

Congress Sends Compromise Foreign Aid Authorization Bill to Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate and House completed action on a compromise $3,265,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill Thursday and sent it to President Eisenhower. Final action on the measure, which is 123 million dollars short of Eisenhower's requests, was sparked by a controversy over Defense Department handling of previously voted military aid funds. Actual funds to carry out new authorizations must still be approved by both houses, and there may be a move for further cuts then. The Senate at first accepted the $3,403,000,000 authorization sought by the President, but went along with a 145 million dollar reduction in arms aid funds voted by the House. The new bill contains a provision which would have required the administration to return to the treasury all money in excess of 200 million dollars which had been previously appropriated but not obligated by June 30. Coincident with this, it was disclosed that a Defense Department spokesman had told a House appropriations subcommittee in secret session last June 23 that the department would have to undertake "a complete reprogramming" of its arms aid plans if leftover appropriations were cancelled. Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) contended the department's last-minute obligation of funds amounted to a "deliberate shortcut" of congressional edict.

Atoms for Peace Stamp

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The postoffice department announced the design of a new "Atoms For Peace" stamp to be placed on sale first in Washington, D.C., July 28. This was picked from 43 suggested designs submitted by the Atomic Energy Commission, the State Department and the United States Information Agency. (AP Wirephoto.)

Current Converter Powerful, Size of Pea

NEW YORK (AP)—Bell Telephone Laboratories has developed a tiny new silicon power rectifier, the size of a pea, to convert alternating to direct current. The tiny device does the work of seven selenium rectifiers, and takes up a minute fraction of the space. The new rectifier is said to have an almost unlimited life span and will operate at temperatures up to 400 degrees.

POLICE PROGRESS NOTED

MONTREAL (AP)—Police Commissioner Colin John Delaney of New South Wales, Australia, on a tour of North American police departments, told Canadians here they use more modern methods than are employed down under. The most prevalent crimes in his bailiwick: safe-cracking and house-breaking.

INDUSTRIOUS THIEF DENISON, TEX. (AP)—The thief who swiped Lt. George Reamuto's car had to fix a flat before he could drive it away.
