

Juniors to Participate in Horse Show . . .

Statesman's HOME Panorama

Women . . . Music . . . Fashions . . . Features

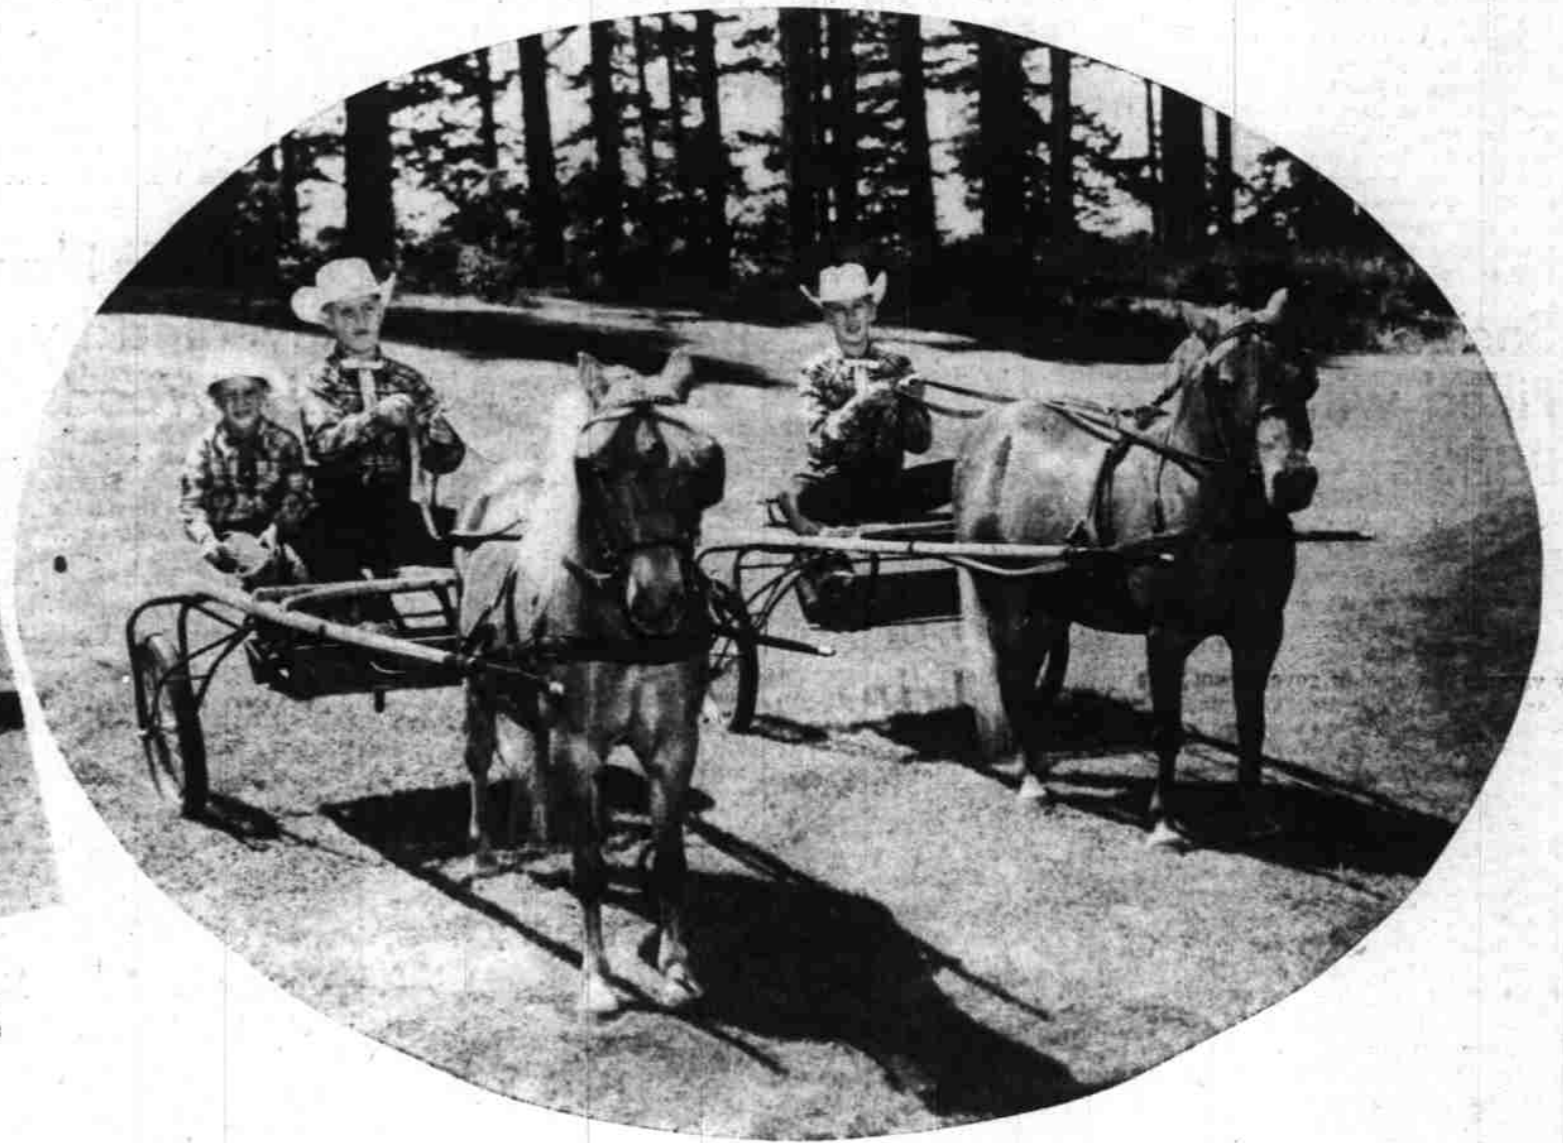

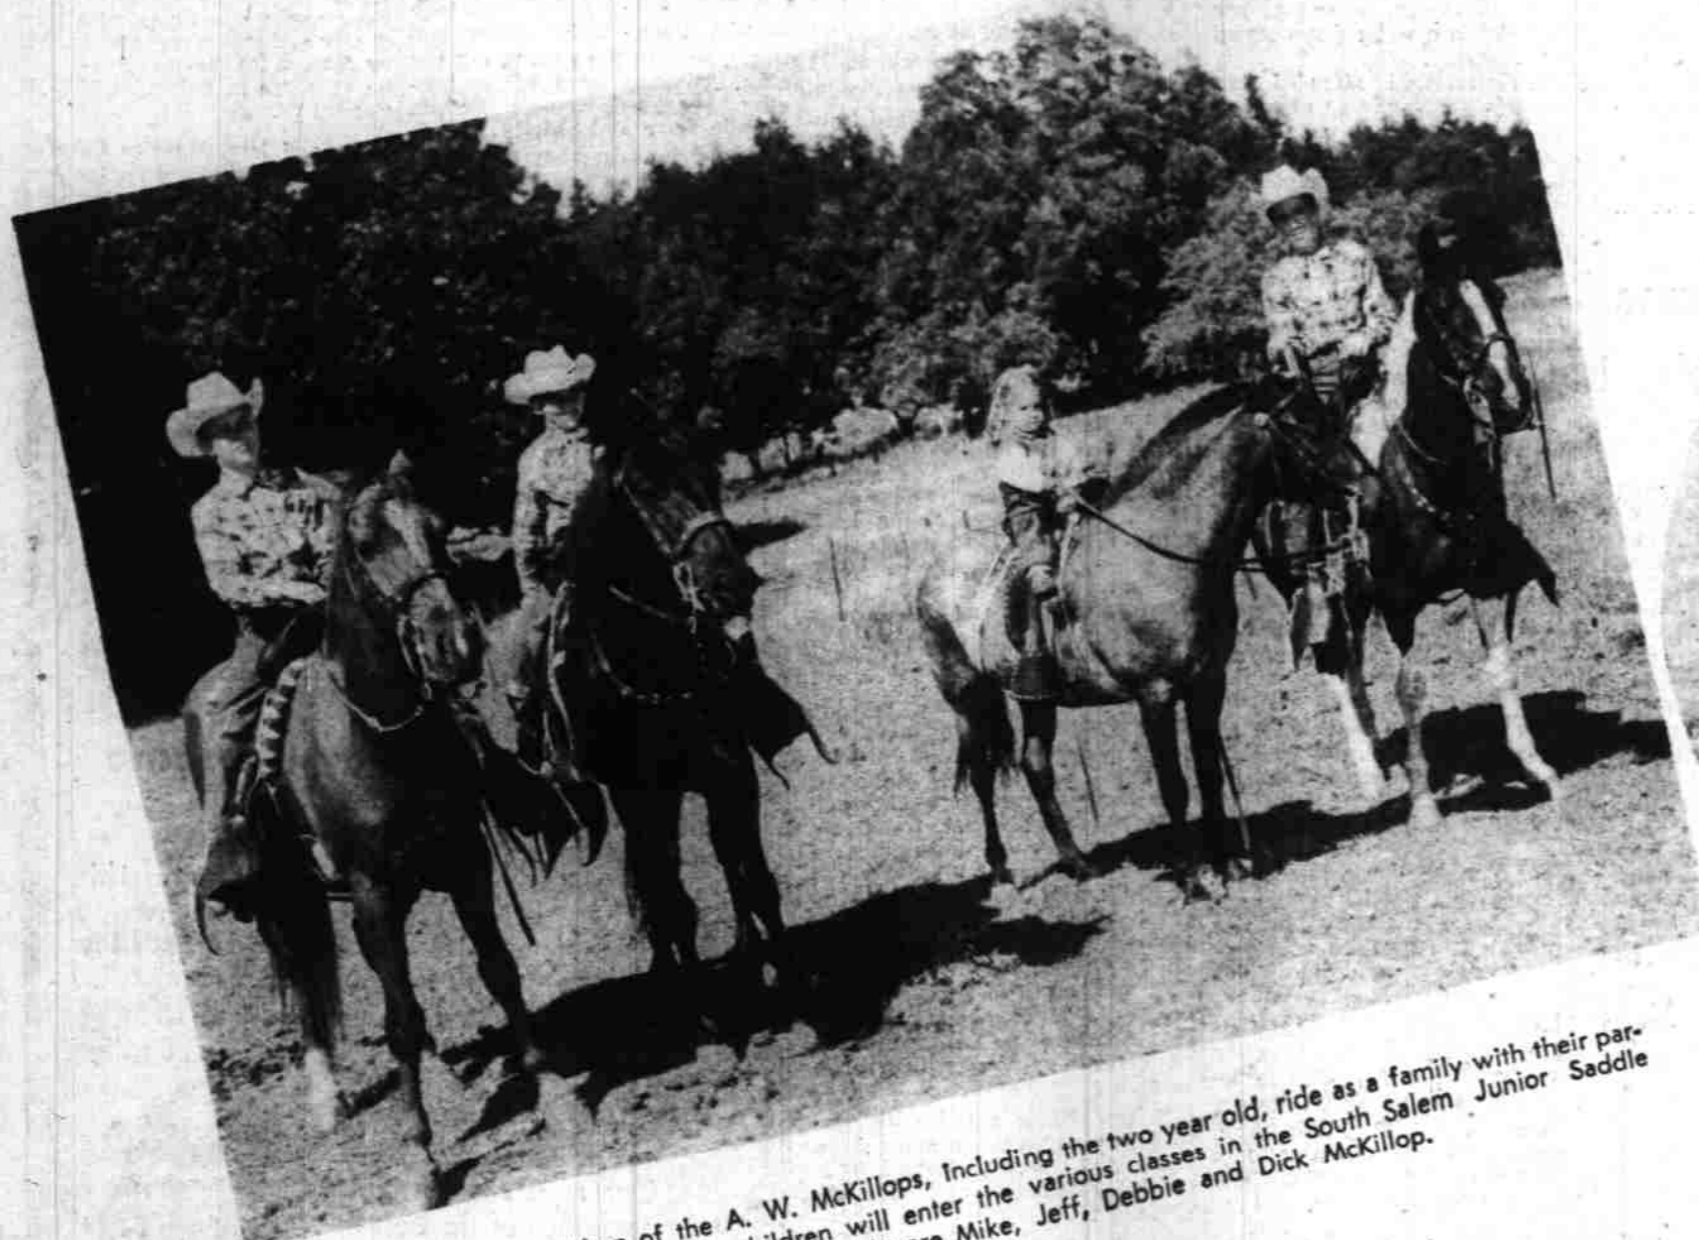

Oregon Statesman, Salem, Oreg., Sunday, August 14, 1955

A group of young equestrians who will be riding in the South Salem Junior Saddle Club's third annual show to be presented August 21 are pictured above. Left to right are Nancy Smith, Edwina Fitzgerald, Susan Trapnell, Gerald Kurth and Bob Thurlwell. The show will be held at the Willamette Valley Horseman's Association rodeo grounds on the South River Road.

(All Photos by Kennell-Ellis Studio).

Lynne Lou Hammerstad on Carnation Blossom will be among the Saddle Club members entering the English pleasure class at the show next Sunday. The show will feature 16 classes with 25 members participating. The grand entry and presentation of colors is scheduled for 1:30 p. m.

