By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman
TURNER—The Silverton Chamber of Commerce bid in the annual Marion County Fat Lamb and Wool show held here Saturday. The lamb, from a Hampshire-cross ewe and Southdown ram, was entered by Mervin Pearson of Turner. The same ewe had produced the champion lamb a year ago.

The 1955 champion will be saved and served as part of the Western Horse Show dinner at Silverton on Aug. 6.
Pearson also exhibited the champion pen of three lambs. Grand champion fleece was shown by Dale Beach of Turner.

Champion lamb in the youth division was entered by Mark Rostvold of Monitor.
A large crowd of spectators crowded the show ring all through the judging and went out to the State Dog Trials at Cascade School grounds for the final event of the day. Here Lady, entered by Bill and Harold Knuths of Shedd, with the former working the dog in the trials, did a beautiful job of penning his band of sheep to win the top trophy. Lady made 40.9 points out of a possible 50.

Foreign Students to Return Home Following Graduation

Graduation time means going home for two South Salem High students who figuratively and literally have come a long way in their education during the past year. (Picture on page one.)

thing with a more serious aspect than most of his fellow students here.
He arrived the last of September, causing him to miss the first part of the school year and consequently taking him a longer time to become acquainted.

American Field Service scholarship students, Reidun Iversen from Norway and Guus Plate from The Netherlands have spent the past nine months studying in school. Comparing the two as they were when they arrived and as they are now, near the end of their stay, their Salem school friends find a notable change in both.

Completely new to him were the pep assemblies, home rooms, football games, band and other activities. "The first football game I attended was with Sweet Home. I found it difficult to understand. The players looked like little dwarfs running all over."

Not very talkative during her first few weeks in school, Reidun soon became oriented to American student ways, forgot her relatively "refined" manner and her shyness and became one of the students.

Completely new to him were the pep assemblies, home rooms, football games, band and other activities. "The first football game I attended was with Sweet Home. I found it difficult to understand. The players looked like little dwarfs running all over."

Being a complete stranger upon her arrival, she remarked of the friendliness of the students, "I was not treated as a stranger. I remember I was working with my locker before school ever opened and school people going by offered a great, friendly smile even though they had never seen me before."

His impression of America is expressed in his words, "America is a country in which you may do nothing, but you can do everything. For everything you do you must fill out slips and long papers. A lot is prohibited, but you still may do everything."

Reidun has adapted to the American humor without much effort. She is quick to laugh at any trick or joke which might be played on her or which might be related to her. She is even good-natured about the painful broken leg, which she acquired on a skiing accident. It was only her last month in school that she did not sport a large cast.

Winnings
Accomplishing in one short year what other students have worked all through school to achieve, she has been honored as Girl-of-the-Month, as a member of the first Royal court of South Salem and by many other honors.

Having already graduated from high school in Europe, he will attend college with plans to major in law. His main interests lie with politics and international relations.

Her first pep assembly is something she will long remember. She refers to it as "my first severe shock" when upon seeing the gestures and hearing the shouts of the yell squad, her "chin fell into third gear."

Reidun and Guus will leave for Montana June 25 where they will board a bus with other exchange students and tour northeastern United States. They will board ship for home with 800 other exchange students July 22 from New York.

Bidding farewell to her classmates at the senior assembly, Reidun left them with these words: "I doubt that a hundred or even a thousand words could express my feeling. If you ever come to Norway you are all welcome at my home."
Upon graduation in Norway, she plans a career of nursing.

Russians Slow At Constructing

MOSCOW (U.S.) — The newspaper Evening Moscow complains that sometimes construction is so slow in Moscow that builders complete only one story of a building in a year.
It cites the case of a 10-story apartment building on which construction was started in 1952 and by 1955 only three stories were finished.
The blame was laid to four changes in supervisors who "are only concerned with spending the money allotted them."

'Bear' Seen in Wheat Pits

CHICAGO (U.S.) — The usual June bear started to make his appearance in the wheat pits on the Board of Trade this week. Wheat closed the week 1/4 to 2/8 lower.
It isn't unusual for wheat prices to decline in June, often carrying other grains down with them. All other cereals except rye weakened during the past week. Rye scored a small fractional advance — the fifth week in a row rye has gone up.
Corn finished the week 2/4 to 3/4 lower, oats 1/4 to 2/8 lower, rye unchanged to 3/4 higher, soybeans 2 1/2 to 3/4 lower and lard 30 to 42 cents a hundred pounds lower.

PORTLAND (UP) — Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. said Saturday he thinks President Eisenhower will run for reelection and that he will win another term in the White House.
Brownell stopped here briefly on a flight from Seattle to South Bend, Ind.
The cabinet member said he considered Gov. Paul L. Patterson of Oregon as one of the top leaders of the Republican party and added "we must look to the West for leadership."
Asked if he thought Gov. Patterson would run for the U. S. Senate next year, Brownell said "We would welcome him with open arms in Washington."
Brownell spoke at a $100-a-plate GOP fund-raising dinner Friday night in Seattle.

Stock Market Near Record

NEW YORK (U.S.) — The stock market pushed ahead this week to within a shade of its highest levels in history.
Last April 26 the market touched the highest peak on record as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at $166.80.
Then it fell moderately in what brokers felt was a consolidating reaction from its long upward pull. Two weeks ago the recovery from that fall began.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the week gained $1.70 and closed at $166.60, only 20 cents under the record high.

Draperies—Court Street—Third Floor

Hello, a Happy Day to all of you—it's such a pleasure to enjoy all the beautiful color in the yards and gardens now; it was almost worth all that rain if such abundance of color is the result!
Have you noticed how many folk are remodeling their garage into a family room? Was called to a home just the other day where they are doing just that—they are building in a corner fireplace, cutting large windows, putting in sliding glass doors to the patio, and opening the wall where it will join the kitchen proper. Television will be in this room, too, as well as dining table and chairs, and comfortable furniture for relaxing.
Since the owners want it decorated casually for daily use, and practically for their teen-age youngsters, I suggested we use mostly black iron furniture with colorful coverings. The table will have a formica top that simulates wood, and the black iron chairs will have turquoise tweed seat covers of plastic. The rug before the hearth will be a cotton tweed mix with bright cherry red as the predominant tone. The cafe curtains will contrast nicely with the paneled walls with their turquoise, red and lime print. The sofa will repeat the turquoise tweed and also a black iron frame.
There will be two distinct window treatments in this room, just as there are two distinct types of windows—the paneled windows, and also the floor to ceiling glass panels. Across this glass wall will pull traverse draperies of lime sailcloth.
Such a room as this enlarges a home considerably — there's something about the close proximity to the kitchen that creates a homely warmth and coziness that is simply not achieved otherwise. It's perfect for viewing television at meal time, perfect for dancing and youngsters parties, perfect for busy mother to sit down while she hulls peas or waits for something to come to a boil! And best of all, perfect for that badly needed family discussion and conversation that brings a family unit close together. How many times have we wanted to visit with someone only to remember that mother is way back in the kitchen, dad is off in his private den, the youngsters are clear down stairs in the basement playroom—such a room as "the family room" can offer a pre-meal get-together, and lots of family fun.
Look at your garage—it does have a lot of space, doesn't it? Make a carport for the family vehicles, and enjoy that extra dividend you've already built!

See you next week.
