Accompany with French dressing.

And a dash of mint will give character to carrots:

BAKED MINTED CARROTS

- 2 cups carrots, sliced crosswise
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon fresh mint, chopped

Select young carrots, wash, scrape, cut in slices and measure. Place in a casserole, sprinkle with the salt and sugar and dot with the butter. Cover the dish and bake for 1 hour at 350 deg. During the last ten minutes of cooking, uncover, sprinkle mint over the top and complete the baking.

Snip those bright green herbs—parsley, chives or green onions—growing along the garden walk or available in markets. Make a herb butter for French bread by adding one tablespoon chopped chives or green onions and one crushed clove of garlic. Slice French bread, diagonally, not cutting quite through the lower crust. Spread slices with herb butter. Wrap loaf in metal foil and heat in a (400 deg.) hot oven for 15 minutes. Serve piping hot.

Children Give Three Plays as Grand Finale

The Creative Theater for Children winds up its spring quarter on Saturday, May 21 in the Social Room of the First Congregational Church. The theater, sponsored by the American Association of University Women and directed by Mrs. Murco Ringnald will then close for the summer. Mrs. Ringnald will go to Los Angeles to give her usual summer course for teachers in creative dramatics. . . . The morning plays will begin at 10 o'clock. Beauty and the Beast, will feature Nancy Sprague as Beauty; Jim Heath as the Beast; Jan Sprague as the father; Katherine Compton as the Mother; Jane Speerstra and Faye Butler as the sisters. The second play, based on Tom Sawyer tales, will include a haunted house scene with special ghost effects by all the children of the morning session. Jim Heath will play Tom Sawyer; Vicki Church, Huck Finn; Faye Butler, Aunt Polly; Linda Lou Turner, the school-teacher; Noreen Sahnov, Becky Thatcher; Kathi Charters, the tattletale; and Douglas and Scott Corey, friends of Tom. The various types of puppet plays will also be shown. . . .

The afternoon play scheduled for 2 o'clock, is called Financial Wizard. Sally Jochimsen and Virginia Judd are friends of college age; Vicki Van Onsenoord and Mary Griffith are their sisters in high school; Bobbie Schmidt and Lynn Eyerley are the little brothers. A neighbor who collects wild life and leaves it around anywhere is Randolph DeWeese. . . . All plays are the work of the children. There is no charge, and visitors of all ages are welcome.