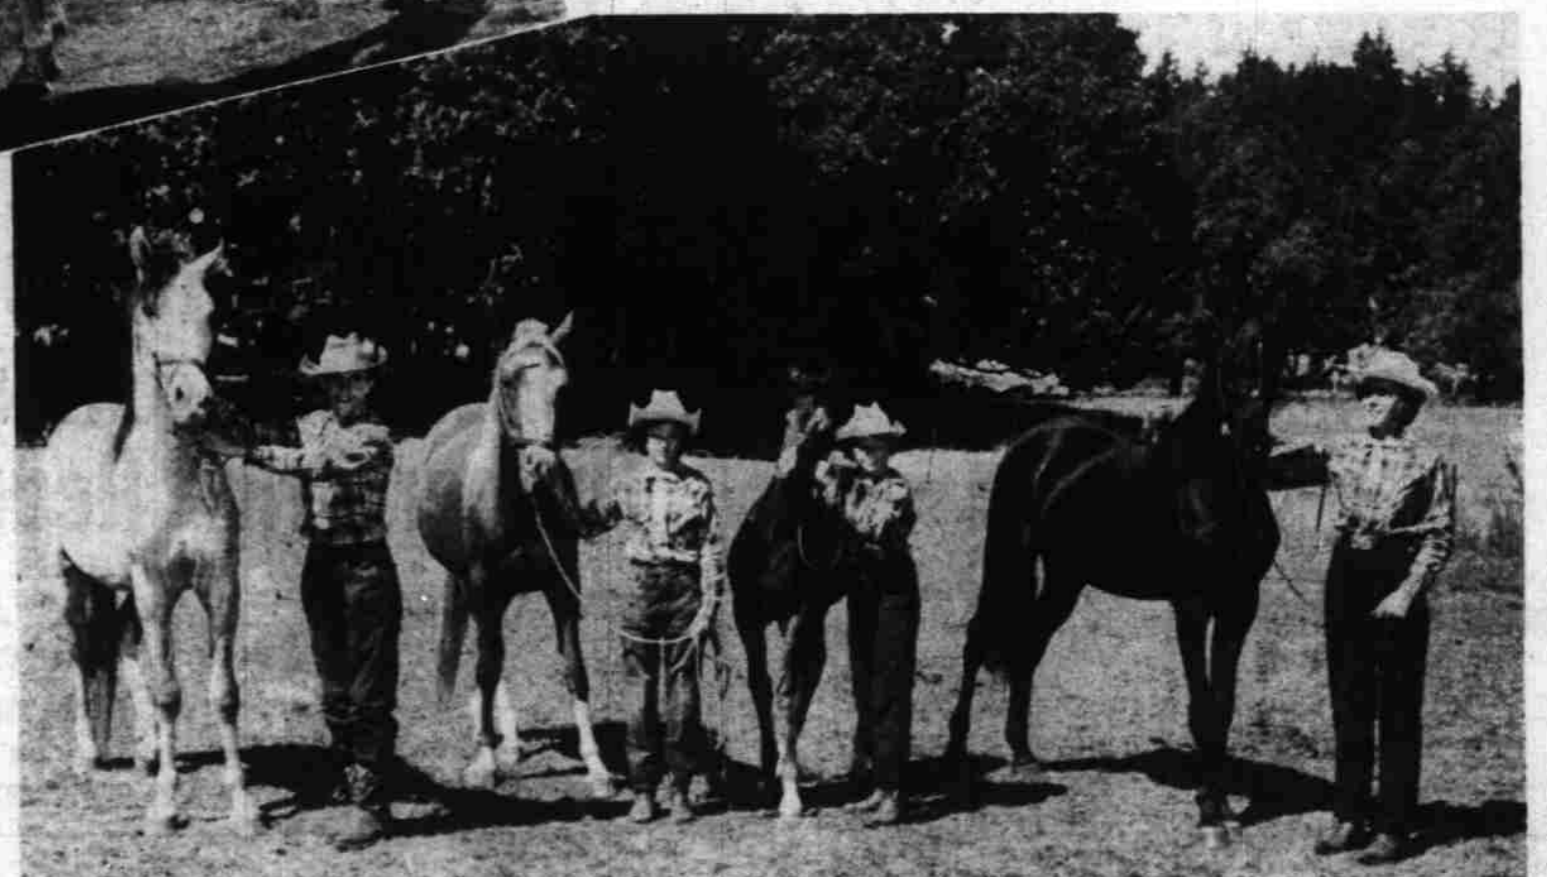

All four children of the A. W. McKillops, including the two year old, ride as a family with their parents. The three eldest children will enter the various classes in the South Salem Junior Saddle Club's show next Sunday. Left to right are Mike, Jeff, Debbie and Dick McKillop.

A feature of the South Salem Saddle Club's show a week from today will be the pony and cart exhibition by the Holly Jacksons' three sons. Pictured above are Ralph and Clark Jackson in their roadster driving Mr. Possum. At the right is Phil Jackson in his roadster and Shetland pony, Miss Princess.

Pictured below are four Saddle Club members with their colts, which will be entered in the colt class at the third annual show on August 21. Left to right are Clayton and Susan Steinke, Cheryl Lee and Bonnie Jean Kurth. The latter is chairman of the show, which will feature western pleasure class, mixed pairs, parade, relay, a Saddle Club drill, cowboy and cowgirl class.

Above is Eleanor Parker on Mekla, who will enter the South Salem Junior Saddle Club's annual show next Sunday. Ages of club members range from 4 to 15. The public is invited to attend the show at the rodeo grounds on the South River Road.

The Ray Cates' twin daughters, Joyce and Judy, will be among the young Saddle Club members participating in the annual show next Sunday. A horsemanship class, for which a trophy is awarded, will be one of the highlights of the day for the junior members.