Bandon Man Accused of Tavern Attack

A Bandon man was charged Wednesday with assault with a dangerous weapon on the complaint of Clay Joseph Landry, 52 Marion St., who was hospitalized after reportedly being struck with a beer glass shortly after midnight in a downtown tavern.

In Marion County jail under $1,000 bail is Leo James Rand, 28, Bandon, who waived preliminary hearing in district court and was bound over to the grand jury.

Landry, who suffered a jagged cut on the right cheek, is in Salem Memorial Hospital where his condition was described as "good" late Wednesday.

Landry told police that he and the man seated next to him at the tavern bar had engaged in a minor argument and that he received the blow while looking into the mirror across the bar. Several persons interviewed by police said they saw a man later identified as Rand standing over Landry with a broken beer glass in his hand. Landry was on the floor. None of these persons actually saw the blow struck and not all of them were able to identify Rand as the man in whom Landry had been talking, police said.

The man left the tavern immediately and was shortly found by police in another tavern and identified by these witnesses whom police brought along, officers said.

Landry, treated by city first aidmen, was sutured at the hospital, subsequently released, and later readmitted to the hospital. After his out-patient treatment he identified Rand at the police station, police said.

Ella M. Tyler Succumbs At Age of 95

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella M. Tyler, 95, who died Tuesday at a Salem hospital, will be 2 p.m. Thursday at the Virgil T. Golden funeral home.

A late resident of 1587 N. Winter St., Mrs. Tyler lived in Salem since 1907, coming here from Lexington where she had lived since 1902. Previous to that she had lived in Nebraska and Iowa. She was born May 23, 1860 in Potter County, Pennsylvania.

Her husband, Edward S. Tyler, died in 1907.

Mrs. Tyler was a member of the WCTU and Jason Lee Methodist Church.

Survivors include five daughters: Mrs. Mabel A. Beardshear, Homer, Neb.; Mrs. Myrtle R. Reaney, Salem; Mrs. Grace Hockett, Salem; Inez M. Tyler, Portland; and Mrs. Lois M. Scott, Salem; five sons, Royal E. Tyler, Sweet Home; Byron H. Tyler, San Diego; J. Franklin Tyler, Oakridge; Samuel H. Tyler, Eugene; and Vernon O. Tyler, Seattle; 30 grandchildren; 68 great-grandchildren.

Dr. S. Raynor Smith of Eugene and Rev. E. P. Goulder of Salem will officiate at the services. Burial will be at City View cemetery.

Governor's CD Edict Hidden By Civil Defense's Security

Gov. Paul Patterson issued a proclamation Wednesday giving himself emergency powers in connection with the Civil Defense exercise.

But a public relations snafu prevented the public from seeing what's in it.

When asked by a reporter for a copy of the proclamation, a secretary to the governor said she couldn't give it out until Civil Defense headquarters had cleared it.

Tom Brubeck, public relations officer for Civil Defense headquarters, then explained: "The director (Col. Arthur Sheets) says there is no news in the proclamation. "It isn't anything more important than if the governor proclaimed Potato Chip Week."

In the proclamation, the governor gave himself, on a mythical basis, the same powers he would have in case of attack.

"These emergency powers would let him seize and distribute food and medicine, evacuate citizens and control public utilities."

Funeral Rites Set Friday for Sublimity Man

SUBLIMITY — Funeral services for George Glover, who died in a Boise, Idaho hospital while en route to Colorado, will be held at the Immaculate Conception Catholic church at Stayton Friday at 10 a.m. Recitation of the rosary will be Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Weddle Funeral Home.

Glover, son of Phillip and Deliah Glover, early Oregon pioneers, was born on the old Glover donation land claim near Sublimity Sept. 5, 1879. He took an active interest in the Townsend movement and Grange work. At one time, he was a candidate for county judge.

Survivors are the widow, Martha; four daughters, Mrs. Mildred Nash; Oswego; Mrs. Alice Moore, Cathlamet, Wash.; Mrs. Arvilla Yeoman, Yachats; Mrs. Georgina Peterson, Portland; 12 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; one sister, Ellen G. Lambert, Turner, and several nieces and nephews.

Safety Sessions Planned in State

Regional safety conferences will be held in Oregon this year, William A. Callahan, chairman of the State Industrial Accident Commission, said Wednesday.

They will replace the statewide conference that has been held annually.

This year's meetings are planned for Portland, Eugene, Roseburg, Coos Bay, Medford, Dallas and Pendleton.
