"No Facer Sways Us. No Fear Shall Awe" From First Statesman, March 28, 1851

Statesman Publishing Company CHARLES A. SPRAGUE, Editor & Publisher

Published every morning. Business office 280 North Church St., Salem, Ore. Telephone 4-6811

Entered at the postoffice at Salem, Ore., as second class matter under act of Congress March 3, 1879. Member Associated Press

The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for republication of all local news printed in this newspaper.

Salute to Ground Observers

One of the most thankless jobs in Civilian Defense, and yet one which Air Force Chief Gen. Twining declares is a vital and indispensable part of national security, is that of the Ground Observer Corps.

The corps, which now has 400,000 persons on 24-hour "Operation Skywatch," will have its third anniversary July 14. Major factor in the observance of that event is the announcement that the corps is becoming truly nation-wide. Twelve southern and Rocky Mountain states are assuming responsibilities which the other 36 states have been carrying out for some time. National goal is 1,000,000 persons to operate 24,000 posts and 73 filter centers.

The Ground Observer shares in none of the glamor of ostensible patriotism. He (or she) is merely the silent, patient, watchful complement to the radar which is becoming more and more an intrinsic part of defense but which has its weaknesses (low-flying planes can come in under it undetected) and which is far too costly to install at the thousands of vantage points where "Operation Skywatch" is maintained.

To many folk, the Ground Observer Corps seems a futile and time-wasting project. Military men to date regard it differently, and, after all, it is on them we must depend. On the forthcoming anniversary of a program to which hundreds of thousands of loyal Americans have given many hours and much effort, we feel a special salute is well warranted.

It is true, too, that the Ground Observer Corps is not merely watchfully waiting. Already it is credited with spotting fires which could have flared into disaster; reporting aerial plane mishaps in time to effect rescues at sea; thrown its efforts into averting panic in hurricane-stricken areas.

Its member include persons in all walks of life, some of them doubling in their daily duties as bridge tenders, prison guards, dam caretakers. Others who donate time outside of their regular work include a California mother of 11 who is a restaurant dishwasher; the great-great-granddaughter of Abraham Lincoln; Willie Hoppe, world billard champion: a legless World War I veteran; prison convicts. The list is endless.

They won't get much thanks unless there is a climactic event which we all hope never will happen. But in the meantime we assuredly can recognize the spirit which prompts their efforts.

Timber and Petroleum

Up here we think we get pretty good prices for timber, and we do, but both the states and the federal government are realizing fancy sums on leases for offshore oil lands. In May, Louisiana received over six million dollars for drilling rights on 4,075 acres off its coast, or $1,539 per acre. Another tract brought $1,468 per acre. Then it will get a royalty on any oil that may be produced. The federal government is obtaining hundreds of millions from oil companies for leases on lands it claims beyond those held by the states. Then it receives a rental of $3 per acre per year plus a sixth of the oil produced under the leaseholds, There is this difference, however: once the petroleum is pumped the supply is permanently exhausted. Our timber lands will keep on growing trees for periodic harvesting indefinitely.

Multnomah County Out of Step

The county assessor of Multnomah County manages to keep out of step with the state tax commission most of the time. It isn't new with the incumbent, Wiley Smith, but goes back a long ways in county history. Some 15 years ago Commissioner Charles Galloway got into quite a battle with Multnomah County to get it to bring its assessments on residential property up to parity with business property. Years before, the practice had been established to let residence valuations sag, putting more of the load on commercial property. Then even the Oregonian sobbed over the tax commission's orders which were based both on law and

In recent years there have been controversies over appraisals of merchandise inventories; and now the State Tax Commission has ordered county officials to reduce the assessment made by the county assessor against the Reynolds Aluminum plant at Troutdale.

It is quite safe to assume that the state body intervenes only when the facts make it necessary. Local assessing officials are granted wide discretion in determining values; but appeals may be taken to the State Tax Commission and then this body has to act on the basis of the evidence presented. It is time Multnomah County "got back in the Union" and based its assessments on conformity with state law.

