

PORTLAND—Dutch Kawase, left, Vale High mentor who will assist South Salem's Lee Gustafson in coaching the State All-Stars in Saturday night's 8th annual Shrine prep classic here, gives pointers to a pair of State linemen, Stanton High's tackle Darrell Gohl (center) and South Salem's guard Larry Newsom. Saturday's kickoff will take place at 8:30 p.m., following Shrine pageantry on Multnomah Stadium turf which gets under way at 7:30.

Scheidel Gets Co-Chief Nod

Portlanders Work To Halt Herb Juran

PORTLAND — State players Wednesday elected co-captains for the Shrine All-Star game against the Portland Area team Saturday night.

They are Neal Scheidel, South Salem halfback, and Freeman Cross, tackle from Prineville.

The game is an annual affair with proceeds going to the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children in Portland.

Cross, himself, is a polio victim. He was stricken in 1951 and wore a back brace two years before recovering to become a football standout.

The teams had their final rough workouts Wednesday. Each concentrated on pass defense. The Portland team worked to devise means of stopping the throws of State quarterback Herb Juran.

SPORTSLIGHTNER

This, that, etc.: As hinted here last week, Eugene outfielder Granny Gladstone has been released by both the Emeralds and the parent Portland Beavers, and with him goes the biggest bat in the Emeralds' offense. The Emerald attack is now strictly a one-lung affair. Also, the Emeralds stand to lose shortstop Whitley Thomson this week, as he plans retiring in favor of a regular job. Looks as if Earl Averill, Jr., one of the pro baseball snatches from the U of Oregon, may eventually make the grade after all. Now with Nashville of the fast Southern Association, young Averill, whose daddy left marks to be remembered in the American League with Cleveland, is clubbing at a .330 clip. It's a hard .330 for he has a number of home runs and other extra-base blows.

Ralph Guglielmi's quarterbacking performance in the recent All-Star game at Chicago kept Oregon's George Shaw on the bench throughout the clash, and it was a rather bitter pill to most of the football following natives in the Northwest. The irony of it all comes later, after talking with some of the new members of the New York Giants who played in the Chicago classic. They tell that Guglielmi didn't look at all sharp in the pre-game practice sessions, while Shaw was considerably more outstanding. And by the way, the All-Star offense, which saw both running and passing work against the Cleveland Browns, was installed by Hampton Pool, late of the Los Angeles Rams and second best to Tommy Prothro in the battle for the Oregon State coaching job last spring. The gent who has the reputation of being a fine coach, but one who can't seem to get along with his players, used his old LA Rams offensive patterns against the Browns. The All-Star defense, which also turned in a fine job, was rather familiar to some members of the visiting Giants, for it was installed by "Stout Steve" Owen, who was for years coach of the New Yorkers and was noted for his rock-ribbed defensive system. The Giants en masse will get to see more of Guglielmi this season, for the Gotham Goliaths play the Washington Redskins twice in NFL action.

Both the amount of practice he did beforehand, and how he went about it, paid off for young Bob Prall in the recent OGA Medal golf meet at Vancouver. It was a big win for (Continued on next page)

44,000 Tickets Now Sold For Giants-49ers Pro Go

By AL LIGHTNER Statesman Sports Editor

If Saturday afternoon's weather in the Seattle area is cooperative, one of the largest crowds in the Puget Sound city's history will witness the professional football exhibition clash involving the New York Giants and San Francisco 49ers.

Bob Daley, publicity director for the Giants, returned from Seattle Wednesday with the news that over 44,000 tickets for the game have now been sold. The total may swell to over the 50,000 mark by game time, which is 2 p.m.

Incidentally, Portland TV station KFOR will reportedly carry the game "live" on Saturday. Which means that viewers in the Salem area will be able to see it.

The Giants put in a heavy afternoon Wednesday, with a full-scale scrimmage occupying most of the McCulloch Stadium workout. The squad worked on considerable offense and defense in mid-field, practiced rugged goal-line stands in which the defense outlasted the offense, and then as a finale ran off a few kickoff plays.

Obviously not too pleased with the overall performances, head coach Jim Lee Howell ordered occasional "laps" for the huskies. A "lap" is a fast-moving tour around the practice field, a penalty for practice boo-boos.

