Hoover Board Blasts 'False Economies'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hoover Commission, which for years has been beating the drums for economy in government, shifted emphasis Tuesday and blasted any "false and misleading economy" in the nation's research programs, civilian or military.

Its criticism was directed at two specific phases of research: 1. Military weapons. The commission said U. S. weapons development is "not sufficiently daring and imaginative" in dealing with "radically new weapons and weapons systems." 2. Health. The commission said research work by the National Institutes of Health demands "greater federal support" but that the administration, by failing to plug for 7 1/2 million dollars worth of research money from congress, may have been showing "a tendency to de-emphasize basic and medical research."

The commission, a 12-member body headed by former President Herbert Hoover, stressed that it was talking about "weaknesses"

Tower to Stay Closed When Ike at Farm

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — An observation tower which provides a good view both of Gettysburg's Civil War battlefield and President Eisenhower's farm won't be opened to tourists from now on while the chief executive is at his home here.

And battlefield guides also have been asked not to take tourists down the road alongside the Eisenhower farm. Thousands of tourists have climbed the tower at Gen. James Longstreet's headquarters on West Confederate Avenue. It has provided an extra attraction since the Eisenhowers built their place here. But a gate has been put at the bottom now and will be padlocked when the President is staying at the farm. The tower is perhaps a quarter of a mile from the Eisenhower residence.

In the federal research program but called attention, too, to the past "enormous accomplishments" of federal research.

In its recommendations, the commission called for changes in which it said in five years might boost the effectiveness of weapons research by 25 per cent.

Memorial Day Weekend Toll At New High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record high number of persons died as Americans celebrated the three-day Memorial Day weekend — the first big holiday of the vacation season.

A late tabulation showed that between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday 368 died in traffic deaths, compared with a former record high of 363 in 1952. There also were 130 drownings and 92 deaths from miscellaneous causes for an overall total of 590, also a new record. In 1952, 562 died in auto accidents, 93 drowned and 84 died in miscellaneous mishaps.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, commenting on the high accident toll, said: "If that many people had died over the weekend in a nationwide epidemic, you can bet the whole country would be taking frantic steps to see that it would never happen again."

"Well, these people did die from an epidemic — a highway epidemic. We might call it the three I's — incompetence, indifference, and irresponsibility. "I think the cure for the epidemic is a bigger dose of the three E's — enforcement, engineering and education. Let's get excited about this record-breaking Memorial Day toll and see that it doesn't happen again."

The National Safety Council had estimated that at least 375 persons would die in weekend traffic accidents.

Trailer Loss Soon Solved

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP) — The house trailer of John Ismond broke down. He called in to the town of Terry for a repairman and dozed off in his car while waiting. Next morning, he awakened to find his house trailer gone.

He guessed the repairman had taken it into Terry and — unworried — drove there. The garage man said he had not had time to go after the trailer. The tourist called on the sheriff who soon found the trailer in another garage in Miles City.

The Miles City garage man said he got a hurry call to haul a broken-down house trailer in, and obviously towed in the wrong one.