The Westward Trek

Oregon's smaller cities also are on the march population-wise. Thirteen of them will get more state highway and liquor revenues as a result of a 1955 census showing marked growth in the previous five-year

Newport with 36 per cent gain, Stayton with 35 per cent and Canby with 22 per cent are among those in which a new count was conducted recently. In all 13 instances, the growth is a healthy continuance of a previous trend, in some places at an accel-

In 1950, the nation's center of population was in Richland County, Ill. (A hundred years before it was in West Virginia). By 1960, at the present rate, it appears the center may be moved west of the Mississippi River for the first time.

Editorial Comment

RISING REAL WAGES

There is impressive evidence of the continued good health of our economy in the latest data on cost of living and manufacturing workers' earnings published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Last month the Consumer Price Index was unchanged from the previous month and almost 1 per cent below the corresponding figure a month ago. Take-home pay for the average worker in manufacturing, on the other hand, reached a new high.

Taken together, these two facts indicate a continuing and appreciable rise in real wages for manufacturing workers, an increase in the amount of goods and services they can buy. In May, 1954, a manufacturing worker with no dependents had an average take-home pay of $58.97 week. The corresponding figure last month was $62.83, or almost four dollars more. The increase in real wages, of course, has been slightly greater because of the decline in the over-all cost of living. This combination of an essentially steady cost of living and rising wages, which has now ruled for the last several years, suggests an economy riding the economic waves smoothly and making good progress forward.

Increased productivity of labor in manufacturing is, of course, one of the key phenomena which has made this rise in real wages possible. The tremendous investment in new equipment of all kinds, the trend to automation of production processes, and the continued high level of ourput have all played a part in developing this increased productivity from which all of us benefit. As we look forward to the period ahead, with its likely increases in wages and in supplemental benefits such as have been won by the automobile workers, productivity will again be the key to our economic fortunes. Without higher productivity, increased labor costs must force prices up, a phenomenon that can lead to inflationary pressure or, at the other extreme, lead to substantial unemployment by reducing effective demand for the products of our great -New York Times.

Flag Waving 'Out of Date'; Independence Day Good Time for 'Taking Stock' of Past

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, D. C. - In the simpler past, July 4 used to be a time for flag-waving, patriotic oratory and glorious orgies of firecrackers. Nowadays, however, flagwaving is out of place. Instead, this Independence Day is a good time for taking stock. In the opinion of this reporter, one who now takes stock o the national situation must first of all write down 1955 as the year when the Eisenhower administration found itself, and the American political process got back on

It was like discovering a new country, to return to America a month or so ago, as this reporter did, after an absence of six months on the other side of the world. The venom, the suspicion, the hatred that has so long been poisoning American political life, were purged and gone. The sewers of our politics were no longer running in the streets.

The Congress, after all but abandoning legislation in favor of investigation, had once again become a legislative body. Public debate, after remaining for years at the level of a mud slinging exange of personal accusations, had once again become reasone and sober and factual. The whole tone was different. And this vast change like coming from dark-ness into light, had happened in

Partly, this immensely healthy change in the tone of American les has to be attributed to cratic Congressional leaders on proving their respon-ty. Yet the key figure is still Democrats would never be so much on their good behavior if they did not feel a respect almost approaching awe for the President's standing before the country. And the President himself was the first to set the new tone in which the other parties to our political dailogue are at last responding to him.

Eisenhower, then, has got what he wanted from the first. He now presides over a new and desperately needed era of good feelings. To this great gain, moreover, another has been added.