Neither Bill Austin nor Ray Beck, both veteran guards, may see action Saturday. Austin is hobbling about on the wounded knee he picked up in last week's Green Bay game, and Beck is handicapped by a pulled groin muscle. Also, Quarterback Bobby Clatterback, who missed the Green Bay game, is still working out only lightly because of a damaged right hand.

All four of the newcomers to the squad—Halfback Joe Heap, Fullback Mel Triplett, and Tackles Roosevelt Grier and Rex Boggan—looked sharp in Wednesday's work even though all are considerably behind the others because of many squad practices they missed while occupied with the recent All-Star game at Chicago. Triplett on offense and Grier on defense were particularly impressive Wednesday.

Broncs' Visit Opens Tonight

'Olympics' Feature Of Series Starter

By AL LIGHTNER Statesman Sports Editor

The unpredictable Waters Field, dashing dandies one week in Northwest League baseball play, and doddering duds the next, continued their latest to-boggan ride last night, blowing the final game of their series with the once-soft Spokane Indians. The score was 6-5, and Eddie Lake's Tribe won it with a run in the ninth inning.

Thus the Injuns swept the three-game series, a rather astonishing development when one notes that Uncle Hugh Luby's lads won 12 of 15 games with the same outfit prior to its recent visit.

Crazy game, this baseball in a youth-infested B league. Bill Dials, toiling in relief, was the victim of the winning run after subduing the Tribe in great shape for three innings. A bloop single by Bill Sheets, a sacrifice and Eddie Murphy's well-authorized grounder, which hopped over Tommy Agosta's head at third base provided the telling tally.

Bud Francis had started the clash, against Lefty Phil Page of the Spokes. Page went 1-0 up in the first on a walk and Nap Gully's eventual single, and then made it 3-0 in the third on Murphy's single and Boss Lake's clout over the left field fence.

Redskins Bop Rams, 31-28

LOS ANGELES — A crowd of 77,935 saw Eddie LeBaron pass for four touchdowns Wednesday night as the Washington Redskins humbled the Los Angeles Rams, 31-28 in their annual exhibition football game for Los Angeles charities.

LeBaron's passing was superlative as he hit Ralph Thomas and Johnny Carson for two touchdowns each. The last one to Carson caught the Rams flatfooted and went half the distance of the field.

There were only 14 seconds left in the first half when Norm Van Brocklin nailed "Seabiscuit" Boyd with a 30-yard pass for a touchdown.

The Rams forged into a 21-17 lead in the third period as Corky Tharp, rookie halfback, got away on a 29-yard sprint for a touchdown, but the Redskins soon were back in the van as LeBaron spotted Johnny Carson and fired a 12-yard pass which Carson took away from defending Hall Haynes.

In the fourth period LeBaron completed a 51-yard pass play to Carson, who got behind the Ram secondary and caught the ball on the 14.

Hurryin' Hugh Worries Boss

MORAGA, Calif. — Head coach Norman (Red) Strader said Wednesday he's taking no chances on two items — Hugh McElhenry's physical condition and the possibility of spies in the San Francisco 49ers' training camp on the St. Mary's College campus.

Strader said McElhenry would play in Saturday's exhibition against the New York Giants at Seattle only if "he's in 100 per cent perfect condition."

"I don't care how badly he wants to play. I'm not going to pitch him to the wolves," Strader said. "If he can do it, if he's in shape, he'll go, but he has to be 100 per cent. I'm not going to risk more serious injury."

McElhenry, former University of Washington star, wrenched one foot on a touchdown run last Saturday night in a game with Pittsburgh at Sacramento.

On the matter of "spies," Strader said he was closing training sessions to the public and posting a guard at the main gate to enforce the rule.

Aussies Pick Davis Lineup

NEW YORK — The same players who fought it out for the Davis Cup in Australia last December will carry the burden again when the United States defends the big international tennis trophy at Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 26-28.

Australia's non-playing captain, Harry Hopman, Wednesday named his four-man team for the challenge round with only one change in the 1954 lineup. To the surprise of no one, Neale Fraser was given the place of Mervyn Rose, who wasn't a member of Australia's official traveling tennis squad this year. The other three named were Lewis Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig.

