Meal's Climax

Desserts That Have That Little Extra Touch of Novelty Welcomed

By MAXINE BUREN, Statesman Woman's Editor

One of the biggest adventures in cooking can be in the realm of desserts, for one can put the imagination to work to the limit in flavor and looks of the dishes. Women like to improvise, find the dessert course a most satisfactory place for their intriguing activities.

Now take these desserts, all of which we found in a delightful book on dairy products. Each is basically a familiar recipe, but there's always something unusual to set the dessert apart from the ordinary.

Here a custard has gingersnaps for its flavor surprise: 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 package cream cheese, 2 eggs, beaten.

SCALD milk, add sugar, salt and cream cheese. Stir until blend and pour slowly over eggs. Stir in cottage cheese, gingersnaps and lemon rind. Pour into buttered baking dish. Place dish in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (325) 45 to 50 minutes until custard is set. This serves 4.

FRESH or canned pear halves have a sour cream sauce for topping: 8 pear halves, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/2 square unsweetened chocolate, grated.

CHOCOLATE PEARS: 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup sour cream. Fill hollows of pears with nuts, combine chocolate, sugar and cinnamon. Blend with sour cream and heap on pears and chill. Serves 8.

GRAPE CAKE: 3/4 cup butter, melted, 3 eggs, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 1/2 pounds seedless grapes, 1 cup sour cream, 1/4 cup sugar.

Mix butter and 2 of the eggs. Sift flour, baking powder and 1/2 cup of the sugar and work into butter and egg mixture until dough looks like a cookie mix. Roll out thin to fit a large cookie sheet. Stem grapes. Beat remaining 1/4 cup sugar with rest of eggs and sour cream. Spread grapes over dough, add sour cream mixture evenly over grapes. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes or until sides are brown. Serve warm or chilled. Serves 6 to 8.

Treasurer Ivy Priest Says Money Can't Buy U.S. Riches

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Ivy Baker Priest, Treasurer of the United States, says all the money in the Treasury could not buy the treasures that most enrich this country.

In an article written for the weekly religious magazine, Signs of the Times, she says all of the country's dollars, even if taken together, could not buy the dedication and devotion of our people to the principles of freedom.

"The irrefutable, relentless progress that has given the United States the highest standard of living in the world, was not purchased with money," she says. "Money cannot buy patriotism, progress or security. These are primarily spiritual things that live in the hearts of a people and cannot accrue to a government because of money, or any material objects it gathers around it."

Indeed, she emphasizes, our American way is more than a treasure, it is a "treasure chest of treasures," composed of not one but a multitude of related rights and freedoms, the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's conscience, the freedom to experiment, to change, to seek knowledge wherever research leads.

"Happy homes, education, character, confidence, self-respect, kindness, generosity and peace—these different forms of worthwhile treasures, money cannot buy," she says.

Written Many Articles: Mrs. Priest, who was named first woman treasurer of the United States by President Eisenhower, has written numerous articles and is in constant demand as a speaker. These demands take her all over the country to address women's clubs, civic groups, banking organizations and the like.

The mother of three, she is currently, involved in preparations for her eldest daughter Patricia Ann's forthcoming marriage. Pretty Pat, 18, a popular member of the capital's youngest set, who made her debut last year, will be married in August to White House aide Lt. Comdr. Pierce Jensen, of Okaloosa, La., a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.