As late as last election time, the American economy seemed to be faltering. But now the record is clear. For two years, prices have been held almost perfectly stable. In the same two years, with a minor check or two, productivity has steadily increased. This combination of inflation well controlled with prosperity in full boom is an example to the world. You may think what you please about such matters as the Dixon - Yates contract, but the over-all economic achievement of the first two Eisenhower years has been as important as the restoration of reason and sanity to our political

These two achievements, in turn have produced or perhaps one ought to say they are producing — another result that may have the most far-reaching importance. When government was all but incapable of either thought or action. Ideas were rigid. Atti-tudes were rigid. The facts of life in our time could hardly be dis-cussed with honesty, much less responded to with courage and

With the political and economic confidence restored, freedom of thought and freedom of action have been restored too. The Administration is no longer de-barred, by fear of the political consequences, from dealing adequately with all the thronging problems that confront it.

Every problem can now be tackled without prejudice, from the severe domestic problem of adjusting the requirements of internal security to the larger requirements of a free society, all the way to the overmastering world problem of survival in a time when men possess weapons that may destroy the human race

This restoration of the American government's freedom to think and act, this end of a long paralysis, was the real drama of the two recent Senate votes endorsing the President's journey to the summit conference and approving a high level investigation of the prevailing security machinery.

Only last year, these votes would have been unthinkable. Today they are accepted as matters of course.

Just because freedom to think and freedom to act have at last been regained, there is of course no certainty that these vital freedoms will be well and wisely used. No chief of the American state, not even George Washington or Abraham Lincoln, has ever been confronted with more complex, taxing and difficult challenges than now confront Presi-

The fate of this nation and the free world plainly depends upon finding right answers to such question as "What to do about Asia?" and "How to reshape our world strategy in the light of the new H-bomb?" and "What can be made of the new Soviet Line?" Right answers to these and other questions of our times are not easy to find. But at least it is vitally important that the President now has the power to give answers, which he lacked before.

(Copyright 1958, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

"The Senator's old teacher just remembers him as the class idiot . . . she dan't realize he's functioning on a national basis now; . . ."

Continued from page 1)

to get around, in their conscience,

the significance of this declara-erty and the pursuit of happiness" has become part of the very substance of the American philosophy of government. Many arguments arise over "liberty," and the phrase "pursuit of happiness" remains vague. But "life" is still sacred, and "liberty" still precious in the sight of all Amer-

The Declaration was in essence the product of the time. It is the fruit of 18th century liberalism which had been undermining the old doctrine of the divine right of kings. Of contemporaneous development was the conception of "freedom of contract" in the world of business, whose classic

expressions was given in Adam

Smith's "Wealth of Nations." In this industrialized age classic liberalism has undergone severe strain. Numerous compromises have been forced which greatly circumscribe "freedom of contract." Personal liberty has also been greatly curtailed: witness today's traffic laws. These breaches with what have seemed fundamentals in our economic come hard, and have precipitated the sharp cleavage witnessed in the politics of today. The real problem is how to preserve the essence of human liberty within the disciplines imposed by the prevailing structures in the business world; vast corporate enter-

The Declaration of Independence was not an instrument by which a new nation was founded.

Its heading is "The Unanimous

Declaration of the Thirteen

United States of America." If you look at the facsimile of the original document on page 424

of the Oregon Blue Book you will note that the words "of the thirteen united" are in much smaller text, none of them capitalized. And in the closing paragraph of the instrument, the declaration is made "in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies . . . that,

as free and independent states.

they have the power to levy war.

conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do." In short the 13 colonies became 13 independent states.

How the thirteen really became one nation is another story, that drawn up until 11 year later.

of the Constitution which wasn't prises, monolithic unions.

political philosophy have

Russ Comment On Ike's Talk 'No Surprise'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst

The news that the Moscow press published without comment about 1,200 words of President Eisenhower's news conference seems to have occasioned a large measure surprise in the West. Perhaps Western observers are giving the Soviet rulers a little too much credit for open-mindedness.

Aside from the obvious fact that the publication of the President's views was all part of preparation for the summit Big Four meeting Geneva this month, there was little to be lost and something to be gained by the gambit.

The President was quoted as saying nobody really knows who is the dominating influence in the Soviet government today. This is not news to the Soviet public and nothing new to the Soviet press. It fits in neatly with the boast of the Kremlin that it is ruled by "collective leadership."

