Newk Eyeing Homer Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The next home run Don Newcombe hits will enable him to equal his record for most home runs in a season by a National League pitcher. He needs four more four-baggers for a new season record for all major league pitchers.

Hal Schumacher of the 1934 New York Giants and Jim Tobin of the 1942 Boston Braves are the National League record holders with six homers apiece.

Wes Ferrell of the 1931 Cleveland Indians is the major league record holder with nine. Newcombe has hit five this year and still has more than half a season left.

Hard Toppers In Title Bee

The mid-season championship car for the hard tops is next for Hollywood Bowl.

Valley Sports officials announced Monday that the popular "tops" would take over the bowl the coming Saturday night for their annual mid-season card, one that will be climaxed by a 50-lap main event.

Ron All of Valley Sports added that "a number of special driving attractions will be added to this card, as I'm bringing in headliner from such places as Pendleton, Spokane and the Seattle area."

The full roster of cars and drivers will be announced later in the week.

Experts View Le Mans Race Without Results

LE MANS, France (AP) — A panel of experts Monday watched a frame by frame motion picture of the racing tragedy that took 79 lives and without passing judgment traced the flashing path of the cars involved.

One expert also discounted reports that the body of the silver Mercedes racing car exploded in the intense heat of the accident during the 24 hour race June 11.

The panel, appointed by examining Magistrate Zadok Kahn to investigate the accident, concluded its second day's work again without announcing conclusions or fault-finding.

Mueller Gains In Bat Race

Ashburn Leads NL; Kaline Pacing AL

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Mueller, dubbed the "magician" because of his batting skills, is up to his old tricks again. The New York Giants' outfielder boosted his average 17 points to .339 to close in on Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, who leads the National League with .352.

For the past few seasons Mueller has made it a practice to rank among the challengers. The stylish-swinging southpaw hit .333 in 1953 and finished fifth in the batting race.

A year ago his .342 average landed him the runnerup spot to teammate Willie Mays, who won the crown by three points with a last day spurt.

Mueller, a spray-type hitter, started the 1955 season with a flourish and was leading the league most of May before his average began to dip.

Ashburn, recovering from a leg injury, put together an impressive hitting streak and replaced Mueller as the leader on May 26. He has maintained his advantage since.

Currently boasting an 11-game hitting streak, Ashburn went 10-for-28 last week and gained one point. Mueller, meanwhile, collected 13 hits in 28 trips in advancing from seventh. Figures include Sunday's games.

Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski and Dale Long of the Pirates share third place with .335 each. Big Kluz raised his average to .341 on 11-for-31, but dropped from second. Long, third a week ago, went 10-for-27 for a seven-point increase.

Brooklyn's Roy Campanella holds down fifth at .329. Campy, in moving up a notch from sixth, gained five points on 10-for-27.

Tigers Pace American Detroit's dazzling duo of Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn continue to run one-two in the American League race, but they had to take a back seat to Chicago's Nellie Fox who supplanted the week's biggest batting nose.

The Sox' second sacker, who owns a 16-game hitting streak, vaulted into third place by lifting his average 28 points to .329.

The 20-year-old Kaline, who heads the parade with .379, lost four points while going 8-for-23. Kuenn, second at .343, hiked his average two points to .343 on seven hits in 19 at bats. Fox, seventh last week, delivered 16 hits in 31 at bats.

Vic Power of Kansas City fell from third to fourth with .324, but his average remains the same. Mickey Mantle of the Yanks, Washington's Mickey Vernon and Sherm Lollar of the White Sox are tied for fifth at .299 apiece.

Snider Tops in Homers Duke Snider of the Dodgers tops the National League in home runs with 23 and also has batted in the most runs, 68. Mantle is the American League home run pacesetter with 16 and is tied for RBI laurels with Boston's Jackie Jensen. Echin has 47.

Clem Labine of Brooklyn has the best on-lost percentage among National League pitchers with a 5-0 record and Sam Jones of the Chicago Cubs is top in strikeouts with 87.

In the American League Chicago's Dick Donovan and Cleveland's Early Wynn are deadlocked for pitching supremacy with 8-2 slates each. Herb Score of the Indians has struck out the most batsmen, 111.

PCC Favored Over Big Ten

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference rated a slight favorite over the Big Ten Monday night on the eve of the 14th annual track meet between the two major college athletic circuits in the country.

Field event strength was expected to throw the balance in favor of the coast schools in the twilight carnival at Edwards Stadium. Track competition opens at 6 p. m. (PDT), 15 minutes after the start of field activity.

Matched in the event will be the top three place winners in the conference meets held earlier this spring.

Seven NCAA Champs Talents is tops — seven National Collegiate champions crowned last Saturday at Los Angeles in the annual NCAA meet will be on hand.

They include Jim Golliday of Northwestern in both sprints, Milt Campbell of Indiana in the hurdles, Ernie Shelton of Southern California in the high jump, Des Koch of USC in the discuss and Jim Bailey and Ken Reiser of Oregon in the mile and two mile, respectively.

The Big 10 suffered a blow when Willard Thomson of Illinois, the conference hurdle king, hurt his leg in NCAA trials. He was not expected to compete in either hurdle event or on the shuttle relay team. Thomson held the fastest time in the hurdles in the country this year.

Ferguson Runs Distances The Oregon distance ace, plus UCLA's Bobby Seaman in the mile and USC's Fernando Ledesma in the two mile, figured faster than the Big 10's best, Rich Ferguson of Iowa, who will compete in both races.

Best Big 10 bets, off the form sheet, appeared to be Golliday in both sprints; Michigan State's Kevin Gosper in the 440 and Michigan's Pete Gray in the 880.

Seattle Next For Beavers

The Seattle Rainiers, strong pennant contenders in the Pacific Coast League, are next for the Portland Beavers. The Rainiers open a week-long series at Portland Tuesday night.

Other series getting under way Tuesday night have Sacramento playing at San Diego, San Francisco at Los Angeles and Hollywood at Oakland.

Anderson Gains Tournney Finals

Andy Anderson won his way into the finals of the Salem Golf Club championship tournament Sunday by defeating Harvey Quistad in a close match that went to Anderson one up on the 20th hole.

Anderson will now meet University of Oregon's Bob Prall in the finals' next Sunday at the SGC. Prall defeated Dr. John R. Wood in his semi-final match. The final round will be for 36 holes.

Quistad and Anderson were even up at the end of their regulation 18 holes Sunday and the two extra were needed before Anderson could gain the finals berth.