Valdes Upset By Satterfield

CHICAGO — Bob Satterfield, giving up 32 pounds in weight and a half foot in height, blasted giant Nino Valdes to the floor in a savage last round Wednesday night but could not keep the bleeding Cuban there and settled for a unanimous 10-round decision.

The crowding, lashing Satterfield — a 3 to 1 underdog — appeared tiring in the last four rounds as the two heavyweights mauled each other trying to land their knockout sledges and end the televised Chicago Stadium brawl. But suddenly, the Chicago Negro uncoiled a left hook that caught Valdes flush on the jaw. Satterfield followed with a whistling right to the face.

Valdes plopped to the canvas on his haunches. He was up at the count of five but took a mandatory eight count.

Satterfield bulled in, his fists flailing at the Cuban's face. But Valdes weathered the siege and the bell was throwing all of his 215 pounds behind his punches in one final attempt to connect.

NW Gals Top Golf Tourney

FLORENCE, S.C. — The Pacific Northwest and Oklahoma took over the U.S. Golf Assn.'s seventh annual national girls' championship Wednesday, gaining all four semifinals berths.

Carole Jo Kabler of Roseburg, Ore., and Betsy Cullen of Tulsa, Okla., gained the upper bracket semifinals, the latter after two 1-up victories.

Joining them were Anne Quast of Everett, Wash., and Joanne Gunderson of Seattle, Wash., her conqueror in the 21-hole finals of the Western Junior championship last week at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Miss Kabler eliminated 1954 semifinalist Leona Sayre, Norris-town, Pa., 2 and 1, following a 5 and 4 conquest of Judith Eller, Old Hickory, Tenn.

Boston Clips Yankees, 7-1

Detroit Frustrates Clevelanders, 9-5

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

The still-contending Boston Red Sox reduced New York's American League lead to one game Wednesday night, snapping a seven-game Yankee winning streak 7-1 after Detroit further frustrated third place Cleveland 9-5 in an afternoon game.

Chicago's second place White Sox, idle prior to Thursday's doubleheader with Kansas City, now are just three percentage points behind the Yanks and have a half-game edge on the Indians.

Turley Nailed The Bostonians lowered their fourth place deficit to 3 1/2 games, gangling up on Yankee righthander Bob Turley for five runs in the sixth inning to nail the victory and even their three-game set with New York.

Righthander Ike Delock, a two-time failure against the Yanks this season, held the Bombers to two hits until the seventh when Elston Howard's double and Joe Collins' pinch single scored the Yankee run.

Slambang Sixth Grady Hatton and Jim Piersall started the slambang sixth with back-to-back triples off Turley. Eddie Joost, in the lineup because of Norm Zauchin's injury, walked and Billy Goodman singled to make it 3-0. Ted Williams got an intentional pass following a wild pitch, and with the bases loaded, Jackie Jensen ramed a two-run double to center.

Turley departed with his 11th defeat and rookie Johnny Kucks came on. Shortstop Phil Rizzuto muffed Sammy White's grounder, (Cont'd on next page.)

Seals Wallow Desperately

SAN FRANCISCO — Bob Stevens, baseball writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, wrote Wednesday night that "unless an angel with greenback wings is found between now and the season's end, or shortly thereafter, San Francisco has lost itself a baseball team."

The Seals, in debt and in last place, drew only 466 fans Wednesday night for a game against the cross-bay rivals, the Oakland Oaks.

Stevens wrote that "those reports you've heard about the Seals looking toward the peninsula and the Oakland Acons toward Vancouver, B. C., are not just scuttlebutt."

Swaps to Face Tough Challenge on Saturday

CHICAGO — At least five 3-year-olds will try to beat Swaps in the $100,000 added American Derby Saturday as Rex Ellsworth's sensational colt makes his first competitive start on a grass course. Seeking his eighth straight triumph of the year, Swaps has been brought along methodically by trainer Mish Tenney in workouts over the turf at Washington Park and has taken to the footing as if he owned it.

He worked five furlongs in :59.4, only one fifth of a second off the American turf record for the distance then, last Sunday, stepped seven furlongs in 1:23.8 — one fifth of a second under the mark. There is no reason to believe the Khaled-Iron Reward colt won't be just as impressive in the mile and three-sixteenths venture on the sod with Willie Shoemaker aboard in the American Derby.