The Moscow account quoted the President's remark that until the Communist satellite nations had the right to determine of their own free will their own forms of government, there could be no real peace in the world.

This, also, has been the subject of Soviet press comment, and later, undoubtedly, will be quoted again to the Soviet public as evidence that the United States is determined to interfere in the internal affairs of sovereign nations. Moscow has contended all along, course, that the satellite nations of their own free will did choose the Communist course, that they "threw off the yoke of the exploiters," and, in imitation of the Soviet Union, are now engaged in building socialism." The President's words, therefore probably will be held up to Moscow's audience later as an indication of aggressive American The Moscow press also quoted the President as noting there had been a change in the Soviet position and this ultimately might react favorably in the interests of world peace.

This does not in any way contradict Soviet propaganda, which contends that the U.S.S.R. has been making all the concessions up to now in the interests of world peace, including concessions on disarmament and the control of atomic weapons.

Thus, there was little or nothing to lose in the decision to quote the President liberally. The Soviet press has quoted the President, former Prime Minister Churchill and other Western statesmen at length or in full when it suited the Kremlin's peace offensives.

In this instance, at slight cost, the Soviet leaders give one more demonstration that they are in a mood to be reasonable, that makes it easier to shift the blame to the other side in future dead-

The Moscow press is preparing its readers for events to come. It seems to be building up a case in advance for the Soviet diplomats, intended to show the people at home that the Kremlin the party sinned against and the Western diplomats the sinners.

In the great meteoric shower of Nov. 13, 1833, observed in eastern North America, it was estimated that 200,000 shooting stars were observed from one place between midnight and dawn.

a. oregon Dialesman

Subscription Rates By carrier in cities:
Daily and Sunday $ 1.45 per mo.
Daily only _______ 1.25 per mo.
Sunday only _______ 1.0 week

(in advance)
Anywhere in U. S. $ .50 per mo.
2.75 six mo.
8.00 year

By mail, Daily and Sunday: (in advance) In Oregon _____$ 1.10 pe $ 1.10 per mo. 5.50 six mo

in U. S. outside Member Audit Bureau of Circulation Bureau of Advertising ANPA

Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association

Advertising Representatives: Ward-Griffith Co., West Holliday Co., New York Chicago

South Korea Again Carries Main Burden of Its Defense

The Red Chinese "volunteers"

The South Korean high command rebuilt North Korean army.

to stop them - at first. Here, in nor American officials have disan anniversary report on our most counted powerful military ally in Asia, is Seek More Aid a look at what South Korea has South Korea's army chief of ready on its own in case the Reds staff, Gen. Chung Il Kwon, is seekdecide to try it again.)

By MURRAY FROMSON SEOUL on - The thin line of addition to Chinese Red forces and South Korea's constabulary was shattered when war exploded on they choose. this unhappy Asian peninsula five years ago Sunday. Soldiers with rifles, light artillery and obsolete anti-tank guns were sent to fight North Koreans armed with heavy tanks and artillery supplied by Russia. Only Allied help saved South Korea. Today - five years later of the U.S. divisions and the U.N. contingents manning the front at MIGs Brought In stabularly now. There is a South ing in at least 155 MIG jet air-Korean army of 20 divisions, craft to previously empty North American and U.N. officials. trained and armed by the United Kcrean airfields.

in the organizing stage. Fourth Largest army the best in Asia.

ican Sabrejets for the South Ko- Korea before the republic was

These are results of minimum

Time Flies:

10 Years Ago

July 4, 1945

Friendly young Americans serving in far-flung lands celebrated America's independence day with a gusto sparked in many cases by these nations'

own newly-won freedom. There were fireworks, dances and narades - from Berlin to Can-

Justice Owen J. Roberts for years the supreme court's leading dissenter and next to the last member of the tribunal not approinted by Pres. Roosevelt, retired. Since he served more than 15 years and recently became 70 years of age, he would receive full pay of $20,000 a

