Self Doesn't Want Job With Majors

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD—STARR INTERVIEW: You might think a talented young man whose job is to produce short films for a brewery would jump at a chance to make movies for a major studio, but not so with William Self, 33-year-old producer of "Schlitz Playhouse of Stars."

"I'm just not interested," says Bill, who with three years and almost 150 productions behind him, is being courted by the majors entering television next fall with big-budget series.

"We've learned a lot about making television films in our three years on the air," he says, "and there's a bigger difference between TV and theater movies than the majors think.

"They'll make a lot of mistakes in the first year or so, and the heads will roll. I like my head right where it is, and I don't want it to be one of them."

STARR DUST: Summons in hand, a Los Angeles police officer nabbed us one morning this week as we stepped out the back door to empty a wastebasket and we were soon on our way to KTTV, Los Angeles, in a city patrol wagon. It turned out to be the latest publicity stunt staged by Reavis Winckler, one of Hollywood's top young drum-beaters.

A few weeks ago Winckler had us aloft in a Marine helicopter for KTTV's press showing of the Marine documentary, "Uncommon Valor," and not too long ago we wound up on the Santa Fe's Super Chief en route to Santa Anita in a 30-mile junket to publicize another KTTV program, "Stories of the Century."

Santa Anita is a race track, but KTTV had the back entrance all shined up and decorated as "Centuryville, Calif.," for the occasion.

The paddy wagon delivered Winckler's guests to a special showing from a new series, "NOPD" — 39 telefilms based on files of the New Orleans Police Department. It's a sort of dragnet" with a southern accent that goes in heavily for authentic locale.

Why Cemeteries Don't Need Fences

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy was explaining to the Senate Appropriations Committee why it had needed a fence on the river side of an old cemetery, when Sen. Hayden commented:

"I heard the question raised about a cemetery fence once. They asked why put a fence around a cemetery; those that are in cannot get out, and those that are out do not want to get in."