Some relief from the sweltering temperatures of this week

predicted by the

Weather Bureau at McNary

Field. It was recorded as 103

25 Years Ago

July 4, 1930

Helen Wills Moody won her fourth successive Wimbledon

tennis championship by beating

Better English

By D. C. WILLIAMS

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "I had rather be safe than

2. What is the correct pronunciation of "cliche" (a trite phrase)?

misspelled? Dispair, disparage,

4. What does the word "sinu-

5. What is a word beginning with la that means "to rend, or rather be safe than sorry." 2.

ANSWERS

Pronounce klee-shay, with accent on second syllable. 3. Despair, 4. Bending in and out; of a serpentine or wavy form. "The slender woman walked along the street with a sinuous grace." 5. Lacer-

1. It is better to say, "I would dispatch, dissidence, ous" mean?

year for life.

degrees.

sorry.

rean air force. tion. It keeps gnawing at us, Likewise the claim to "life, lib-main burden of its defense. Most States. Ten reserve divisions are To bolster the South Korean army, which now holds almost the entire 155-mile frontline, the de-Little South Korea now has the pleted 8th Army maintains two hearted cooperation in the aid proworld's fourth largest army - be- under-strength infantry divisions in hind only those of the United the field. They are the 24th and gram. They delayed a 700 million States, Russia and Red China, U. 7th Divisions which have been in S. advisers call South Korea's Korea periodically since the peninsula was liberated from the Ja-It is estimated at between 500,- panese 10 years ago. Both were 000 and 600,000 men. Still to come part of the U.S. military governare some naval craft and 75 Amer- ment force which was stationed in founded in 1948.

ticipants.

U.S.

demands set down by President attack, the U.S. military repre-

From The

Statesman Files

40 Years Ago

July 4, 1915

had a place in the parade.

and a speaker of rare ability delivered an address on "Our Town" at the chautauqua here.

A native daughter of Oregon.

Mrs. T. J. Wilkerson of Pittsburgh, Penn., sister of assistant postmaster John Farrar, arrived in Salem from the east. Mrs.

Wilkerson spent her girlhood in Salem, moving east at the

The first large suspension bridge built in the United States spanned time of her marriage.

and was finished in 1881.

3. Which one of these words is the Ohio River at Covington, Ky.,

(Editor's Note: When the Com-|Syngman Rhee to protect South| sentation consisted of an advisory munists smashed into South Korea Korea from another attack from group of about 500 men. five years ago, there wasn't much the north - a threat neither he 16-Nation Army

The Korean War resulted in the birth of a 16-nation army, including seven U.S. divisions, a full British Commonwealth division and units of varying sizes from Turkey, ing increased U.S. military aid. Greece, France, Belgium, Thai-He says Communist North Korea land, the Philippines, Luxembourg, has 400,000 of its own troops in Colombia, Ethiopia and The Netherlands. "will attack us again at any time

Now only a handful of the U.N. forces remain. Today, the U.S. milreportedly have withdrawn upitary advisory group is being wards of 110,000 men but have left dwarfed by the formation of a behind a well-trained cadre for a huge, overall organization which aims to make the South Korean forces "completely self-sufficient continually reports Communist in- for defensive purposes."

troduction of combat materials One of its functions will be to and equipment, charges that have recommend the amount of military South Korea once more carries the been the basis of official protests aid the South Koreans will receive by the U.N. Command at Panmun- each year.

Whether the unstable Korean conomy, which must support 20 the time of the armistice are gone. In February, the Allies accused million people, can maintain its There is no poorly trained con- the Communists of illegally bring- new army over the long haul is something of major concern to Currency Dispute

Rhee and his government leaders have not always given what dollar aid program for more than six months last year over a currency dispute. Then, in effect, they accepted the aid funds under conditions originally laid down by U. S. representatives

Rhee and the South Kbreans do not talk as boisterously today At the time of the North Korean about unification with the north or as bitterly about last year's U.S. troop withdrawal. The government, however, remains dedicated to the goal of unification.

But now there is that old, old dragon - Japan. Rhee is making the most of it, even to the extent of not honoring a part of last November's aid agreement with the Elizabeth Ryan in the womens United States which called for more trading with Japan. As an Motorcycle and horse races excuse Rhee and other officials provided thrills at the state contend Japan is leaning closer fairgrounds and a band concert and closer to the Communist and fireworks in evening for world.

thousands of people who cele- Trade Small brated the Fourth of July in Sa-American officials say Japanese-South Korean trade has been "neg-At Hillsboroan airplane pilot- ligible." Yet this is the very area ed by John Harris, Salem, dived where the United States hoped to into a crowd of picnickers as it reduce the cost of rehabilitating attempted to land and over- the Korean economy.

turned without injuring the Nearly 11/2 billion dollars have pilot, passengers or picnic par- been diverted to South Korea since the armistice to help rebuild its war-shattered homes and indus-

During the Korean War, more than 21/2 million persons were More than ten thousand per- either killed or wounded. sons marched or rode in the casualties approximated 136,000. peace pageant at Toledo, Ohio, That war has been at end for nearthe first of its kind ever em- ly two years now but Americans ployed in the United States as a will not be able to forget Korea means of celebrating Independ- for a long time.

ence Day. Civil War veterans The bitter conflict - an unorthodox one which began without a Nels Downing, of Oklahoma declaration and ended without a City, rated as one of the best peace - has created one of the informed men on community most expensive orphans in Amerbuilding in the United States ica's family of allies.

PAY YOUR FUEL OIL BILL

By the 10th

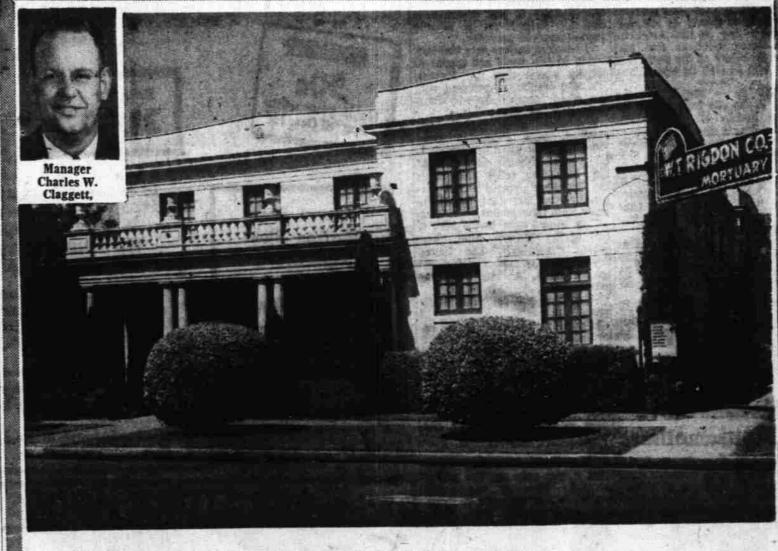

To enable your dealer to con tinue your monthly charge

Salem Fuel Oil Dealers Credit Association

Cherries HUDSON HOUSE INC. WANTS TO BUY YOUR CHERRIES

PLANT-250 MURLARK AVE., WEST SALEM, ORE. 1 block east of Blue Lake Packers. Receiving Station No. 2-Adolph Hilderbrand-Rt. 1 Box 443 Dallas, Oregon. For further information call Adolph Hilderbrand, Dallas, Oregon; Phone MA 3-3022.

Receiving Station No. 1 to be at JENKS & WHITE SEED

Centrally located in downtown Salem, the W. T. RIGDON CO. MORTUARY offers ample parking space and convenient access to Salem's cemeteries. Throughout the years, every effort is made to keep facilities modern . . . to better serve Salem. PHONE 3-3173-